76, MOSTLY CHILDREN, KILLED IN PANIC AS BLAZE STARTS AT MONTREAL MOVIE

POST-SCRIPTS

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

"The ill-timed truth we might have kept—
Who knows how sharp it pierced and stung?
The word we had not sense to say—
Who knows how grandly it had rung?"

The Swami has established several Yogoda centers in this country, but he wants the Christian missionaries kept out of India. We all enjoy monopoly and believe in conversion for the other fellow.

* * * *

Here lies the frigid, rigid form
Of Sergt Maj. Jiggs;
We mourn his loss with many a bitter tear,
And gather round, with solemn sound,
In all our full-dress rigs,
To cast our weep upon his noble bier.
He was no ordinary pup,
Was Sergt. Maj. Jiggs;
A Devil-dog, he knew not how to fear;
But we relate, he met the fate,
Of dogs that eat like pigs—
The moral here, we think, is very clear!

* * * *

When the engineer is killed it's mere child's play to fix the responsibility, so here's a wreck on the New York Central with the regulation verdict.

* * * *

American refugees are already pouring into Shanghai, and judging by the indications their hike has just begun. It's a long worm that has no turning.

* * * *

Welcome, W. C. T. U.!
But what can you good ladies do
That Wheeler hasn't done?
Think you that Wayne and Andrews, too,
And all their under-cover crew,
Are working here for fun?

* * * *

With the leaders of 700,000 organized labor men demanding a modification of the Volstead act to enable wholesome wine and beer to drive poisoned gin out of the American home, Mr. Wheeler's statement that prohibition isn't an issue today may be catalogued along with the balance of his pronunciamentos under "Important if True." If prohibition isn't an issue today what is keeping the W. C. T. U. and the Antisaloon league alive and kicking?

* * * *

The newspapers don't seem to be in any hurry about using Mr. Cramton's philosophy of the Nation's Capital as the basis of the editorial enlightenment of their readers. Mr. Cramton is a sort of a political Gradgrind — "a man of realities; a man of facts and calculations; a man who proceeds upon the principle that two and two are four, and nothing over, and who is not to be talked into allowing for anything over."

* * * *

Aristide Briand is credited with having made former Chancellor Luther laugh for the first time in his life, and when Chairman Butler thinks of the way he was done in at the arms conference it makes him laugh, too, the way Tom Sawyer did when he was eating cornbread and suddenly bit down on some sand.

* * * *

Oh, hang it, The Hague's so far away—why doesn't Calles submit his constitution to Judge Landis?

* * * *

"Alas! regardless of their doom,
The little victims play;
No sense have they of ills to come,
Nor care beyond today."

There is something singularly pathetic when overwhelming tragedy overtakes little children at their play, and this disaster in a burning theater in Montreal, in which more than 75, most of them young people, lose their lives, is horror almost beyond expression. A city which has not forgotten the victims of the Knickerbocker will feel a particularly poignant grief at this sad news.

* * * *

To one who remembers the Northeast and Southeast sections of the city as they were a good many years ago, when Our Town practically ended at Lincoln Park, and open commons extended from Pipetown to the Congressional Cemetery, Col. Oehmann's prophecy of a building boom in those sections sounds a trifle belated. A good many years have passed since the circus could find a camping place East of the Capitol.

Queen Marie has an ambition to write fairy tales, and if she will just publish a book about what she saw in America she can get by with it among the Roumanians.

FOUR KILLED AS BLAST WRECKS ROADHOUSE OF ILLINOIS GANGMAN

Charred Bodies Found in the Ruins of Birger Armed Camp.

TWO SPEEDING AUTOS FLEE DISASTER SCENE

Two of Dead Believed Caretaker and His Wife—Gang Leader Still Is Missing.

Marion, Ill., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—At least four persons were killed late last night when Shady Rest, roadhouse and armed camp of Charles Birger, southern Illinois gang leader, was dynamited and burned to the ground. The bodies, which were charred beyond identification, were brought to the courthouse here today, where they will be held pending an inquest tomorrow.

Birger is supposed to be in Harrisburg, but efforts to reach there by telephone have been unsuccessful. Art Newman, former East St. Louis hotelkeeper and friend of Birger, and his wife have been living at the roadhouse. Neither Newman or his wife or any of the employes of the roadhouse have been seen today. Two of the bodies, however, are believed to be those of Steve George, caretaker, and his wife.

The destruction of the roadhouse and camp was reported to Oren Coleman, sheriff of Williamson county, here this morning by an automobilist. Coleman and George Bell, coroner, with a party of deputies discovered the bodies.

Farmers Heard Explosion.

Farmers living in the vicinity of the roadhouse reported that they heard explosions about midnight in the direction of the camp, and shortly afterward saw flames there. None of them dared to investigate, for fear that they would encounter those who had burned the place.

Shady Rest consisted of a one-story log cabin with basement, a powerhouse and a barbecue stand. The cabin was burned to the ground, the powerhouse had been blown up and the barbecue stand riddled with bullets.

The proprietor of a filling station at Crab Orchard, 7 miles east of here, told Sheriff Coleman today that two automobiles passed his filling station before midnight last night going east in the direction of the roadhouse, and that the same autos returned an hour later going in the opposite direction at a high speed. He said that he did not note the license number of either automobile nor did he recognize any of the occupants.

Birger Still Missing.

Birger, who has been charged in a warrant with complicity in the murder of Joe Adams, mayor of West City, in Franklin county, has not been seen at Harrisburg, his home, since December 27, according to Walter Jackson, chief of police there. A brother-in-law of the gang leader said that he had not seen Birger for two days. Mrs. Birger said this afternoon that she had not seen her husband for some time, and that he had not been home for several days. She said he did not tell her when he left where he was going. Efforts to reach Birger's home by telephone were unsuccessful.

Connie Ritter, a Birger lieutenant, telephoned his mother at West Frankfort tonight that he was not at the roadhouse last night. He did not say where he telephoned from.

SECOND PHYSICIAN TREATING A. B. FALL

Consultation Is Called; Blood Pressure Is Maintained by Cardiac Stimulation.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—A second physician was called into consultation over the illness of A. B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, today. Fall has pneumonia.

Dr. H. T. Safford, Mr. Fall's physician, issued a bulletin this afternoon which said that heart stimulants are being used to maintain his patient's blood pressure. Several days ago it was announced that no more bulletins on Mr. Fall's condition would be issued unless some complication should arise.

The bulletin issued follows:

"The condition of Senator Fall this morning was such that Dr. Hugh Crouse was again called into consultation.

"The blood pressure is being fairly well maintained under cardiac stimulation. The senator's age being considered, his condition may be called satisfactory."

Dr. Crouse was called into consultation first about ten days ago.

High Military Rites Today For Jiggs, Marines' Mascot

Shot From Rioters' Fusillade Narrowly Misses Wife of Admiral Hough—Refugees Tell Tale of Horror—Nationalist Banner Replaces British Flag.

Shanghai, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Refugees arriving here from Hankow report that an American woman was stoned by Chinese rioters during the foreign evacuation of the city January 3 and 4, but escaped with minor injuries. The victim's name was not learned. At the same time it was stated that prior to the evacuation, shots were fired at persons on the golf course, one narrowly missing the wife of Admiral Hough, commander of the American patrol on the Yangtse river.

Sixty American women and children arrived here today from Hankow, where a threatening situation has existed for the past week, forcing the evacuation of many of the foreign residents. Twenty-six missionaries from Kiukiang, where serious disturbances have been going on, also have reached Shanghai. The missionaries assert that about a hundred others are shut up in Kuling and others marooned at Nanchang.

The majority of the Americans from Hankow left with very little money or baggage, and had to be escorted through howling mobs by British marines. All the refugees tell heartrending tales of their sufferings.

A British police officer, one of the refugees, said he ha ddiscussed the seizure of the British concession at Hankow with a high official of the nationalist government, who declared:

"Hankow is only the key. What has happened at that place will happen soon to all the foreign concessions in China."

An American naval officer who witnessed the troubles at Hankow paid a

AUTOMOBILE MISHAPS CLAIM TWO LIVES HERE

A. Schultz, Hit by Taxi, Dies; Maryland Woman Is Struck by Train.

As the result of recent traffic mishaps two persons died in local hospitals yesterday. They are Abraham Schultz, 59 years old, 1426 M street northwest, and Mrs. Edna P. Hymiller, 35 years old, of Sheltonham, Md.

Schultz died in Emergency hospital as the result of injuries received a week ago, when run down by a taxicab at Fourteenth and L streets northwest. Dr. J. Ramsay Nevitt, coroner, ordered an inquest to be held in the death at the District morgue today at 11:30 a. m.

Daniel Mullen, 22 years old, 31 K street northwest, driver of the cab, was held at the Second precinct pending the outcome of the inquest. Following the injury of Schultz, Mullen is said by police to have taken the victim to Emergency hospital and to have reported the incident.

Mrs. Hymiller was riding in an automobile three days ago, which attempted to cross the railroad tracks at Brandywine, Md., and was struck by a train. She was brought to Providence hospital, where she died of injuries on the head and body. Coroner Nevitt issued a certificate of death in order that the body may be taken to the Maryland town for an inquest, if deemed advisable by Maryland authorities.

Man Dies of Monoxide Gas From Motor Car

William B. Brannan, 50 years old, 3403 Dent place northwest, died last evening when overcome by monoxide gas from an automobile in a garage in the rear of 3419 R street northwest. Dr. J. Ramsay Nevitt, coroner, was notified that evidence pointed to accidental death.

According to Detectives John Fowler and John Flaherty, of headquarters, Brannan was found seated in the automobile in the garage by John D. Allan, 3419 R street northwest, who was attracted to the scene by the noise of the running motor. He notified the police and Emergency hospital. Dr. Harold Smith, of the hospital staff, pronounced the man dead.

ONE KILLED IN WRECK OF TWENTIETH CENTURY

Two Sections of Fast New York Central Train in Collision.

New York, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Two Limited, famous New York Central sections of the Twentieth Century train, were in rear-end collision at Savannah station, West of Syracuse, early today in a fog. The engineer of the fourth section was killed and his fireman seriously injured. Several passengers suffered minor injuries and all except Arthur Kennedy, of Oakland, Calif., were able to continue their journey. Kennedy suffered ankle injuries which required medical attention.

The engineer killed was Walter Scoville, of Buffalo. The injured fireman is Stanley Henderson, also of Buffalo.

These facts were announced by the New York Central here. Its account of the wreck said the fourth section of the train, eastbound and carrying passengers for Boston and New England points, ran into the third section, eastbound with passengers for New York near Savannah station, 31 miles west of Syracuse. Only the club car, engine tender and engine truck wheels of the fourth section were derailed.

A preliminary investigation, the company's statement said, indicated that the flagman of the third section had given the proper warning signals and that it appeared that Engineman Scoville had failed to obey these as well as the "caution" and "stop" indications of the automatic signals.

Scoville was 49 years old and had been an engineer for 20 years.

Woman Kills 3 Bears, Wolf and a Wildcat

Special to The Washington Post.

Wabeno, Wis., Jan. 9.—Mrs. W. J. Pireaux, yesterday established a reputation as the champion huntress of the North woods by bringing in three black bears, a wildcat and a wolf, all of which she brought down within the space of a week near Torpee creek. Her husband bagged a fourth black bear and a red fox.

WORLD WAITS OPEN ACT IN NICARAGUAN THEATER BY CALLES

Mexican President Now Chief Role in Crisis Involving U. S.

ARBITRATION OFFER SEEN AS PROPAGANDA

Danger for This Nation Predicted if Case Is Taken to The Hague.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Calles of Mexico now has assumed the chief role in the international crisis involving the United States, Nicaragua and Mexico.

It is conceded here that the next developments in the highly volatile situation depend primarily on the program which the Mexican president elects to follow. He can abandon his dream of setting up a communistically-inclined Calles influence in opposition to American influence in Nicaragua and Central America and likewise heed the warning that American lives and property must be protected. Or, he can step into the international spotlight and make a bold bid to go down in history as the Latin-American Lenin. The choice is his, according to officials here, and the gravity of the situation results from the fear that Calles will choose the latter course.

According to latest reports, the Calles game in Nicaragua is badly disrupted, thanks to the presence of American warships, bluejackets and marines. The Diaz government is recognized as the government of Nicaragua by the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Spain, Salvador and Honduras and other governments are preparing to follow suit.

The Sacasa revolutionists are recognized as the government of Nicaragua by Mexico, or, more specifically, by President Calles of Mexico. The Diaz government is functioning, has protection from the factions bent on disruption as well as protection from armed assistance which Mexicans sought to utilize. In fact, the battle between Mexican and American influence in Nicaragua is over, according to the consensus. But officials and diplomats admit anxiety over Calles' next move. It is not the habit of a man of Calles' type to yield gracefully to the inevitable, it is conceded.

May Prefer Overt Act.

If Calles still hopes to carve his name on the new hall of fame of a communistically-inclined Latin-American doctrine he may prefer to precipitate some overt act in connection with the Nicaraguan situation rather than to admit that the United States has asserted an influence for peace, stability and constitutional government which will control the situation despite Mexican opposition.

In addition to the fear of precipitating an overt act in Nicaragua, there is another danger spot where a spark from Calles may ignite an international powder magazine. That is in connection with the threatened confiscation of $1,500,000,000 worth of American property in Mexico, or some part of it, and the danger of jeopardizing American lives which might result from the attempt to carry out this policy.

Apparently Calles hesitates to act before feeling more assured that the United States government would refrain from actually putting into execution the policy which President Coolidge has adopted with respect to protec-

WHITE HOUSE GUEST DIES ON WAY HOME

President Sends Condolences on Death of Former Gov. Clement of Vermont.

Philadelphia, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Percival W. Clement, 80, former governor of Vermont, died of heart disease today at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel here, while on his way from Washington to his home in Rutland.

(By the Associated Press.)

A message of condolence was sent last night by President Coolidge to Miss Elizabeth W. Clement, whose father, former Gov. Percival W. Clement of Vermont, died in Philadelphia. It said:

"Your message telling me of the death of your distinguished father, Hon. Percival W. Clement, gives me a sense of grave loss. He was my friend. He never failed to show his regard for me. I shall always remember the call you and he made on me last week. For many years he has been an important figure. It was a satisfaction to have him governor of Vermont when I was governor of Massachusetts. Mrs. Coolidge joins me in expressing sympathy to you and all his family."

ELECTIONS FAIL TO SHIFT FRENCH SENATE PARTIES

Former President Millerand Eliminated From Active Politics by Defeat.

SINGLE COMMUNIST WINS

Paris, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—One-third of the members of the French senate were elected today without gain or loss to the parties of the left or the right. The elections passed unnoticed excepting as they marked the elimination of former President Millerand from active politics. He was defeated on the second ballot.

Raoul Peret, president of the chamber of deputies, was elected to the senate, and this will necessitate balloting in the chamber for a new president. Victor Boret, who was food minister in the Clemenceau war cabinet, was elected on the same list with M. Peret.

The president of the senate, M. de Salves, who as minister of foreign affairs broke with Premier Caillaux over Morocco, was eliminated from the field. Louis Bartou, M. Caillaux, Leon Berard, Victor Dalbiez, Justin Godart, Jules Pams, Paul Dupuy and Pierre Laval, former ministers, were among those returned.

One lone communist, Emile Bachelet, in the Seine department, succeeded in breaking into the charmed circle of the French senate. He came just ahead of Senator Steeg, who owes his reelection to the communist and socialist voters switching over to him as a protest against Millerand's policy in the Riff.

The radicals elected 52 out of 108 seat, but, to quote the words of an ancient usher, who has been employed in the senate for 40 years: "It matters not what tag they place on them when they enter here they immediately become good old conservative senators."

2 Killed in East Side Battle of Gunmen

New York, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Two unidentified men were killed tonight in a fusilade of revolver shots on the lower East Side that set the neighborhood in a panic.

Two revolvers, each with six empty cartridges, were found near the scene of the shooting on Attorney street near Houston street. The assailants escaped.

Athens, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—The government has decided to accept Henry Ford's offer to start a motor manufactory at Phaleroh, provided the machinery and material are transported to Greece on Greek steamers.

TRAPPED IN TURN OF STAIR, LITTLE ONES SUFFOCATE

Bodies Wedged So Tight Firemen Are Forced to Cut Through Outside Walls and Woodwork to Remove the Victims.

FIRST DISORDER AS FLAME IS SEEN QUIETED; THEN COMES THE FATAL RUSH

Nearly All Dead Under 18 Years; 15 Die in Hospitals; Injured Boy Worried Only Over Parents' Safety; Morgue Scenes Are Pitiful.

Montreal, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Seventy-six lives were the toll exacted today by a fire panic in the Laurier Palace movie theater in the East End. Most of the victims were little children, who had made up the bulk of the Sunday matinee audience. Few were injured by the comparatively trivial fire, but caught in fear-stricken jams about the exits, many were suffocated.

So tightly wedged were the bodies that rescuing squads of firemen were unable to gain entrance. A stairway giving egress from the main floor was clogged with small bodies. Efforts were made to break the jam by the woodsmen method of tying a rope to the "key" body of the wedge and hauling away. Twenty men were unable to stir the mass.

The firemen then cut a hole through a street wall and passed the bodies back down a chain of hands.

First Panic Is Overcome.

The theater was designed to seat 1,100 persons and it was said to have been well filled today. At 2 o'clock with the afternoon program barely under way, a wisp of smoke appeared and a pink tongue of flame licked from the projection room beneath a balcony.

The wandering eye of a boy in the audience saw the flicker and he screamed and pointed. A stampede ensued, but, according to early reports, it was quickly stilled at three of the four exits. Through three doors, the patrons made their way hurriedly, but in fairly good order. At the fourth, opening on stairs on the east side of the building, dozens of children were caught in an inextricable mass.

Usher Tosses Out Nine Bodies.

An usher, making his way to the rear of the struggling, screaming mass, broke a nearby window and began tossing out the bodies nearest him. Nine he counted but later expressed fear that they "all were dead."

Nearby stores and dwellings were pressed into service as emergency hospitals in order that the little sufferers might be removed from biting cold. Here ambulance surgeons from each city hospital, supplemented by an ever-increasing force of volunteers, examined each victim brought from the building. Those requiring more radical treatment than possible on the scene were removed to the city institutions. Fifteen died in one hospital.

Pitiful Scene in Morgue.

Hours after the last wisp of steam had subsided from the small burned area in the theater, ambulances continued to hurry from the numerous temporary hospitals either to the general institutions or to the city morgue.

At the morgue, in long lines, lay more than three score bodies, most of them pitifully immature. At least another score, among them only a few adults, were in four general hospitals.

All through the afternoon the toll mounted and until late tonight fathers and mothers and elder sisters and brothers made a pilgrimage from hospital to hospital, to the Gray building with the gay posters still flying in the lobby, and then again to the hospitals, seeking some still missing "baby."

Virtually all the dead were taken from the stairway barely 30 feet long, leading from the eastern end of the theater gallery to the street.

Ten minutes encompassed the whole tragedy.

From the crisp January sunshine, troops of rosy cheeked youngsters had crowded to the early show, their anticipation whetted by vivid posters outside barely hinting the thrills of the broad comedy on the program.

Children Hurry Out.

Both the pit and the low gallery were well filled and the entering bustle had but died down when the cry of "fire" echoed through the house. Later reports questioned that a boy patron had screamed, but declared it was an usher who shouted to those on the lower floor to take their time in reaching the doors leading at once to the street. There was not the semblance of disorder in the orchestra, the management reported. From the gallery, however, a tide of children was flowing toward the twin stairs leading to the sidewalk.

The western stairway was clear, and the situation seemed equally good on the eastern stairway when something blocked the flow.

Perhaps a boy or girl in the van, pressed suddenly from the rear, stumbled and fell. Behind were serried ranks and panic seized those in the still more distant rear. There was a surge and the stairway became a near-solid, suffocating, groaning, shrieking and dying mass.

Firemen and policemen were on the spot instantly. The blaze became secondary. Many of the children were rescued from the jam, though 20 men pulling on a constable's sturdy leather belt could not snatch one little fellow from death.

Holes Are Chopped Through.

Practiced eyes saw the need for heroic measures. Holes were chopped through the wooden stairs, directly under the jam of bodies; another hole was made in a wall. Firemen formed a human chain, and gradually undermined the mass.

Most of those taken from this stairway already were dead. But now and then—very infrequently—the massed figures would stir and moan. These were passed to the quickly assembled doctors and their emergency kits and to the priests, stopping to administer last rites to young communicants.

Lines of police, thrown quickly around the theater block, held off crowds of parents who insisted their children still were in the building. Firemen and medical forces quickly established information centers and either the four hospitals or the morgue soon was able to answer anxious queries.

In each mortuary chamber the crucifix topped an unforgetable scene. Under the brilliant lights, stretched on the shining, gray-tinted floors, lay the price of that stairway jam.

Bright red mufflers, green sweaters, round-toed little shoes, touching tousled hair in the next rank, upraised fists, chubby faces, some wrinkled and distorted. Relatives were admitted two or three at a time.

Probably unparalleled was the scene in Coroner McMahon's court. Over the last 40 years McMahon has officiated in sudden deaths in Montreal growing out of crime and accident. He called a special term today to permit relatives to claim the bodies of their dead.

Stretched before his bench, a long line of taut-faced or weeping fathers and mothers waited each their turn to answer the simple questions which would assert their right to remove the body.

The coroner usually put just two questions: Did an adult accompany the

C. E. WOODS BACKERS FOR I. C. C. TO SEEK VICTORY IN DELAY

Will Apply Healing Salve of Time and Patronage to Overcome Opposition.

MINORITY POSTS VACANT ON TWO COMMISSIONS

Report of Committee on Nominations to Be Held Off for Month.

By NORMAN W. BAXTER.

Republican leaders in the Senate, interested in the nomination of Cyrus E. Woods, of Pennsylvania, to the Interstate Commerce Commission, plan now to apply the healing salve of time and patronage to the caustic criticism of the Pennsylvanian which has been voiced before the interstate commerce committee of the Senate during the past week.

Opponents of the man selected by Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, for a place on the government's rate-making body have poured all of the opposition that they could muster against Mr. Woods before the Senate committee. Representatives of the States of Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee have expressed the conviction that their rights in the lake cargo case would be jeopardized by the selection of the Pennsylvania public servant and diplomat.

The committee itself is a decidedly hostile body and members of it have made the prediction that the nomination of Mr. Woods would not be reported favorably. Administration leaders in the Senate have seen the same signs in the temper of the committee, but they appear to be little concerned because of that fact. They believe that they have a program to meet just such a situation, effective before and calculated to be equally workable now.

Count on Long Delay.

The first step is to let the name of Mr. Woods remain in the committee without definite action in the form of a report to the Senate until some time late in February. The interval will enable the heat of opposition to cool and give Senate leaders time to see if they can employ the proper bait to bring some of the opponents round to a more agreeable frame of mind.

Since the Woods case is a question of patronage the same medium will be used in an effort to bring about a solution favorable to the Pennsylvanian and the Pennsylvania member, Senator Reed, who precipated the struggle by his selection of Mr. Woods.

There are at the present time available for the purposes at hand minority places upon both the Federal Trade Commission and the United States tariff commission. Deserving Democrats will fill these places and what is more logical than to believe that a deserving Democrat is one suggested by a deserving Democratic senator. No man who opposes the desires of the administration can fall in the latter classification.

Local Patronage Involved.

There is a suggestion among Republican senators that a good many of their colleagues on the other side of the aisle are interested in seeing that these minority appointments are well and suitably filled. The representatives of some of the States now so actively arrayed against Mr. Woods are included in this list, but it is regarded as an axiom of politics that the reward will not be bestowed unless some favor is extended in return.

There are, moreover, some questions of local patronage that can be delayed while the Senate considers and reconsiders its judgment in the Woods case. There are now before the Senate such matters as district attorneyships, marshals and judgeships in the Southern States where the opposition against Mr. Woods is centered and though it is not the practice of the Senate to interfere unduly in such matters it can either expedite or delay confirmation at its pleasure.

It is probable, therefore, that in the time that intervenes before any effort is made to get full Senate action upon the name of Mr. Woods that a good many of the senators now opposed to his elevation will have ample opportunity to contrast the fruits of opposition and acquiescence.

For the Senate to proceed along such lines is neither strange nor novel. There was a tremendous fight against the nomination of Thomas F. Woodlock. The leader in that onslaught was the same Senator Reed who is now the joint target of the attack against Mr. Woods. The Pennsylvania senator insisted that he would never yield in his determination to keep Mr. Woodlock off the commission and charged at the time that the State of Pennsylvania, stanch in its Republicanism, was not being awarded the fair share of patronage to which it was entitled.

There came a visit to the White House, and the battle was abandoned by Senator Reed. Then when the next opportunity arose a Pennsylvanian was selected for the commission. Democrats have charged that this was the result of a direct bargain through which Senator Reed was induced to abandon his fight against Woodlock.

This accusation is, however, only the most recent one. It has been made before, and the Senate has merely winked unofficially at such accusations. It is one of the ways of transacting the business of "bestowing" patronage, as ancient as the political largess itself.

It is to be applied by administration men to the Woods case in the belief that it will prove to have the same charm that it has in the past.

GOULD STORY DENIED BY FORMER PREMIER

Never Discussed the Election Fund With Lisman, Says J. K. Fleming.

Fredericton, New Brunswick, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—J. K. Fleming, former premier of New Brunswick, tonight said that testimony of United States Senator Arthur R. Gould, of Maine, before the Senate subcommittee on elections investigating Gould's election as printed in Canadian papers of January 8, was "full of misstatements."

He denied that Mr. Gould or any of his assistants in the St. John & Quebec Railway Co. were compelled to pay anything in connection with construction of the railroad. They contributed to campaign funds in 1912, he said, but "such was a contribution and a voluntary one.

"I have no recollection of ever meeting F. J. Lisman in a bank or shaking hands with him in any bank, and I never discussed any election contribution with Mr. Lisman in my life," he said. Mr. Gould had testified that he had seen F. J. Lisman, of New York, one of his partners, shaking hands with Premier Fleming in a bank. Mr. Gould was quoted as saying that Mr. Lisman later told him that handshake had meant the payment of $100,000.

Man Leaps to Death From Highway Bridge

Leaving a taxicab in which he was riding, a colored man, believed to have been Anthony S. Lucas, 30 years old, 2117 Eleventh street northwest, last night leaped from Highway bridge into the icy waters of the Washington channel 50 feet below.

According to George Day, the driver of the taxicab, he went to 1108 North Capitol street and took the colored man into his cab. When he was opposite the draw of the bridge, the man stopped the cab and ran to the railing, climbed over and jumped. Police of the harbor precinct dragged the river for more than an hour, but their efforts were unsuccessful. They will resume the dredging this morning at 8 o'clock. The man's identity was assumed from a driver's permit found in a pocketbook he dropped.

FORDS, NOT BISHOPS, NEED OF INDIA, SAYS SWAMI YOGANANDA

Emissaries of Industry, Rather Than Missionaries Wanted, He Tells 5,000.

PSYCHOLOGIST WEARS ORANGE ROBE OF "BLISS"

East Develops Brain, While West Emphasizes Material Things, Audience Told.

This country best can benefit India by sending "missionaries of industry" rather than religious missionaries, Swami Yogananda, Indian psychologist and metaphysician, declared last night in the first of a series of lectures at the Washington auditorium.

The Swami made it plain that of the "East and West" it is the East that surpasses in spiritual thought and the West that surpasses in material accomplishment. The two could benefit each other, he declares, by mutually supplying their own peculiar excellences. He said:

"Send to India the contributions of your Edisons and your Fords, but until the Pope and the bishop of Canterbury can exchange pulpits keep your religious missionaries at home."

The swami was impressive in his orange robe and long hair. The orange robe is significant of the "bliss," which he described as the natural quality of the soul. It is a combination of red, significant of power, and of yellow, significant of peace.

5,000 Hear Lecture.

Approximately 5,000 persons crowded the auditorium to hear his initial lecture, "Everlasting Youth," in which he emphasized the proposition of a medium between the material, or power, and the spiritual, or peace.

Both the East and West, he said, make an effort to emphasize their points of difference, in which there is a mutual lack of understanding. He declared that in India before coming to this country he had heard stories of America as ridiculous as those we hear in this country of India.

He represented himself as a "teacher of India," as a man bringing India's message to the West, a spiritual message, which he emphasized is more properly India's massage to the West than any spiritual message the West might bring to India. Several times he quoted scripture, explaining a saying which he declared the West is unable to interpret.

India, he declared, has organized the brain, disciplined it, taught it control while the men of the Occident have organized the outward, material world. India's propensity, he said, has brought physical laziness, and the particular trend of Western endeavor has brought spiritual blindness.

Control Own Lives.

The East, he explained, has developed "psychological devices" by which the individual may better control his own life, and attain the objective of bliss, which he described as the natural state. The mind, he asserted, usually has three states, that of joy, sorrow and indifference.

The latter breeds dullness. However, he explained, "bliss" properly means a continually recurrent joy that never dies. This is attained, he said, by the "psychological devices." He declared that the body may be developed in such a way that it will grow "fatigueless," and that, in a final stage, the soul may detach itself from the body.

He declared the miracle of Christ's rising from the dead is entirely natural, according to this explanation. Christ, he said, had learned the secret of dematerializing the body, thus passing into another state, a spiritual state, and he compared this to a candle passing into flame.

He explained that the material world is forever changing, and asked the audience if any of them could name anything pertaining to the human body that did not change. Several answered, one suggesting "heart," but he replied that the heart changed as did the face, another "soul," but he asked "What is soul?" There was no answer. He then explained that there is only one thing about the human body that does not change, the "ego." The Swami has established several "Yogoda" centers in this country, and this sect embodies his teaching.

CAPITAL DIVINE OPENS CRUSADE OF BISHOPS

New York, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—The nation-wide crusade of the bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church, intended to quicken the Christians' feelings toward religion, was launched here today by Bishop James E. Freeman, of Washington.

Too many organizations and mechanisms, especially in the city parishes, embarrass the church today, Bishop Freeman said in speaking at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. The question confronting the church is concerned, he said, chiefly with the economy and efficiency of its ministry.

"If we have piped to the people and they have not danced, we have piped the wrong strain," he continued.

Inquest by Coroner In Seibert Case Today

A coroner's jury will convene at the District morgue this morning at 11 o'clock to determine responsibility for the death of Thomas H. Seibert, 21 years old, 1817 Nineteenth street northwest, who was injured fatally December 21, when automobiles driven by Johannes G. Bryn, 24, 2137 R street northwest, son of the Norwegian Minister, and William Munn, 22, 2935 Upton street northwest, collided at Connecticut avenue and S street.

Seibert died twelve hours after the accident in Emergency hospital. His skull had been fractured. The inquest was delayed to allow David M. Barkley, 22 years old, son of United States Senator-elect Alben Barkley, of Kentucky, and Bryn to recover from injuries received in the accident. Seibert and Berkley were passengers in the automobile driven by Bryn.

Home of Grant, Lee, Diaz And Taylor Being Razed

Brownsville, Tex., Jan. 9 (By A. P.)—A building here which at intervals housed two Presidents of the United States, one president of Mexico and one renowned Southern general in the civil war is being demolished to make room for a modern apartment house and a filling station.

Erected in the late "forties," the building at intervals was the home of U. S. Grant, Zachary Taylor and Robert E. Lee, and later was the headquarters from which Porfirio Diaz, for many years president of Mexico, launched his successful revolution.

Practically all the interior woodwork, as well as the fence is mahogany, brought from southern Mexico. The structure has been called the "President's home."

Taylor was commander of the army which invaded Mexico and established his headquarters here in 1846. Grant was a lieutenant of infantry under him. Lee made it his headquarters in 1853 and 1854 when he was commander of Fort Brown and Fort Ringgold.

WOMEN DRY LEADERS COMING TO CAPITAL

President of W. C. T. U. Calls Conference to Meet Here January 25 to 27.

Chicago, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—A general conference of several hundred women leaders of the prohibition movement, to be held in Washington, D. C., January 25-27, has been called by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, it was announced at the headquarters of that organization in Evanston today.

Several outstanding authorities on scientific temperance education, the economics of prohibition and political strategy in the recent wet and dry fights in various States, also have been summoned to the conference by Mrs. Boole. W. C. T. U. leaders at the conference will discuss a definite plan to offset the "wet offensive," it was added. Among the topics to be discussed is the wet objection to the government's rending industrial alcohol unfit for human consumption.

The general objects of the conference were announced as promotion of law observance, study of its problems and legislation to aid it. The conference will be addressed by dry leaders in both branches of Congress and also by Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews and Dr. A. W. Doran, chief chemist of the government's prohibition unit.

Capt. John A. Stilman Dead at Baltimore

Baltimore, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Capt. John A. Stilman, president of the Maryland Drydock Co., 49, died here today. He was in charge of government fleet construction work during the war and was formerly naval constructor at the Boston navy yard.

He was graduated as an honor man in the Naval Academy class of 1900. He was born in Warrenton, Va.

ARLINGTON COUNTY TO DEBATE FILLING PLUMBING OFFICE

Supervisors to Consider Ordinance Offered in December at Meeting Today.

PROGRESS OF WATER SYSTEM ALSO ON LIST

Glebewood Citizens Plan Extension of Bus Service Along Glebe Road.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Consideration of appointment of a plumbing inspector, in accordance with an ordinance offered at the December meeting of the Arlington county board of supervisors, will be among the many problems to come before the meeting of the board to be held at the Clarendon courthouse today. Other questions to be discussed will be recommendations to come from the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemens association and the County Civic federation for the appointment of a fire marshal who would have authority to see that the fire ordinances as passed by the supervisors are enforced, and the progress being made in connection with the installation of the county water system.

The board will convene at 10 a. m. at which time bills will be approved and payed. The afternoon session, which will convene at 2 o'clock, will be devoted to the receiving of delegations from the various civic organizations and the passage of the several problems which will be before the board for their approval.

Stepping from behind a bus on Wilson boulevard and Spruce street yesterday morning, Charles Bellfield, 23 years old, of 6 Holly street, Clarendon, was struck by an automobile. He was taken to his home, where he was treated by Dr. W. C. Welburn, of Ballston, who found he had a broken right arm.

With damage estimated at $400 to hose of the Ballston fire department at the fire of the Penn Oil Co. at Rosslyn last Monday night, caused by automobiles driving over it, efforts will be made by the department to have the board of supervisors pass ordinances which would protect the fire company's property.

Efforts to have bus service extended from Ashton Heights along the Glebe road will come before the meeting of the Glebewood Citizens' association tomorrow night. The association will act on the invitation to become members of the Arlington district advisory council.

Printed ballots similar to those used at the county elections will be used at the election of the officers of the auxiliary to the Jefferson district fire department to be held at the firemen's hall tomorrow night. This method of voting has been chosen by the officials of the organization in order that the voters may familiarize themselves with the methods used at county elections.

J. C. McClellam, newly elected president of the Virginia Highlands Citizens association, gives out the following as delegates to the Arlington County Civic Federation: H. M. Wilson, Louis Spangler and A. D. Davis; alternates are R. Bearse, R. Reeve and L. J. Hinman.

Chairman H. E. Stelle, of the special committee from the Lyon Village Citizens association, which is arranging for the play entitled "The Arlington County Follies," to be staged early in March, announces there will be a special meeting of all interested in the giving of the play tomorrow night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Crounse.

Plans for attending the hearing in the reopening of the case of the Aurora Hills Utility Corporation regarding the increased water rates which were granted the company at Richmond will be discussed at the meeting of the Aurora Hills Civic league to be held in the Calvary Methodist Protestant church tonight at 8 o'clock.

The Edward Douglass White council, No. 2473, Knights of Columbus, will give a card party and dance in the auditorium of St. Charles school tonight.

According to the directors of the Aurora Heights Sanitary Corporation, a special tapping rate into the community sewer of $175 has been extended until April 1. Plans are under way for an intensive membership campaign to arrange for the completion of the community sewer this spring.

Trial of Garibaldi Is Set for January 20

Paris, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Capt. Ricciotti Garibaldi, grandson of the Italian patriot, who was arrested early in November at Nice for alleged connection with Spanish and Italian plots, will go on trial on January 20. The charges against him, however, have simmered down and he will be tried only on one alleging illegal possession of arms and the manufacture and distribution of explosives.

Col. Macia and sixteen others concerned in the so-called plots will go on trial at the same time and on a similar charge.

The arrest of Garibaldi, Macia and their alleged fellow conspirators in what was at first declared to be an effort toward liberating Spain, caused a sensation.

Warmer Weather Will Follow Snow

Despite the occasional snow that dribbled down yesterday, and the gloomy, lowering clouds, the weather man promises rising temperatures today, bringing relief from the cold that maintained during the latter half of last week.

The lowest temperature this morning will be 25 degrees, according to the weather bureau, or several degrees higher than the lowest for yesterday morning. However, the forecast is for continued cloudiness, although there is no indication of rain or a downfall of snow.

ATTACK BY LIBERALS ON LEON, NICARAGUA, EXPECTED ANY TIME

MARINES MOBILIZING AT BASE IN SAN DIEGO

Tropical Kits Issued; Has No Bearing on Strife, Lejeune Says.

San Juan del Sur, Nicaragua, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Passengers arriving from Corinto report an attack by liberals on Leon is expected at any moment.

The commander of the U. S. S. Galveston, in reply to a request from local authorities, declared he saw no necessity of landing marines. The Galveston left San Juan this morning, apparently to patrol the Pacific coast.

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Las Perlas, the scene of the recent battle between the conservatives and the liberals on the east coast, has been declared a neutral zone. American sailors landed yesterday without incident.

Rear Admiral Latimer, commanding the American naval forces, has taken steps to prevent any one from landing arms except the Nicaragua conservative government.

Reports reaching Managua state that before evacuation of Nandaime, on the Pacific side, 30 liberals sacked the stores, killing Irineo Quintenela, a prominent conservative.

Assembling in West.

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Wartime activity hummed around the marine base today as organization of the expeditionary battalion ordered by Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler got underway, with the assignment of officers and men to the four companies making up the unit. It was expected the battalion would be ready to proceed anywhere by tomorrow night.

Returning mail guards began arriving at the base this afternoon for duty with the expeditionary force, which is to consist of 23 officers and 467 men. In all 179 mail guards have been assigned to duty with the battalion, and the other 288 men will be drawn from the local base. Marines on duty at the rifle range and various naval units in this vicinity have been called back to the base and a detachment of men also is en route from the marine barracks at New Orleans.

Tropical kits are being issued to the men. Although no orders for movement of the battalion have been received as yet.

Mobilizing for Emergency.

(By the Associated Press.)

Mobilization of a "stand by" battalion of marines at San Diego, Calif., is being effected in order to have a force ready for any emergency, Maj. Gen. Lejeune, commandant of the marine corps, said last night.

Declaring the mobilization had no bearing on the disturbed situations in Mexico, Nicaragua and China, Gen. Lejeune said transfer of a battalion from Guantanamo to Nicaragua made it necessary to have another force available "in event of emergency." The Guantanamo battalion, he said, was the only one ready for instant service and that in assembling the new force he acted in accordance with customary procedure.

Will Rogers Sees Humor at Capitol Ruining His Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Ind., Jan. 9.—You want to know why we are so funny to the rest of the world. Here we are sending warships to tell Nicaragua who to seat after their election and we haven't got a senator that was elected here last fall that will be allowed to sit down. I wish I was as funny as that.

My opposition is getting unusually keen in Washington just in the last few days. The Mayor is being driven slowly into the drama.

MR. ROGERS.

P. S. What did you do, father, in the great war of Nicaragua?

Mexico Reinforces Its Border Patrols

Brownsville, Tex., Jan. 9 (By A. P.). All Mexican border patrols operating in the Matamoros military zone, across the Rio Grande from here, are being reinforced. Additional troops have arrived from interior points to reinforce the Matamoros garrison.

The heavy patrols are designed to prevent smuggling of arms or ammunition across the Rio Grande, as well as to prevent the crossing of revolutionary bands. Matamoros army officials said today. They declared that rumors of revolutionary activities in the state of Tamaulipas were without foundation.

Nitroglycerine Blast May Have Cost Lives

Wichita Falls, Tex., Jan. 9 (By A. P.). Five hundred and sixty quarts of nitroglycerine in the Morrisey Torpedo Co. vault north of this city exploded late last night. The caretaker of the vault and his family were believed to have been killed.

U. S. PLAYING BULLY TOWARD NICARAGUA, SAYS PEACE TALKER

Policy With Mexico Also Is Unjustified, F. J. Libby Tells Audience.

WRONG MAN SUPPORTED BY AMERICA, HE AVERS

State Department Adjunct of British Government, C. E. Russell Charges.

Charges that the United States is bullying Nicaragua, that she is supporting the wrong Nicaraguan president, and that her entire foreign policy toward Nicaragua and Mexico is unjustified, were made by, Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, last night in Friends meeting house, 1911 I street northwest.

Sacasa is rightfully the president of Nicaragua, according to the constitution of that country, Libby said, and read extracts to support his assertion. The United States was the main factor that made Diaz president, and the State Department is supporting a man put in power by a rump convention and is resolved to protect American interests that do not exist, regardless of the method, he said.

The cry of communism in Mexico is rank propaganda fostered by the State Department, he charged. Mexico is not directed by Moscow. It is only a wave of ultra nationalism that is sweeping Mexico, he said, and the American oil interest is the real cause of the strife. He asserted the issue is whether or not the Mexican law is retroactive.

There is a difference between the Latin law and the American law, and by showing his willingness to settle the matter by arbitration before The Hague tribunal, President Calles has taken the only step; war would never settle the issue, Libby said. A war of conquest would follow and the United States would take the place in the eyes of the world that Germany recently held, he declared.

Brings Up Religious Issue.

The religious issue is not ground for war, Libby declared, although the contents of the pamphlets being distributed by the Knights of Columbus for the Catholic cause are apt to fan the flame of hatred, he said. Such incidents that might precipitate a war must be guarded against, he asserted. The United States should pursue the same policy with Mexico and Nicaragua that she is following with China, he said.

Linn A. E. Gale, secretary of the Secular league, at a meeting of the league yesterday, charged that Kellogg was adopting a bullying attitude and an imperialistic policy toward Mexico and Nicaragua and urged that members of the league send telegrams to senators and representatives condemning this intervention. Samuel Saloman answered Gale, saying the intervention was justifiable because Mexico was making war on Nicaragua.

Charles Edward Russell charged that the State Department was an adjunct to the British government and that it is playing hand in glove with England. Russell spoke at a meeting of the Kevin Barry council of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic. Great Britain is the world's greatest bully, an oppressor of the weak, an international pirate, he charged.

WORLD WAITS OVERT ACT BY MEXICO HEAD

tion of American lives and property. On the other hand, Calles has given no indication to the government of the United States of a readiness to retreat on any of the points at issue.

The Calles statement to a group of American volunteer social workers who visited him at Mexico City on Saturday, to the effect that he would submit the new petroleum and land law differences to arbitration at The Hague is taken with more than a grain of salt by responsible officials here.

In the first place, no such offer ever has been made to the government of the United States, so that the Calles' statement naturally appears more in the light of cleverly-devised propaganda than a real effort at conciliation. Secondly, it is believed in some quarters here that Calles has not the slightest intention of making such an offer to the United States and that he realizes no practical solution could be expected on that basis.

Therefore, opinion here is divided with some regarding the Calles statement as a typical diplomatic trick while others, including Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, believe the move possibly might be turned to advantage in furthering a solution of the impasse.

The move guardedly suggested by Calles, it is pointed out, would amount to submitting the Mexican constitution, or an interpretation of it, to a foreign tribunal. As the constitution of a country, under international law, is the law of that land and takes precedent over all treaty engagements made under that constitution or all other commitments, it would be impossible for Mexico to allow foreigners to interpret her own constitution without a waiver of sovereignty out of keeping with the principles of any self-respecting sovereign state.

And, if the United States entered into an engagement to arbitrate the legality of the Mexican constitution, a precedent in international law would be established, according to views expressed here, which might come home to plague America in the future. If the constitution of Mexico can be interpreted by foreigners, under international law, why not call upon foreigners to interpret the Constitution of the United States respecting America's immigration laws, for example.

Borah realizes there would be a waiver of sovereignty involved in any arbitration that would construe the Mexican constitution, but he believes a formula might be found whereby the question of whether or not the Mexican constitution effectuated confiscation of American property could be decided by arbitration. Mexico, the senator points out, contends that the constitution does not effectuate confiscation of American property whereas the United States claims the opposite.

But in any event officials pointed out yesterday that there has been no offer to arbitrate by Calles, and that it would be difficult to see how Calles could seriously propose that America submit to arbitration the question of whether American properties can be confiscated or not.

The Coolidge formula stands by the protection of American lives and property and states that it is the first duty of the government to extend such protection, and that a government which does not extend such protection is worse than useless. Permitting a foreign tribunal to decide as to whether such protection should or should not be extended does not come within the scope of the Coolidge formula, it is emphasized.

Grant From King James II Founds Arbitration Fund

New York, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—William Floyd, retired real estate agent, announced today that he had sold a portion of the property in the possession of his family since the days of King James II to turn the proceeds over to a cause "worthy of the rebel spirit of my ancestors, to wit, compulsory international arbitration in case of war."

The property is on the south shore of Long Island at Mastic.

The proceeds will be used to establish five $100 prizes for contributions toward the establishment of compulsory arbitration to prevent war. The prizes are for the best editorial or letter appearing in any publication with a circulation of at least 5,000, for the best public demonstration or concerted endeavor toward compulsory arbitration, for the best cartoon, for the best slogan and for the best sermon.

CHILDREN AMONG 76 DEAD IN MOVIE PANIC

child today? Did the child have permission to attend the theater today? To the first the answer was in most case negative, to the second it was negative in 75 per cent of the cases.

Despite the brief ceremony, the "death line" in front of the aged coroner grew longer until it led downstairs and to the outer door.

And more and more grief-stricken joined in as the evening wore on.

Joseph Vallee owed his escape to a break in the front wall made by firemen. He occupied a balcony seat, near the projection room. He saw flames breaking through the floor in the aisleway. At the same time he felt hot air blowing on him from the back, and his idea was that the fire started in the projection room. Vallee with the others rushed for one of the two stairways and was caught in a crush of fleeing persons. He finally got down the stairway and was pulled through the hole in the wall made by firemen.

On a cot opposite lay Jean Paul Pacquet, 10. He forgot his pain to ask if his parents reached the street safely. He was with them when the fire broke out, but lost them.

Another boy had little idea of what happened to him except that his clothing caught fire and someone turned a hose on him. When he regained consciousness he was in an ambulance on the way to the hospital.

One of the ushers of the theater, W. W. Pare, gave his version of the tragedy:

"I saw smoke coming from the floor of the balcony and some of the ushers throwing water on the spot. I realized the fire was gaining headway, and I shouted to the audience that there was a fire in the house and to walk out quietly.

Says Woman Blocked Way.

"In a few moments every one on the ground floor was going out through the four exits and I climbed up to the balcony by the west side stairway. The people were coming down slowly, because a stout woman was blocking the way. I gave her a push and told the people to walk down quietly. They obeyed, and in a short time I was able to run to the east end stairs, and there I found a terrible jam.

"Dozens of children were apparently held fast in an inextricable mass. I smashed the window over the canopy and threw the children out as quickly as I could. I got nine of them through the window, but I guess they were all dead. Then the smoke got me and I just managed to crawl to the window and crawl through it myself. Firemen came and carried me down to the street by a ladder."

Three Hurt in Yonkers As Theater Ceiling Falls

Yonkers, N. Y., Jan. 9 (By A. P.). Three persons were injured when a piece of plastering 5 feet long fell from the ceiling of Proctor's theater here during a performance this afternoon. The injured, all of this city, were Mrs. Adele Zenet, her 4-year-old daughter and William Armstrong. All received surgical attention and went home.

Panic Averted in Fire At Niagara Falls Theater

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—An audience that filled the Bellevue theater was thrown into excitement early tonight when fire broke out in the projection room. Some one cried "fire" and the crowd started to leave the theater in a panic. The excitement subsided when the fire was put out. No one was injured.

Paulen to Take Oath At Bier of His Father

Fredonia, Kans., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Jacob Walter Paulen, pioneer Kansan, and father of Gov. Ben S. Paulen, died at his home here early today. Gov. Paulen, who will be inaugurated for a second term tomorrow, and other members of the family were at the bedside.

The son had announced his intention to taking his oath of office at his father's bier in the event that the aged man's life was not spared until Monday.

SPANISH LANGUAGE CENTER TO OCCUPY BLOCK IN NEW YORK

SHOW PLACE TO HOUSE FOREIGN CONSULATES

Property Held by Corporation to Be Known as Casa de las Espanas.

New York, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—To provide an American center for the Spanish speaking peoples of the world two buildings covering a city block in the Grand Central district have been purchased, it was announced tonight.

The purchasing corporation is headed by Thomas H. Birch, former Minister to Portugal and president of the Trust Company of North America, who announced that the company includes many prominent Spanish and American business men. The buildings are the Grand Central Palace, in which are held numerous expositions, and the Park Lexington building. They cover a plot of 81,500 square feet bounded by Park and Lexington avenues and Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh streets.

The deal, which was completed today by cable from Manila, involved a sum larger than any previous real estate transaction with the exception of the Equitable building. Mr. Birch said. The Grand Central Palace is to continue to function as a national show place, under Robert M. Catts, who purchased it in 1918 from the Du Pont interests for $2,500,000. The amount involved in today's transaction was not made public.

The property will be known as the "Casa de las Espanas, Inc." or "Home of the Spanish Speaking Peoples"

With House Consulates.

Luis Llanso, resident director of the Spanish Royal Mail Steamship Line and former president of the Spanish Chamber of Commerce of New York, is the originator of the proposal for the center. One of the leaders in the movement is Antonio Melian, Count De Peracamps, prominent in financial and economic circles in Spain and the Philippines. Martin Travieso, former senator and acting governor of Porto Rico, and a member of the Dominican claim commission, will be associated in the enterprise.

One of the aims of the Casa De Las Espanas, Inc., Col. Birch announced, is to "provide an Iberic city within the city of New York under the name of Spain, to represent not only the 250,000 persons of Spanish descent in New York, but more than 200,000,000 persons throughout the world of Spanish descent."

Some of the interests which, it is anticipated, will be located in the palace are the offices of the consulate general of Spain, and of each of the Latin-American republics as well as the republic of Portugal; chambers of commerce, exhibitions of Spanish, Hispano-American and Portuguese products; schools for the teaching of Spanish, English and Portuguese; a bank to be organized under the name of the "Hispania Bank," and offices of importers, exporters and manufacturers doing business with the various Spanish-speaking countries.

ROYALIST PAPER PUT ON INDEX BY ROME

L'Action Francaise Is Under Ban Because of Its Attacks on the Pope.

Paris, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—The royalist newspaper L'Action Francaise, has been placed in the index of prohibited books by a decree of Pope Pius XI. For the first time in history a newspaper has been added to the church's index. L'Action Francaise has come under the ban because—as set forth in the decree—"of certain articles written and published recently by it—articles which any sensible man would be forced to recognize were written against the Holy See and the supreme pontiff himself."

The Pope's decree is commented upon extensively by all the Paris newspapers, and is warmly opposed by royalist circles in France.

"With deep respect, but with serene conscience," Charles Maurras, editor of L'Action Francaise writes, "I accept the ostracism of the Vatican."

Leon Daudet, joint editor with Maurras, writing in a more sardonic vein, virtually thanks the Holy See for "the fine advertising."

U. S. Fleet Fighting Snowstorm at Sea

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—The scouting fleet which left Hampton Roads yesterday for winter maneuvers in Cuban waters, today were battling strong northeast winds, high seas and a snowstorm off the Carolina coast, according to wireless messages received from the battleship Texas, flagship of the fleet. Maneuvers planned en route were canceled. The ships expected to enter the Gulf stream off the South Carolina coast tonight and from then on much warmer weather.

Church Is Bombed From Passing Auto

San Francisco, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Bombers attacked St. Peter and St. Paul's Catholic church, in the Latin quarter, here today, blowing down the temporary wood entrance archway and damaging the door. Several granite slabs of the floor were loosened, but services were held as usual.

The bomb—the fourth thrown at the church within a year—was tossed from an automobile shortly before 5 a. m. A policeman detailed to watch the building fired one shot at the automobile.

Boys Row Over Mud; Killing of Man Results

Kansas City, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—A quarrel between two boys over mud splashed on a Christmas bicycle led to the slaying of Patrick H. Hoff, 35, by Dechert Bruce, 39, here last night.

Bruce shot and killed his neighbor when the latter appeared at the Bruce home with his 12-year-old son, Wilbur Hoff, whom Bruce was alleged to have cuffed yesterday for splashing mud on a bicycle which Billy Bruce, 8, had received for Christmas. Neighbors said the two boys had been indulging in occasional taunts and quarrels of neighbodhood youngsters.

MAIN HALL DESTROYED BY MERCERSBURG FIRE

WAS ERECTED IN 1836

Mercersburg, Pa., Jan. 9 (By A. P.). The main hall at Mercersburg academy was destroyed by fire early today, entailing a loss estimated at $300,000. The building was erected in 1836 and at the time of the fire housed 80 boys and five teachers. All left the building uninjured and helped to fight the flames. The fire was discovered about 1:30 a. m. by a teacher and burned for several hours before brought under control.

The building destroyed was known as "Old Main Hall." It was four stories high and constructed of brick. In addition to the rooms for students and masters it contained the chemical laboratory, drafting room, library and the old chapel. Most of the 3,000 volumes in the library, many of them rare, and paintings of prominent alumni that hung in the chapel were destroyed. Students saved all of their personal effects. The cause of the fire was not determined. Dr. W. M. Irvine, president of the academy, said the hall would be rebuilt at once.

For a time after the battle of Gettysburg the hall was used as a hospital for Confederate prisoners.

Damage to the main heating system of the school, caused by a falling wall, necessitates closing of the academy for two weeks.

Two Drown as Auto Plunges Into Lake

Pewaukee, Wis., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Charles Morey, 22 and Harold Meiritz, 19, both of Waukesha, were drowned early today when their automobile, a sedan, went through the ice of Pewaukee lake. Intending to fish through the ice they drove their car toward the deepest part of the lake. Two men fishing nearby, heard the ice crack and saw the automobile disappear.

The body of Meiritz was brought up with grappling hooks late today and later the automobile was dragged out of 30 feet of water but Morey's body had not been recovered tonight.

Troops Shoot 13 In Persian Election

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Teheran, Jan. 9.—Serious election riots occurred at Resht, Persia, following the attempt of the military authorities to influence the poorer voters to vote for government candidates. The people clashed with the troops, who fired into the crowd. Thirteen persons were killed or wounded. Many were arrested.

The cabinet was asked to annul the elections because of the military influence. Fearing soviet intervention the cabinet complied.

FUND OF $299 SOUGHT FOR FRIENDSHIP HOUSE

Gift of $1,000 Depends on Contributions to Match Sum by Saturday.

WOULD RAISE MORTGAGE

With the time extended to Saturday in which to raise $1,000 in order to receive a gift of another $1,000, the total of $2,000 being sufficient to discharge the mortgage on the house, the management of Friendship House, 326 Virginia avenue southeast, is making a determined effort to raise this week the $299 which remains of the $1,000.

The gift is offered by a wealthy woman, who wishes her name withheld, under the condition that the settlement raise an additional $1,000 within the time specified, Miss Lydia A. Burklin, head resident of the house, said. The settlement made an effort to raise $450, which remained of the $1,000 after Christmas, by January 1, but this failing, the time was extended to January 15.

Since January 1, Miss Burklin said, 35 contributions have been received, cutting the balance down to $299. The contributions ranged from $1 to $10, two contributions of the latter amount being received. Miss Burklin is making an effort to have a sufficient number of persons, residents of the southeast which the settlement serves and others interested in the work of the house, contribute $1 each.

Tools of Stone Age Found in the Kongo

Brussels, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Belgian authorities have taken charge of the spot in the Belgian Kongo where stone age tools recently were uncovered by engineers building a new railroad. The tools, as well as curiously shaped arrowheads and other weapons, appear to be similar to those of the neolithic period and to indicate that life in Africa at that time closely resembled life in Europe.

The Belgian authorities want to protect the spot until competent archeologists can supervise the work of excavation.

LEVITZKI SHOWS MARKED SKILL IN PIANO RECITAL

Playing at Jewish Community Center Is Rich in Poetic Content.

VARIETY IN SELECTIONS

Mischa Levitzki, pianist, was heard last night in recital in the series offered under auspices of the Jewish community center, which has contributed much to the musical interest of the season.

In Mr. Levitzki's playing technical skill was united with expressive eloquence and his readings were rich in poetic content. His program was varied and contained several unusual selections, chiefly the "Troika en Traineaux" of Tschaikowsky, into the playing of which he brought a complete understanding of the Slavic temperament and its swift transition from joy to sorrow.

The program opened with a masterly playing of the famous Bach-Liszt "Organ Prelude and Fugue," given with heroic intonation and technical smoothness. Then followed Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata," interpreted by last night's artist with real skill and fluidity and with a good tone and conception of its musical values.

The Chopin group was well given and the "Butterfly Etude" was especially applauded and appreciated by the audience.

Liszt's "Rhapsody No. 6" ended the program and in it the artist again demonstrated that he deserves to be considered one of the leading pianists of this generation.

YEAR'S FIRST WEEK SHOWS PROSPERITY CONTINUES IN TRADE

Bank Clearings Break Record; Number of Business Failures Drops.

EXPANDING ACTIVITIES SEEN AT STEEL MILLS

Auto Makers Await Results of Winter Shows—Freight Loadings Increase.

New York, Jan. 9 (By the Associated Press.)—The first week of the new year brought no significant change in the business situation. Irregularities, which characterized the closing weeks of 1926, were still apparent, but evidence of current prosperity was seen in record-breaking bank clearings which ran 3 per cent above those of the first week of last year, the previous maximum. Also, business failures were well below those of the opening week of 1925.

In accordance with bankers' predictions, money rates softened perceptibly after the turn of the year while bond values rose to the highest levels in about fifteen years. The ease of credit conditions helped to allay fears entertained in some quarters of a sharp setback in business, as it was recalled that no serious business depression in this country has ever taken place except after a period of genuine credit inflation. Commodity prices, as judged by the popular indices, continued to decline.

The monthly figures on steel ingot production, which were made public last Saturday, showed a total of 3,472,000 tons in December, as against 3,970,918 in the corresponding month of 1925, but the 1926 total of 47,133,517 was nevertheless nearly 3,000,000 tons above that for the year 1925.

The daily average of pig iron output in December fell to the lowest level since October 1925. The midweek trade reviews reported little change in the pre-holiday rate of operations although subsequent reports from steel centers indicated expanding activities, particularly in the plants of the United States Steel Corporation.

Reopening of several automobile plants, after inventory shutdowns, was followed by the announcements of a few price cuts on new models. The automobile industry as a whole is reported to be running below capacity, with manufacturers inclined to await the results of the winter shows, the first of which is now in session in this city.

Increase in Freight Loadings.

Freight car loadings in the week ended December 25 were substantially above those of the same week of 1925. The first favorable comparison in several weeks. While it was generally known that freight traffic broke all records in 1926, the final figures, published this week, showed that 53,309,644 cars had been loaded, an increase of 4 per cent above the previous record in 1925, and a gain of about 10 per cent over 1924.

This huge volume of freight was moved without any serious transportation difficulties.

A compilation of earnings of class 1 roads for the first eleven months of 1926, the latest available, show combined net railway operating income of $1,151,604.395, as against $1,045,325,037 in the same period of 1925.

Threatening complications with Mexico, as a result of the execution of the new land laws and the developments in Nicaragua, and the taking of a strike vote on some of the Southeastern railroads were the only unfavorable clouds developing during the week on the business horizon.

These, however, failed to cause any serious disturbance in the securities or commodities markets although they naturally were the source of some uneasiness.

Publication of sales statements by leading chain stores confirmed reports of record-breaking holiday trade. Reports from the textile, leather and packing industries indicated that they were on a much sounder foundation than a year ago.

Successful inauguration of transatlantic telephone service during the week opened up interesting business and banking possibilities, as evidenced by the large number of commercial calls, some of which, however, must be charged to their advertising features.

What's Behind Your Stock

American Ice Company

The American Ice Company manufactures ice and does a wholesale and retail business in manufactured and natural ice in Maine, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and the District of Columbia. Subsidiary companies operate in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and New York.

During the past five years gross sales and net profits have been subject to only slight variation but earnings per share have fluctuated widely, due to the comparatively small amount of common stock outstanding. During the fourteen months which ended December 31, 1924, earnings were equal to $11.36 per common share. In the year 1925 earnings were equal to $21.74 a share. But the first half of 1926 saw net profits somewhat below those of 1925. These profits were equal to $9.29 per common share whereas those of the year before were equal to $14.21 per share through the month of June.

At the end of June, last year, the company was in a fair financial condition. Current assets totaled $4,095,741, exceeding current liabilities by $1,084,521. This excess was $827,141 less than at the end of 1925.

Dividends are being paid regularly on the preferred stock at the rate of 6 per cent. On the common stock 4 per cent or $4 per share was paid in 1920, $6 in 1921 and $7 thereafter until October, 1925, when the present $8 rate was put into effect.

Abolition Is Asked Of Transport System

(By the Associated Press.)

Abolition of the army, navy and Panama transport systems and transfer of their traffic to private American ships is recommended in a report of the bureau of operations of the Shipping Board.

Approximately 30 transports now operate to the Orient, West Indies and Panama from this country, carrying troops and military supplies, the business totaling nearly $10,000,000 annually. A bill proposing abolition of the transport service where it could be handled by the Shipping Board now is pending before the Senate committee.

$859,210 Revenue From Muscle Shoals

The total net operating revenue for the Muscle Shoals plants for 1926 was $859,210.67, the War Department announced yesterday, and during the calendar year there was sold to the Alabama Power Co. from the hydroelectric plant at Wilson dam a total of 428,265,685 kilowatt hours of electric power.

The net operating revenue to the government from the Wilson dam plant was $698,839.94 and that from the steam plant $160,370.73.

WEEK'S BOND LEVELS AT HIGHEST IN 15 YEARS

Heavy New Offerings Fail to Halt the Gains in Listed Issues.

FOREIGN LOANS POPULAR

New York, Jan. 9 (By the Associated Press).—Quoted bond values rose to the highest general levels in nearly fifteen years last week as a huge volume of investment funds poured into the securities markets. The advance in listed securities took place in the face of competition afforded by nearly $140,000,000 in new offerings, most of which were promptly oversubscribed. The volume of bond transactions on the New York Stock Exchange was the largest of any week since the spring of 1925.

The predicted softening of money rates accompanied the rise in bond prices, with indications as the week closed that the huge January reinvestment demand was far from satisfied. Investment bankers, eager to satisfy the investment appetite, hurried the negotiations now pending for new financing, tentative announcements being made of several large issues during the next few weeks.

With Europe believed to be definitely on the road to economic recovery, bankers predicted that the present year would witness the development of several new loan sources. While competition of European bankers for loans of their own municipalities and industrial organizations is increasing, several new names are expected to find their way into the list of foreign securities sold and traded in here during the next few months. Reports are current of a forthcoming loan of $13,000,000 to the city of Budapest and another of $15,000,000 to a South American country.

The impending visit to this country of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, is expected to be followed by the winding up of the $300,000,000 credit extended to that institution by American bankers in May, 1925, for the purpose of stabilizing sterling exchange, but never used. A large stabilization loan to Italy is also likely to be concluded within the next few months, while a French stabilization loan also is in the realm of possibility during the coming year.

Listed foreign government securities, because of their attractive yields, were in brisk demand last week, several of the French issues touching the highest prices on record. Italian 7s also were active in the closing days of the week.

The rise in domestic bonds was retarded somewhat by the periodic spells of weakness which swept over the stock market. While little effort was made to bid up prices of high-grade industrial and domestic mortgages, a strong underlying demand was apparent whenever quotations showed a tendency to taper off.

The chief interest in the new offerings of the week centered in the $60,000,000 issue of 4½ per cent corporate stock of the City of New York, all of which sold within a few hours after the issue had been awarded to a syndicate headed by the National City Co. Other offerings also met with a ready sale. Among the domestic offerings in prospect this week is a $25,000,000 issue of San Joaquin Light & Power Corporation unifying and refunding mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds.

Differences of opinion have arisen among bankers over the policy adopted by the Federal administration in the reduction of the national debt. Albert Wiggin, chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank, told stockholders that the government's policy of steadily reducing the debt was "one of the most wholesome financial developments of the period." C. F. Childs & Co., specialists in government securities, in a current bulletin on the subject, assert that the creation of our large national debt to finance the war has been a blessing, but set forth that "the hastening of debt reduction tends to precipitate general deflation, with its attendant disturbances, which would be tempered if spread over a longer period of time."

Bonds called in January in advance of maturity totaled $100,459,860, as compared with $407,694,900 in January, 1925, and $93,279,000 in 1924. Of the amount called, $93,233,860 represent issues to be paid off in entirety.

New York, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Public offering of 70,000 shares of Florida Power & Light Co. cumulative preferred stock aggregating $7,000,000 will be made tomorrow by a syndicate headed by Bonbright & Co., at $100 a share to yield 7 per cent. The stock is no par value and nonvoting and is redeemable at $110 a share and accrued dividends. The company is controlled by the American Power & Light Co., which owns all of its second preferred and common stocks.

Victor Emanuel, chairman of the board of the National Electric Power Co., has been succeeded by Samuel Insull, it was announced today. He will remain a director. Albert Emanuel has resigned as president, his place being taken by Harry Reid, of Indianapolis, formerly president of the Interstate Public Service Co. and the Kentucky Utilities Co.

More electric power is produced in the United States than in all the rest of the world combined, says a review by Dominick & Dominick, stock exchange members. Of a total world output in 1925 of about 124,000,000,000 kilowatt hours, this country produced 65,800,000,000. On a per capita basis, however, the United States ranked third.

Tomorrow's bond offerings will include $6,500,000 Peoples Light & Power Corporation first lien 5½ per cent gold bonds, $1,200,000 city of Miami, Fla., 5 per cent gold bonds and an issue of $1,500,000 Moffat Tunnel District, Colo., 5¼ per cent gold bonds. The Moffat tunnel district comprises the entire city and county of Denver and a large additional territory.

Publication of the tonnage report of the U. S. Steel Corporation tomorrow is expected now to show a slight increase in unfilled orders for December.

11 West Virginia Coal Companies Combined

Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Acquisition and consolidation of eleven large southern West Virginia coal companies by the West Virginia Southern Coal Co. was announced here yesterday by Everett Drennen, of New York, president, and W. H. Cunningham, of Huntington, vice president. The companies included in the merger are the Basic Coal Co., Burgess Branch Coal Co., Marsh Fork Coal Co., Birch Ford Coal Co., Seng Coal Co., Van Ball Coal Co., Silush Coal Co., Aladdin Block Coal Co., and Lee Vale Coal Co., and two mines of the interests of Siler & Siler, Charleston.

The properties are in Kanawha, Boone, Raleigh, Lincoln and Logan counties, and are producing 1,250,000 tons of coal annually.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

Senator Borah can find no action or utterance by any American President or Secretary of State to support his statement that the Monroe doctrine is not involved in the present situation in Nicaragua. He stands alone in that contention. Against him is arrayed the long line of American authorities who have defined, developed and executed the policy of self-defense that is described as the Monroe doctrine.

The Monroe doctrine is not merely a declaration that the United States is opposed to the oppression of the independent governments of this hemisphere by the powers of Europe. It is, as Secretary Hughes properly described it, "a policy of self-defense." It is not a policy of aggression, but is essentially and solely a policy which, adapted to any condition that may arise, operates for the protection of the peace and security of the United States. Mr. Hughes, while Secretary of State, in his famous "Observations on the Monroe Doctrine," quoted Elihu Root as follows:

> The Monroe doctrine rests upon the right of every sovereign state to protect itself by preventing a condition of affairs in which it will be too late to protect itself.

"That right," added Mr. Hughes, "we recognize in our sister republics of this hemisphere as we claim it for ourselves."

It is only when the safety of the United States is menaced that the Monroe doctrine is involved. The doctrine is always involved when the independence of a sister republic is menaced, from whatever source. The threat may come from another republic, and not from overseas, as is the case now in Nicaragua, which is under attack by Mexico. On that point Mr. Borah might ponder with profit what President Roosevelt said:

> It is in no wise intended as hostile to any nation in the Old World. Still less is it intended to give cover to any aggression by any New World power at the expense of any other.

Secretary Hughes alluded to the necessity of applying the Monroe doctrine—the policy of self-defense—to conditions arising from the building of the Panama canal and the possible construction of a canal through Nicaragua:

> We have grown rich and powerful, but we have not outgrown the necessity, in justice to ourselves and without injustice to others, of safeguarding our future peace and security. By building the Panama canal we have not only established a new and convenient highway of commerce but we have created new exigencies and new conditions of strategy and defense. It is for us to protect that highway. It may also be necessary for us at some time to build another canal between the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans and to protect that. I believe that the sentiment of the American people is practically unanimous that in the interest of our national safety we could not yield to any foreign power the control of the Panama canal, or the approaches to it, or the obtaining of any position which would interfere with our right of protection or would menace the freedom of our communications. So far as the region of the Caribbean sea is concerned, it may be said that if we had no Monroe doctrine we should have to create one.

President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg have guardedly, but unmistakably, made known the fact that Mexican aggression menances the independence of an American republic and endangers the approaches to the Panama canal. They know the facts. They are acting accordingly, by "preventing a state of affairs in which it will be too late for the United States to protect itself." This action, as former Secretary Root says, is the very base upon which the Monroe doctrine rests.

The exercise of the right of self-defense by President Coolidge is in no sense an attempt to establish a protectorate over Nicaragua. It is not an invasion of any of the rights of Nicaragua or of Mexico. It is purely an act of self-defense on the part of the United States government. When the threat against the peace and security of the United States disappears, the application of the Monroe doctrine disappears with it. So long as the danger threatens, the Monroe doctrine stands in the way, defending the United States.

"Any aggression by any New World power at the expense of any other," to quote President Roosevelt, is an assault upon the peace and safety of the United States, which must be met by application of the self-defense policy called the Monroe doctrine. It is astonishing that the chairman of the Senate committee on foreign affairs should assert that the Monroe doctrine is not involved in the present situation in Nicaragua. Fortunately the President, in whose hands rest the peace and safety of the republic, is better informed.

GOOD WILL MESSENGERS.

A shipment of dolls which will eventually find their way into the hands of 170 little Japanese girls left Washington last week. Each was dressed by the donor, and bore the name of a little American girl. Upon reaching Japan they will be distributed under the supervision of the board of education of that country.

The shipment is part of a movement to stimulate better friendship between this country and the land of the rising sun, initiated by the Federal Council of Churches. The dolls should make good messengers. Each undoubtedly will be clutched to the breast of a tiny Japanese girl, cementing firmly a feeling of friendship toward the individual far across the sea who made the gift. Friendships among children frequently are friendships which endure. The return from the shipment of dolls can not fail to be a lasting current of good will. It is a worthy movement, one which should be expanded until each year thousands of doll messengers are sent not only to the children of Japan but to the children of all nations.

THE CRAMTONS.

Representative Cramton, of Michigan, is a type of the small-bore statesman who do not scruple to seek political capital "at home" by misusing their power in Congress to the detriment of the National Capital. The people of Washington have no vote. Therefore the Cramtons have nothing to fear from them. By posing as champions of the Treasury against the mythical "rings" and "corruptionists" of the National Capital, the Cramtons of Congress sometimes delude their constituents into believing that they have sent genuine statesmen to Washington.

Mr. Cramton takes it upon himself to advise the newspapers of Washington to quit deceiving the people of this Capital. There is no hope, he says, that Congress will ever return to the system whereby the Federal government will pay 40 per cent of the cost of upkeep of the government of this District. The oracle of Lapeer, wherever and whatever that is, insists that the question is settled, and settled to the satisfaction of Cramton. Why the people of Washington persist in demanding that the Federal government should pay a just proportion of the cost of its own Capital, instead of placing an unjust burden upon the taxpayers of the District, is beyond the Cramton comprehension. With the Cramtons in control of appropriations it is possible to cinch taxpayers of the District of Columbia, and they have no power of retaliation. Why do they continue their vain protestations? Why don't they take their medicine, pay their extra taxes, and thank God that they are under the guardianship of the Cramtons?

Well, one reason why the people of Washington will not desist is their knowledge that Cramtons come and go, while the government and its Capital are here to stay. Hope, too, is eternal, in spite of the struttings of bucolic Cramtons across the temporary stage. In due time Cramton will return to the oblivion of Lapeer, wherever that is, and the nation's Capital will know him no more. Other Cramtons will appear, no doubt, and will raise their puny hands against the progress and development of the seat of government. But they, too, will pass, along with other obstructions which will be thrust aside as the nation continues its task of building a city to stand forever.

The number of Cramtons diminishes as the District of Columbia develops. The progress made by the Federal City is a matter of pride to really able men in Congress, and they are glad to be numbered among those who contribute to the making of a splendid city. A fair division of the burden of the cost of District government will be worked out and adopted. The District of Columbia will be expanded and adorned on a scale befitting the United States, and the present blemishes, such as the Anacostia flats, the Cramtons, and the decrepit shacks on Pennsylvania avenue, will be swept into the rubbish heap together.

THE RADIO AGREEMENT.

The conference committee on radio legislation will meet again tomorrow. On Friday last a tentative agreement was reached compromising between the Dill bill of the Senate and the White bill of the House, and by tomorrow it is hoped to have a satisfactory piece of legislation drafted covering the various features sanctioned in conference. The Dill bill as passed by the Senate provides for radio regulation by a commission. The White bill, passed by the House, gives radio control to the Department of Commerce. The compromise, representing an effort to take the middle path between the two, gives to a commission large powers, chiefly appellate and quasi judicial, and concentrates the administrative powers in the department. This is in line with the suggestion made in the President's message.

In view of the compromise, chances of passing the bill at this session are considered excellent, providing controversy does not develop on the floor of either house. Apparently, if opposition does develop, it will be largely of a political nature. Either bill will serve to regulate the chaotic condition prevailing, and reports of the compromise legislation indicate that it is fair to all concerned. The public demands radio control and is not particularly interested in the body in which such control is vested. Possibly there may be opposition from some operators of broadcasting stations who would have their privileges curtailed somewhat, but the established stations of the country will welcome a bill which will clear up an impossible situation. The legislation should be passed at this session.

THE LONELY ONES.

A curiously striking commentary on the importance of the point of view is contained in two separate news items published in yesterday's newspapers and each seemed worthy of being transmitted by cable. The first described the "loneliest man in London." That title, it appears, has been conferred by the English journalists on one George Beckwith, who is the night watchman at the now defunct British Empire exposition at Wembley. The glories of that really great and gorgeous show have departed. What was Ceylon has been carted away and turned into a coach-building factory in London; the Gold Coast has become a garage in Huddersfield; Palestine is destined to be a laundry in Glasgow; Sierra Leone has been converted into a restaurant in the Irish Free State, and so on. In a hut amid the ruined waste of the broad acres on which once stood the world's greatest exhibition Beckwith lives and one can readily understand how lonely, drab, and dreary his existence must be. Unfortunately, he, like so many of his fellow countrymen, lacks imagination and, though now the presiding genius of a place where ghosts of departed greatness might naturally be expected to stalk, he had no more fearsome adventure to recount to the eager reporters than that of "nearly falling into some big holes." Accordingly, George through neglect of his exceptional chance to provide weird romances, is likely to fade from the picture as wanting in attractiveness.

In the second case, Stanley Baldwin, in a burst of confidence, told his Worcester constituents on Saturday that the prime minister of Great Britain has the loneliest job in the world. He likened himself, as the holder of that responsible position, to the captain on the bridge of a ship, who has to look far ahead, guided by much knowledge that is entirely hidden from the crew. He must keep his thoughts and calculations to himself, possess his soul in patience, harden himself against daily and often unreasoning criticism, and trust to time for his vindication.

Baldwin may be lonely, but he has not lost his punch. His enemies, he said, accused him of getting tired and rattled and even feeble. His reply was that he was often tired, that he may, perhaps, have been feeble, but that he was never rattled. He also said that many persons had accused him of not giving labor a square deal. His comeback to that charge was the magnificent tu quoque that it was a far more serious thing that labor did not get a square deal from its own leaders. It is evident that the present British prime minister is anything but a spent force, and that, so far from petering out as an object of interest, he will command increased attention as the great political showdown in Britain approaches.

NO AUTOMOBILE TAGS.

According to the latest reports it appears likely that the local government will be unable to issue 1927 automobile license plates for more than a month. The tags were ordered last August from a Chicago firm, one of three bidders, at a cost of 11.75 cents a pair. A few days ago the statement was made that the company probably was losing money on the transaction, as the proper cost should be in the neighborhood of 14 cents a pair. The statement is borne out by the other bids submitted, one by the Maryland State penitentiary at 13.5 cents a pair, the other by a Kentucky firm, at 15 cents. Under a ruling of the comptroller general, however, the District was forced to accept the lowest bid, provided it was made by a reputable firm, so the contract went to Chicago after a member of Congress gave assurance that the company was responsible. Now it appears that the concern has defaulted on its contract.

Although a notice has been broadcast to the effect that 1926 District tags are still valid, many rural districts in other States will not have received it, and annoying situations may develop. Too much time has been wasted waiting for deliveries which apparently will never materialize. An emergency order is to be given to the Maryland penitentiary, which has offered to make tags at the rate of 2,500 a day. Equipment should be installed in the District workhouse at Occoquan, so that work may be started immediately on the 1928 tags.

FIGHTING FOR LARGE STAKES.

The internal revenue bureau has entered a suit against certain holders of large blocks of Ford Motor Co. stock for additional internal revenue taxes claimed to have been due but not collected. The amount involved is approximately $35,000,000, and nine individuals or estates of individuals are named as defendants. It has been agreed that a test case, before a section of the board of tax appeals in Detroit, will be made against the estate of the late John F. Dodge, one of the defendants, and that the testimony in that case will be accepted in all other cases.

The case for the government will be conducted by Solicitor Gregg, of the revenue bureau, and Adjuster Matson, and the defendants will be represented by John W. Davis and Charles E. Hughes.

The case promises to attract unusual attention, not only because of the large sum involved, but because of the importance of the taxing principles and construction of the revenue laws that are at stake.

The main questions involved are whether the bureau of internal revenue has the same right to reopen cases which were closed as it had in instances when taxes were assessed and paid; whether the value of the Ford stock made in March, 1913, the date fixed by law for calculating values upon which profits might be computed, was a correct and equitable value. Former Commissioner Roper fixed this value at $9,400 per share.

The government contends that this valuation of the stock was too low. It is asking for taxes on the difference between that value and the real value because of the increase in profits arising out of the sale of the stock.

The defendants claim that the government can not go back of its own decision, and that the value made in 1913 was fair. The case probably will go to the higher and perhaps to the Supreme Court before final disposition. The story of Mr. Ford, if he is a witness, will make interesting reading.

COAL LEGISLATION UNLIKELY.

The prospect for the settlement of the expected trouble between coal operators and the miners of the soft coal districts through the enactment of regulatory legislation during the present Congress is growing more remote every day.

The House committee on interstate and foreign commerce will meet in executive session on Tuesday for the purpose of considering the bill which Chairman Parker of the committee prepared and introduced some weeks ago, but Mr. Parker is by no means sanguine of its passage. The opposition of the operators to any legislation has been so manifest, and their activities so pronounced, that they appear to have influenced a sufficient number of members of the House to oppose anything calculated to prevent the trouble in the soft coal districts which is expected to follow the expiration of the agreement period under which mining of bituminous coal is now proceeding.

The falling off in the foreign demand for American coal since the British miners resumed their labors has already been followed by the announcement of a reduction in wages by some of the mine owners. As the demand decreases and the stocks on hand increase, there will follow, inevitably, a lesser demand for labor and a consequent reduction in wages. Unless Congress shall empower the President to "declare an emergency" as proposed in the Parker bill, strikes and lockouts may be expected in the bituminous regions. Precautionary measures are urgently needed.

An Applied Communistic Principle.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Whisky and Flu.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The grip is reported to be again on its way. It is hinted to be of the Spanish flu variety. If so, what?

In 1890 we fought it with quinine, phenacetin, &c., and whisky. In 1918 we had mostly everything else but the whisky. Where I was at that time I noticed that those that had easy access to a stock of liquor suffered the least. It was also noticed at that time that when a supply of liquor was finally rushed to the soldier camps the disease promptly abated.

If we get that scourge again, what will we do? There is plenty of bootleg liquor available, but it will not answer. The last epidemic we had was easily responsible for several million deaths, direct and indirect. The liquor must be taken hot and to excess before the right lung has had a chance to consolidate like a piece of boiled liver, and moderate use must be continued, along with expectorants, until the danger of incurring tuberculosis is over.

We have had one example. Are we going to wait to see if lightning will strike twice in the same place? Meantime, if the reports from abroad are true, we had better tip off the undertakers to look over their stock. Our czar might consider it a crime to use an ounce of prevention.

Actual Capital Ship Strength.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the interest of truth, national honor, and security, I plead for fair reasoning regardless of party politics. Naval preparedness is being fought out; facts and figures are all important, but not the real issue. The Washington arms treaty is a pledge based on equality with Great Britain and superiority over Japan; that parity is known. The opposition to the treaty pledge offers as justification, economy, policy, idealism and hope for further disarmament.

Let us reckon with facts. The greatest power is Great Britain, which has officially declared she will never disarm, and has already repudiated the Washington arms treaty in letter and spirit. The world acknowledges Great Britain's determination to remain armed, for to disarm on sea would mean the collapse of the British empire over night. England, without a fleet, would have but two alternatives—surrender or starve. These facts are recognized by all European nations and Japan—that England can not and will not disarm—and these facts influence the defense policies of all other powers.

Mr. French, in summing up, gives Hector Bywater, the distinguished British naval critic, as authority: "The consensus of opinion in the navy (British officers) is that the battle fleet (British) is too small for imperial requirements." And again: "Taking all factors into consideration, the American fleet is judged to be superior." And again: "Even in gunpowder the advantage is held to lie with the American fleet."

Mr. French further quotes Mr. Kawakami, the brilliant Japanese correspondent on naval matters.

Mr. Blanton rises in defense of his distinguished friend from Illinois (Mr. Madden) and says: "The great chairman of the great committee on appropriations came on the floor of this House and said that our naval officers, our naval experts, if you please, had lied to us. That is what he said—that they had lied to us; that Great Britain was not violating the treaty and had not violated it."

In the interest of truth, fair play and the honor of American naval officers, I submit the War college findings, the following table being the result of six problems played or worked out at the War college:

	Yards. (In battle)	Amer. Ships sunk.		Time	British Ships (In battle)	damaged.
1.	15,000	18	All	21 Min.	22	58%
2.	17,000	18	"	27 "	22	47%
3.	23,000	18	"	45 "	22	18%
4.	25,000	5	"	45 "	13	12%
5.	29,000	5	"	75 "	13	13%
6.	30,000	5	"	81 "	13	11%

British gun elevation, 20 degree minimum. United States, 13 ships, 15 degree maximum.

TABLE OF RANGE OF FIRE, BRITISH AND AMERICAN.

	British Ships Firing.	Amer. Ships Firing.
15,000 yards	22	18
17,000 yards (Above)	22	18
21,000 yards	22	12
22,000 yards	22	10
23,000 yards	22	8
24,000 yards	22	5

Ships must fight and fire at given range until one or the other is destroyed. The life of a ship is expressed in number of hits that will render her incapable of further offensive or sink her.

British, American and Japanese fleets fire most favorable for each fleet to adopt: Japanese minimum, 25,000 yards; British minimum, 24,000; American maximum, 13 ships, 21,000 to 23,000 yards.

Is the Congress of the United States to accept as authority, Hector C. Bywater (British), who fights the British cause; Mr. Kawakami (Japanese), who fights the Japanese cause, and Martin Madden, born in Darlington, England, 1855, who stated the American naval officers lied?

The Congress of the United States owes a sacred duty to the American people—be faithful to your inheritance, be consistent with history.

Today's Success Counts

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN an airplane gets just so high, there is nothing for it to do but come down. The air is thin up there; going higher will require more power.

There is a limit to the height any man can climb, the limit is fixed by the power that is in him. But a great many men who have power enough to remain aloft come down because a little triumph makes them content to shut off the power and glide.

Where are the headliners of yesterday? Alas! they drifted too long, and then they couldn't climb back again.

It isn't probable that Alexander sighed for other worlds to conquer. He was content with the women, red liquor and pomp of Persia. But the itch to conquer other worlds is the only thing that will keep any man from slipping.

Swellhead, and that kindred disease called complacency, are caused by the triumphs of yesterday; and the man who can find sufficient food for his vanity in the triumphs of yesterday isn't going to do anything today.

Those who live on yesterday's triumphs must be content with yesterday's cheers. The world forgets quickly.

The average man thinks of success as something permanent. You win it, he thinks, and then sit down among cushions to enjoy it.

But that isn't true. Making good is a life-time job. You do good work today and get a high rating, but your reputation won't live on a rating. You must do just as good work tomorrow and every tomorrow, or else you disappear from the headlines.

Brown's reputation may be something he can cash at the paying teller's window today, but let him relax and drift for a month and see what will happen.

"Brown?" the world will ask. "Who in thunder was Brown?"

OVERWORK.

The doctors are taking the fun out of laziness, says the Goshen Democrat. Most people find a heap of satisfaction in feeling sorry for themselves, world-known specialists lately interviewed in London say. As a matter of fact, such a thing as overwork hardly exists. Few people work up to their capacity, and getting tired is good for human beings.

One of the foremost authorities on disease of the heart is quoted as saying that he never saw a case of heart strain. Overexertion, whether physical or mental, this authority says, is among the rarest of ailments.

These great physicians assert that the body protects itself. If we feel like working hard, we should work hard, there is no danger in it. When we approach the point when hard work might be dangerous, the body wearies and refuses to work. The weariness is the automatic regulator that prevents energetic persons from injuring themselves. The brain has the same protective insurance.

There is, however, one menace, according to the authorities quoted. The fear of damage works the evil. People scare themselves into real discomfort and disease because they are afraid they may break down under overexertion of mind or body. The need of our time, say the physicians, is to get out of people's minds the expectation of ill befalling them.

THE WORLD'S RECORD.

The world's record for paternity seems to be safely in the the hands of an Austrian, one Bernard Scheinberg, who, at the age of 76, is the father of 88 children, 84 of whom are living, reports Le Figaro.

Scheinberg has married twice. He had 70 children by his first wife, who died at the age of 56. On only one occasion did Mme. Scheinberg give birth to a single child. All the others were, so to speak, fabricated in series—four times quadruplets (16), seven times triplets (21), and sixteen times just twins (32); grand total, 70. Of these 67 are still alive.

Scheinberg married the second time at the age of 57 and by this union had eighteen children—triplets on two occasions. The present Mme. Scheinberg, mother and stepmother of 84 boys and girls, is in excellent health.

Baltimore Sun: One's heart is touched by the news that 22,000 girls in Detroit's Little Mothers league are intensively caring for dolls in order that they may learn the proper way to treat the real babies which may come later on. Has training in the duties of motherhood ever been given on a broader scale? And, conditions there being what they are, Detroit probably will next enroll its boys and set them to practicing with scooters against the day when they drive cars of their own on the crowded streets.

Kellogg and Borah.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: Ostensibly heated exchanges between Secretary Kellogg and Senator Borah over the Nicaraguan situation seem particularly futile at this juncture. There is not very much like real heat in them. There is certainly no light. Senator Borah says it is intervention, Secretary Kellogg says it is not. What does it serve to quibble over a definition when forces have assumed full control of Nicaragua? The disagreement over the question whether Diaz or Sacasa is legally the president of Nicaragua is still less to the point. Law and reality are often on different sides of the fence in an imperfect world. The main point is that the United States has taken military charge of Nicaragua. If our real motive was to prevent extension of Mexican influence in that country to the detriment of American policy, we are most likely to stay until the object is accomplished. If Senator Borah would rather see a government there supported by Mexico and devoted to antagonism to the United States—in that case, and only in that case, would his opposition have the ring of reality.

Judge Awaits Reduction in Salary

Size of Cut Is Only Concern of Veteran First Baseman.

Nats Pay No Dividend and Club Is in No Mood for Raises.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THE fact that the Washington club declared no dividend for the 1926 season means that President Clark Griffith is likely to be a hard man to outargue when the regulars of the team start talking 1927 contracts seriously.

Already a number of the athletes have been signed, but most of them are rookies glad to get a big league chance and, consequently, willing to accept almost any terms large enough to give them lodging and three meals a day. Johnson, Bluege, Goslin and Rice are the only veterans in line.

True, none of them had any serious argument, but, judging from Joe Judge's experiences, the going in this respect will be rough from now on. Perhaps the vet quartet already in the fold and Manager Harris, working his second season of a three-year term, have used up most of the appropriation allotted for salaries.

The Washington first sacker admits that he has been asked to take a cut in salary for the coming season, but, at the same time, declares that there is no break between him and Griffith. There is a certain form of procedure which this pair follows annually in connection with Joe's signing, and he states that it has now only reached the second stage. Several additional steps are necessary before the gabfest waxes serious.

"He simply told me I would have to stand a cut," said Judge last night, "but did not intimate how big he thought it should be. I'm waiting for him to tell me and he's probably waiting for me to give him a hint as to my ideas. We'll no doubt get together before he leaves for his Florida vacation," the player concluded.

So local admirers of Judge need not worry about his not coming to terms in plenty of time. These two are simply playing their annual game. Griffith has a pretty fair idea as to how big a slice Joe will stand for and, when the time comes, he will make the player an offer, a two or three day argument will follow, and Joe will sign on the dotted line.

If he is at his best form, he will outtalk Griff and get the ante raised a few hundred, but, if not, the Old Fox will be declared the winner. In either event, when the time is ripe, Joe's name will be added to the Washington pay roll for 1927.

Coast Pros Team Up For California Title

Los Angeles, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—An additional $2,500 for professional golfers who have competed in California's money tournaments has been hung up by the Los Angeles Country club. The purse will be at stake in a tournament starting next Friday to decide the California professional team title.

Entries will be limited to sixteen two-man teams to consist of the low scorers among the professionals who finished in the $10,000 Los Angeles open. They will choose partners for the team event and it will be a best ball affair with the first round Friday, the tournament to continue through Saturday and Sunday.

Burgess Lone G. U. Entry In Fordham Track Meet

Jimmy Burgess, Georgetown's star quarter-miler, who finished second in a special 500-yard race in New York last Saturday, again will bear the Blue and Gray alone this Saturday in the Fordham university games, one of the annual fixtures of the indoor track season in the metropolitan section. Burgess probably will run in his specialty, the quarter-mile dash, and in all probability will toe the mark on scratch, as he is considered one of the best men at that distance in New York and many other places as well as in Washington. The race will be a handicap affair.

George Marsters, former Hilltopper, who is a star in the half-mile run, will also appear in the meet. It had been announced that Georgetown would enter a medley relay team, but Coach John D. O'Reilly said last night that Burgess would be the lone Hilltop representative at the meet.

NET FEATURE AT ARCADIA TONIGHT

Tilden, Alonzo Play in First D. C. Indoor Tennis.

A NEW chapter in the annals of local tennis will start tonight when the first indoor tennis ever staged in Washington will be presented at the Arcadia, and "Big Bill" Tilden, six times world's tennis champion, and Manuel Alonzo, champion of Spain, clash in a five-set match as the opening event of the program, scheduled to get under way at 8 o'clock.

Immediately upon conclusion of the singles match a doubles match will be played between the teams of Tilden and Emmett Pare, Georgetown university star, and Alonzo and Tom Mangan, No. 1 singles player of the District and the Middle Atlantic section.

Pare has been named No. 1 in the junior singles rankings of the Western section of the United States Lawn Tennis association. Friends believe he will be a fitting partner to Tilden.

Tilden has always been popular with the public since he won his first championship in the army. He has met and conquered many obstacles in his climb to fame in tennis, not all of them being in the form of his opponent.

A notable exception was his surmounting the difficulty of keeping up his game after the loss of a part of his middle right hand finger due to an infection sustained while playing.

He was forced to revolutionize his style, but instead of retiring as many others would have done under the circumstances, he went around the country getting a beating from every youngster. In the meantime, however, he perfected his new game, and when the hectic winter was over he entered the national championship and won. This example of perseverance has been unequaled in tennis history and accounts for a part of Tilden's well deserved popularity.

Because of the great demand for tickets to tonight's exhibition, extra seats are being installed. Tickets will go on sale at 1 p. m. at the Arcadia.

Guest Ties for Second Place With Dudley; Farrell in Money.

EL CABALLERO Country Club, Van Nuys, Calif., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Bobbie Cruickshank, the wee Scotchman, of Progress club, New York, despite the costly two strokes which a movie camera operator cost him on the eighth this morning, today won the second annual Los Angeles $10,000 open golf tournament with a score of 282. He burned around the course in the final 18 of the 72-hole trek with a 67, but one over the course record, held by Jack Tarrant, El Caballero professional.

Charles Guest, young professional of the Lakeside Country club of Hollywood, tied for second place, with Ed Dudley, of Oklahoma City, Okla., with a card of 288.

Cruickshank takes the $3,500 first money and the diamond medal. Guest and Dudley divide the $1,500 and $1,000 second and third prizes. Al Watrous, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and John Farrell, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., divided the $750 fourth and $500 fifth prizes, with cards of 289.

Macdonald Smith, of Great Neck, N. Y.; John Black, of Wichita, Kans., and Eddie Loos, of Glencoe, Ills., won the $350 sixth, $250 each seventh, and eighth prizes, which they divided with cards of 293.

The ninth prize of $200 went to Leo Diegel, of New York, for 294, and the tenth to John H. Jones, of Kelso, Wash., for a 295.

Harry Cooper, of Los Angeles, last year's winner, took a 296, sharing one of the fifteen prizes of $100 each with Thomas Armour, Washington, D. C., and Hutt Martin, Los Angeles, 297 each; John Golden, Paterson, N. J., 297; Willie Hunter, Santa Monica, and Larry Nabholtz, Cleveland, 298 each; Joe Kirkwood, New York, 299; Dick Linares, Long Beach, 300; Art De Mane, Great Neck, N. Y., 300.

Amateur trophies were awarded as follows:

Low gross for 72 holes—George Von Elm, Los Angeles, 297. Low net for 72 holes—Harold Thompson, Glendale, Calif., 301, gross, 293 net. Low gross for 36 holes—Allen Moser, 17-year-old lad from Wilshire Country club, Los Angeles. Low net for 36 holes—Max Behr, Hollywood. Low gross for 18 holes—E. Scotty Armstrong, Los Angeles. Low net for 18 holes—Fay Coleman, Culver City, Calif.

Ft. Washington Five Beats Wonders, 41-19

Minus several stars, the Wonder five was unable to cope with the Fort Washington basketball team and took a 41-19 setback. The Wonders particularly missed a center. Dick Streeks took the assignment, but could not keep step with the towering Slattery, who accounted for seven field goals. Hanback and H. Scruggs played best for the Wonders.

Park View Tossers Beat Collegians, 25-20

The Park View tossers defeated the Collegians yesterday in a Washington Senior league game played as a preliminary in the Gonzaga gymnasium by a 25-20 score. The Peck brothers and Daglish did the bulk of the scoring for the Parks. William Peck made two sensational midcourt shots. Collins, former Business High player, got half of the Collegians' total.

Risberg-Gandil Conspiracy Seen by Accused Players

Landis to Consider This Angle in Making Decision Wednesday—Case Close Parallel to That Involving Cobb and Speaker.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Discussion of the stories of baseball fixing as related by Swede Risberg and Chick Gandil today centered about hints of some of the players now under accusation that the two ousted players might have conspired to startle the baseball world by a story of a 1917 plot to throw big league games.

This angle of the case will be considered by Commissioner Landis before he makes known his findings on Wednesday.

These two former White Sox, apparently without having communicated with each other recently, faced 35 present and past members of the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox, and accused them of framing a series to help Chicago win the 1917 American league pennant. The 35 vigorously denied the charges.

The way in which Risberg's story came out did not savor of conspiracy. In a poolroom at Rochester, Minn., near where Risberg runs a little dairy farm, during a discussion of the Cobb-Speaker case, he mentioned that he knew a greater scandal than that one.

When this statement was published, a visiting newspaper man at Rochester for hospital treatment, went to interview Risberg and the charges of crookedness in the 1917 Labor day series at Chicago became public.

Commissioner Landis sent for Risberg and he repeated his charges in an affidavit. Landis then wired every member of the 1917 Detroit and Chicago clubs to come to Chicago.

Gandil later saw Risberg's testimony in the newspapers and said he knew even more than Risberg. After he met his former teammate here, Gandil said: "I'll stand by you, Swede. Those fellows are lying and they can't scare me. I'll tell the bunch of them that to their faces."

Gandil also declared he would let none of the witnesses call him a liar, as they did Risberg, but Gandil sat unmoved when Bill James, former Detroit pitcher who received the White Sox gift of $850 from Gandil, specifically contradicted Gandil on the reason for the present, and declared Gandil's charges of "fixing" the Labor day series was an "absolute lie."

Baseball followers see a close parallel in the case of the players accused by Risberg and Gandil, and the charges made against Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker by Dutch Leonard.

In the Cobb-Speaker case, Landis merely gave out the testimony in his investigations of Leonard's accusation of "fixing" a Detroit-Cleveland game in 1919, without any ruling or comment, but Cobb and Speaker both were retired from baseball before the story became public.

Being ten-year men, both Cobb and Speaker would be free to sign with any club they chose, but there were reports that club owners seeking them were

EAGLES BEAT SAINT FIVE, 32 TO 5

Champions in Brilliant Defensive Form; Smith Stars.

THE Anacostia Eagles, District unlimited champions, gave an exhibition of masterful basketball yesterday in defeating the St. Stephen's five, 32 to 5, in the Congress Heights auditorium in the feature game of the Eagles' weekly double-header. The Saints previously defeated the Hyattsville Guards, who had scored a victory over the Eagles earlier in the season.

Jack Smith, operating from center, led the Birds in scoring with six field goals and two fouls, while Tompson and Wallace were others to make more than one basket.

It was defensively that the Eagles were brilliant. They held the Saints to two field goals, both scored in the second half, and committed only four fouls in turning that trick. Only one try was turned into a point.

A. A. U. Questions Paddock's Status

Los Angeles, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—The amateur status of Charles Paddock, champion sprinter, challenged recently by the National Amateur Athletic union, will come up before the Southern Pacific association of the A. A. U. for discussion next Thursday evening, Maj. Owen Bird, chairman of registration of the local body, announced today.

Use of Paddock's name in connection with a gasoline advertisement prompted the national body to suggest to Robert S. Weaver, president of the Southern Pacific association, that the matter be investigated.

14 Games Scheduled For Catholic U. Frosh

Fourteen games, exclusive of two already played, have been scheduled for the Catholic University freshmen quintet, All of the District public school teams, excepting Business, and several of the prep schools, are listed.

Devitt prep will tackle the yearlings Friday night in a preliminary to the Varsity-American contest in the Brookland gymnasium. All of the freshmen's contests but two will be staged as preliminaries to varsity clashes. Following is the schedule:

January 14, Devitt; 19, Strayer's; 20, Eastern; 22, Western; 31, Eastern.

February 2, Central; 3, Emerson; 5, Leonardtown, at Leonardtown, Md.; 9, G. W. Freshmen; 14, Leonardtown; 18, Park View; 22, G. W. Freshmen, at G. W. U.; 24, Western; 26, Business.

Boys' Club Senators Beat Aloy Midgets

The Boys Club Senators ran their winning streak to eleven games with a 27-to-21 victory over the Aloysius Midgets in the Boys club gymnasium Saturday. The Senators exhibited a snappy passing game and a strong defense. C. Cassassa was the high scorer with four field goals and a foul shot.

The Senators dispute a victory claimed by the St. Peter's Midgets in this paper. St. Peter's said the final score was 35 to 33, while the Senators maintain they won, 36 to 35.

YANKEE FIVE BEATS FORT TOSSERS

Macdonald's Shooting Defeats Soldiers by 51-24 Score.

LACKING in team play, which it is sure to develop later but possessing keen scoring eyes, the Washington Yankee five made an auspicious local debut yesterday, defeating the Fort Humphreys tossers 51 to 24, in the Gonzaga gymnasium in the first of a series of Sunday exhibitions.

The Soldiers began the game in a manner which seemed to point toward an upset of the District favorites. That was before Mickey Macdonald started on his rampage of seven field goals from an assortment of angles.

The Yankees steadily drew away from the service team to a 21-10 lead at the half and then carried on in the second half to put the game on ice.

All of the Yankees had a hand in the scoring, with Nate Sauber, the smallest contributor, with five points. The Mitchell brothers were prominent in the floor work, with Joe accounting for five field goals and Orrel four baskets and three fouls. Louis Shields, playing in place of Joe Sweeney, who was operated on Saturday, gave a good account of himself and made four baskets.

The Fort Humphreys team depended mostly upon Williams and Dyson, a pair of fast forwards, who bore the brunt of the scoring for the Soldiers.

Best Welterweights In Bouts This Week

New York, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Welterweight gladiators will skirmish over the canvas this week in the East's pugilistic headliners, with a return battle between Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, and Eddie Roberts, of Tacoma, Wash., claiming chief interest.

Roberts, who put a blight on Dundee's title hopes by stopping the Baltimore fighter in one round a few weeks ago, will be making his first Eastern appearance as a star in this bout, which is scheduled for ten rounds at Madison Square Garden on Friday night.

Pete Latzo, the welterweight champion, and Sergt. Sammy Baker are due to bring off their long-deferred match at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., on the same night. Baker also has a fistic date here tomorrow night with Henry Goldberg, of Brooklyn.

Senior League Teams In 5 Games in Week

Five games will be played by Washington senior league teams this week. At the barracks Wednesday the Clovers meet the Independents and the Epiphany Roses face Park View. The Friday double-header on the same floor will find the Auths and Arrows clashing and the Colleglans meeting the Clovers.

The Elliots and Auths are due to mix it in the Congress Heights auditorium Friday night in a preliminary to the Yosemite game.

Stantons Seek Games; St. Stephen's Booked

The Stantons have reorganized and are ready to make a bid for the District basketball title. Games with teams having gyms are wanted by the Stantons who have signed the following players: Hanback, Tripp, Gooch, Diehl, Keppel, Streets and Croson. Manager Richardson may be addressed at at 1601 U street southeast or called at Franklin 4647.

In a preliminary to the Yankee game in the Gonzaga gym next Sunday, the Stantons will meet the St. Stephen's five.

Walford Wins Soccer Title

Marlboro Clinches the Honors in Sec. 2 by Beating Rosedale.

Monroe's Tie With British Kills Its Title Chance.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

WALFORD cinched the title in Section 1 of the Washington Soccer league yesterday, when it defeated the German-American Reserves by the record-breaking score of 19 to 0. Monroe lost its opportunity to tie the champions when it was tied by the British United eleven, 1 to 1, and Fort Myer practically clinched third place by defeating the German-Americans, 1 to 0. Marlboro eliminated all mathematical possibilities of losing in Section 2 by stopping the youthful Rosedale eleven, 4 to 1. Rockville forfeited to Army Medicos.

The value of a strong defense was emphasized in the British United-Monroe tilt. The Monroe boys pressed for the entire 90 minutes, but only once, and then by virtue of a free kick, was it possible for the former schoolboys to penetrate the Britishers' goal.

Graham, A. Clark and E. Clark passed with all of their early season skill, but the brilliant work of Taylor, Thompson and Wright, defensive men of the Uniteds, held off the Monroe invasion. The first half ended in a scoreless tie, although Monroe had the advantage in this period.

The former schoolboys carried the game to the British goal mouth repeatedly, but each time were met by the stone-wall defense of the English backs.

For three-fourths of the second half, the teams battled on the same even terms as in the first and, with but fifteen minutes to play, Wright sent a well-placed kick to Boyd, who dribbled several yards and passed to Smith on the left wing. The latter dribbled the leather on a fast run until about 25 yards from the Monroe goal and then, with his left foot, hooked a terrible shot past Fey, Monroe goalie, for the first score of the game.

Apparently this goal meant victory to the British United club, as Taylor seemed an almost impenetrable obstacle, but the fate of sport took a hand and the Monroe kickers equalized in the final five minutes of play.

After the British goal, the Monroe team pressed with renewed vigor, and as a result Taylor was besieged with shot after shot, all of which he saved in clever style.

Finally Earl Clark sent a low swift shot at the British goal which Taylor was fortunate to stop and in his anxiety to get the ball away from danger he took more than the two steps allowed by soccer rules to goal keepers while the ball is in

George Lott Named West's No. 1 Netman

Chicago, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—For the fourth successive year, George M. Lott, jr., of Chicago, ranks as the best player in the Western section of the United States Lawn Tennis association, it was announced today by Leo J. Lunn, chairman of the ranking committee of the association. Lucien E. Williams, also of Chicago, was placed second and Johnny Hennessey, of Indianapolis, was third followed by Kirk Reid, of Cleveland, Art Shaw, Axel Gravem and Al Green, all of Chicago, and Leroy West, of Evanston.

Marion Leighton, of Chicago, who has headed the women's singles division on and off for the last six years, again rates as the best woman player in the Western section. Number 1 players in other classes are: Junior singles, Emmett J. Pare, Chicago; Boys' singles, John Sheldon, Glencoe, Ill.; Girls' singles, Clara Louise Zinke, Cincinnati.

Watt Let Out by Reading Will Manage Richmond

Reading, Pa., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Al Watt, second baseman of the Reading Internationals, has been released so that he might accept a position as manager of the Richmond club of the Virginia league, William Ashton, Keystone secretary, announced tonight.

Watt was traded to Reading last season by Newark.

Watt is a former District sandlot star who was given a trial by the Washington club a few years ago. He is a brother of Frank Watt, who led the Texas league in pitching last season and who goes South with the Detroit Tigers this spring.

SCHOOL FIVES FACE BUSY WEEK

Cappelli Is Ineligible for Eastern Five This Advisory.

BOTH in quantity and quality, this week will be an important one in scholastic basketball cirles. The peak of the season will be reached with 17 games scheduled, including the pair of double-headers in the public high school championship series. The freshmen teams of Georgetown and Maryland universities and St. Alban's will make their debuts.

In the public high series, Eastern will make its initial apearance tomorrow, facing Business in the first game at the Arcadia with Central and Tech furnishing the action in the second conest. Friday's championship games will find Eastern tackling Western and Central meeting Business.

Today's program consists of a pair of battles which should prove interesting. Strayer's Business College will seek to make up some of its recent lost ground in a game with St. John's to be played on the City club floor while Western will entertain the Mount St. Joseph's five in the Western gymnasium.

The public championship doubleheader will have the field to itself tomorrow, but Wednesday will be productive of three battles. Eastern will seek revenge for a drubbing at the hands of Gonzaga last week in a game to be played in the Gonzaga gym.

The Georgetown freshmen will swing into action for the first time, meeting Devitt Prep in a preliminary to the Georgetown-Lynchburg game, while Western will travel to College Park to help the Maryland Frosh open their season.

The lone Thursday game will find the Gonzaga and Western fives clashing in the former's gymnasium. This game has long been anticipated and should test the Purple tossers, who have been on a rampage.

Friday will be marked by four contests. In addition to the series games at the Arcadia, Devitt Prep will meet the Catholic University freshmen in a preliminary to varsity-American game, while St. Alban's makes its debut against Emerson on the former's court.

Five games are scheduled for Saturday, with three being played on out-of-town courts. In the local games, Gonzaga faces Business in the Stenographer's gym, while Eastern meets the Georgetown freshmen in a preliminary game in the Ryan gym. Tech journeys to Alexandria for a clash with the Episcopal High five; Strayers shows its wares at Woodstock, Va., opposing Randolph-Macon, while Gonzaga tackles Leonard hall at Leonardtown, Md.

Central and Business will be the favorites in tomorrow's series games. The manner in which the Mt. Pleasant five handled Western in the opener while Tech bowed to Business is the reason. Tech, however, showed a lot of fighting spirit which may serve it against its traditional rival.

While Eastern will be making its first appearance in the race, the majority of fans are looking for a Business victory. Eastern has not been very successful in preseries games and has but one veteran left, Capt. Cy Hogarth, of last year's brilliant team.

Teddy Cappelli, Eastern High forward, failed in the last advisory and will not compete in tomorrow's opening game with Business at the Arcadia, it was learned yesterday. He was being counted upon by Coach Guyon to star in the series, having clinched his position in the preseries games.

Cappelli made up his deficiency, but too late to keep him in good standing for athletics. Eastern has three important games after February 1 and its followers are hoping that Cappelli will be eligible at that time.

Parker Faber, brother of Jack Faber, now at Maryland, will probably be paired with McAllister on the front end of the Eastern team tomorrow.

50 IN PINEHURST GOLF.

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 9 (By A. P.). A field of 50 will launch the third annual mid-January golf tourney here tomorrow, for the most important competition of the month.

SAUNDERS STAR IN DECISIVE VICTORY

Washington Makes 18 Points on Fouls; Always in Lead.

Mumby Best for Visitors; Miller Outplays Voss.

WASHINGTON met another of its rivals in the American Basketball league last night, and, due to the fact that the latter were not the Celtics nor the Cleveland club, Washington won the game, 46 to 27. Baltimore was the opponent, and this team proved conclusively that the fact that it has won only one game in the league was no fluke. A few hundred persons saw the game at the Arcadia.

Manager Lou Sugarman, of the Baltimore team, presented a combination that did everything well but shooting for the basket. Baltimore obtained many more scoring opportunities than did Palace but failed to convert its wild heaves into points.

Baltimore missed its shots with more ease and grace than has been shown by any league team in Washington. Long shots and short shots were bounding off the backboard and the rim of the basket with regularity, and the Washington players, aware of the situation, were content to obtain the ball on the rebound and work it within scoring distance. That Washington's scoring efforts were slightly more accurate than Baltimore's is attested by the score.

"Rusty" Saunders was found to be in a scoring mood last night, and his mates let him bear the brunt of the attack. He accounted for eighteen points during the game, including eight goals from the foul line. He missed one free toss.

Saunders' play aided Washington greatly in amassing a 22-10 lead in the first half.

Referee Rumsey, of Philadelphia, saw to it that there was no rough play. He blew the whistle on every third breath and there was a continual procession to the free toss line by both teams.

Basketball was played occasionally during the game, which for the most part took on the appearance of a foul-goal shooting tournament. Washington attempted 29 foul goals and succeeded in 18. Baltimore made 13 out of 24 shots from the foul line.

"Mike" Mumby, formerly of Rochester, was the one player on the Baltimore team who appeared in a class with the Palace club.

For some unknown reason, Mumby was not inserted into the contest until late in the first half. Once in the game, he was a source of worry to the Palace guards despite the fact that he scored only one field goal.

Washington's new center, "Tillie" Voss, was outplayed for the greater part of the game by a Washington cast-off, Eddie Miller. Miller continually won the tap-off from Voss and started his mates on the attack, all of which was nullified by the difficult shooting of his team. Miller himself was no exception, and he missed enough shots after penetrating the Palace defense to have won the ball game by himself.

AMERICAN U. FIVE TO GET REAL TESTS THIS WEEK

Virginia Host To Maryland Tonight

Georgetown Courtmen Will Open Season Wednesdy.

Shifts in Line-Up of G. W. Team Planned by Coach.

By JACK ESPEY.

SEVEN victories in a row is a feat which American University or any other college team can well be proud of, but the real proof of the Methodist tossers' strength must yet be presented. That seems to be the opinion of local basketball fans as the District quintets this week swing into the heaviest part of their schedules so far.

The American players will be tested twice within the next five days, the George Washington team entertaining them tomorrow night in the H street gymnasium, and the Catholic University five doing the same on Friday night at Brookland.

If American can dispose of these two opponents, there can be no denying the Springston-coached machine of a place in the official "big time." Close followers of the Methodists confidently expect this to materialize.

It is pointed out by American supporters that the speedy, accurate passing game of their favorites, similar to the professional style, will enable them to hurdle the obstacles at hand, since both George Washington and Catholic University use the college style strictly. Also, the ability of the Methodists to sink a majority of their long shots will make negligible the success of the rivals' close guarding near the baskets.

A radical change in George Washington's line-up is likely, according to Coach Jimmy Lemon, the work of the Colonials against Gallaudet last Saturday night having been disappointing. Lemon will give his squad a hard drill tonight and then will pick the men who will start against American.

Henry Sapp, the guard who starred for George Washington Saturday, may be shifted to a forward position, but aside from this change Lemon would not indicate last night what his new intentions are. "We were upset by that loss," said the G. W. coach, "and the players who started that game are not certain of being in their old positions Tuesday night."

The same starters who have won three straight games for Catholic will in all probability face American Friday. These men are Long and Keale, forwards; Carney, center, and Foley and Harvey, guards.

In Foley, Catholic boasts of one of the best all-round basketball players in the country. The flashy guard, who often outscores the rival forward he is guarding, has earned the deep respect of every team against which he has performed in the last two years.

While the other Cardinal tossers are also very capable, it is Foley who stands out as the big threat to the American team.

The week's schedule will be opened today by the Maryland five in a game with the University of Virginia at Charlottesville. Coach Burton Shipley will entrain with his men at 3:45 p. m. and the Cavaliers will be met starting at 8 o'clock.

Wednesday night Georgetown will wheel into action at Ryan gymnasium, acting as host to Lynchburg college in the inaugural basketball game at the Hilltop court. Much interest is centered on Coach O'Reilly's cagers and what kind of a showing a revamped combination will make in its debut.

O'Reilly will select his starting lineup after today's practice session. He has about twelve good men from whom to pick, among them being Nork, Donovan, Hickey and Tomaini of last year's first-string squad.

On Saturday night Georgetown will engage Mount St. Mary's, of Emmittsburg, Md., at the Hilltop.

Catholic and Maryland will invade Annapolis in an effort to stop the winning streak of the Navy tossers who have won six straight. The Brooklanders will meet the Middies Wednesday afternoon and the College Park players will appear against them Saturday afternoon.

American League

SECOND BASEMEN

WHO was the leading second baseman in the American league last year? Probably most fans would say Stanley Harris, the brilliant Washington second baseman. Others might say a word for Eddie Collins, deposed manager of the White Sox, generally considered the greatest second baseman who ever lived. And no doubt partisans of other ball clubs could find much praise for the keystone guardian of the local team, whoever he might be.

We have adopted a little system of trying to read from the records some real evidence upon this moot question. We have selected ten points, two on base running, five on batting, three on fielding. These ten points can tell us much about any player. In most cases their evidence is conclusive.

Let us apply these ten points to the second base problem in the American league. Who scored the most runs? Spurgeon, of Cleveland. Harris was second and Lazzeri third. Who made the most hits? Spurgeon again, Lazzeri second and Harris third. Who had the most total bases? Lazzeri with his home-run bat. Spurgeon was second and Harris third.

In stolen bases Harris and Lazzeri were tied for first place. Eddie Collins, still showing a flash of the brilliant form which once made him a champion base stealer, was third. Spurgeon led in sacrifices. Harris and Gehringer, the new Detroit second baseman, were tied for second place. In driving home runs, Lazzeri was first, Harris second and Collins third.

Batting average is perhaps the most coveted of our ten points. Here Collins led, with Spurgeon second and Harris third. In chances accepted Spurgeon was first, Harris second and Lazzeri third. In number of assists Spurgeon was first, Lazzeri second and Harris third. Bishop, of the Athletics, had the finest fielding average by virtue of his remarkable run of errorless games. Gehrringer was second and Harris third.

How did they rank on points? Spurgeon was first in five and second in two for a total of 19. Harris was first in but one, second in four and third in five for a titai of 16. Lazzeri's total was 15. The vote among the other candidates was scattering. Evidently the contest narrows to three candidates, Spurgeon, Harris and Lazzeri.

According to points, Spurgeon has a slight lead, with Harris second and Lazzeri close behind. But here we must read between the lines. Mathematics can carry us only so far. Spurgeon and Lazzeri are both lacking in one quality that Harris possesses, experience.

Moreover, the ten points we have selected are not all of equal importance. Besides, they are tempered somewhat by accidents or sickness. The player fortunate to get in 154 games would have a decided advantage over the player who took part in 140 games. This is perhaps as it should be. The player in 154 games actually did more work than the player in 140. However, we can easily lose sight of comparative merits by adhering too rigidly to any set system of statistics.

There is one illuminating feature of Harris' work. He received honorable mention in every one of our ten points. He never failed to find a place. And this all-round excellence of his work is in itself important.

With all due respect to Spurgeon and Lazzeri, two fine athletes, who are genuine comers, Stanley Harris was the leading second baseman of the American league.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

By BERT E. COLLYER

JESSICA. This is the XXX special sent along by the chief of staff and due to turn the trick in the baby race, opening dash at the Fairgrounds. This is a mighty sweet filly and the stable is down, hook, line and sinker. Such is the gab appended. BEST SPADE will rule the choice, but like the clockers' best, JACK OLEON, has not drawn such favorable post position. The Greentree representatives have worked well but may need the race.

The Audley should win its annual purse in the second. In this they have MIAMI TRIAD and CROATAN. The contention will in all probability come from the much strangled FRANK HAWLEY—this one has been on edge since Noah came over in the ark.

HARRY CARROLL, all set and primed to the gills is the one to get washday money with, in view of the fact that mud horses race well over this deep track. I look for him to tin can. VIM GINGER will go well as also FLIGHTY and UPTON. I still maintain HARRY CARROLL is a real good thing.

BOLTON on that last race is asked to trim the Bradley mare BENEFICIENT. The latter is good, game and consistent. However, I believe she likes to hear her feet rattle. BANTON and HUNTSMAN are closely bunched.

JOHN T. D., which has been in the hands of the undertaker but which is finer than split silk, is to be taken out of the old vat this afternoon. Commissions in huge gobs made their appearance in Kansas City. MISS MEISE is extra fit and may rule the choice.

ALOPEX, even though he drew an outside position, will strangle the beadles named in the sixth. He is on the also eligible list; therefore is a doubtful starter. Nice sort of a hide and game to the core. DOLLY BAY, OPTIMIST, CHICK UP and LANCASTER are right bang up. The latter is the class but a very lame horse.

SWIZZLE is dropped into a nice soft spot in the closing spasm. He should be able to back home in front of such mavericks, nodding to the folks in the grandstand. More anon.

EARL MOSER IN TOWN.

After a fling in the Central Professional Basketball league with the Akron club, Earl Moser, former Central High and independent star, has returned to the city and may sign with the Yankees.

WALFORD, MARLBORO CLINCH SOCCER TITLES

their possession, and alert old Jess Burton, the referee, rightfully gave a free kick.

Graham took the kick for Monroe and showed his knowledge of the game by passing to Blanche, as a free kick of this kind can not result in a goal unless played by a man other than the taker of the free kick. Blanche sent the leather spinning into the net for the tying marker.

Walford's title-winning game resulted in two record-breaking performances. The score, 19 to 0, is a Washington Soccer league record, and the eight goals scored by Jack Watts beats by two the record of any previous performer in the local league.

Having but little chance to cope with the league leaders in any department of the game, before it started the "Little Germans" were further weakened by having but nine men on the field. As was expected, the game was merely exercise for the champs.

Fort Myer's victory over the German-Americans was unexpected in many soccer quarters. The German club looked exceptionally good in its victory over Monroe a week past and was expected to stop Fort Myer with ease, but the Soldiers flashed some of last year's form and displayed as good a kicking game as has been played by any team in the league.

It was left to "Shorty" O'Connell, well known in sandlot football circles as a drop-kicker extraordinary, which he is reputed to have learned on the soccer field, to score the winning tally in the closing minutes of the contest. Lieut. Charles D. Palmer used good strategy in moving Greenlee, his capable fullback, up to the forward line and this individual teamed perfectly with Franco and O'Connell. With but five minutes to play, O'Connell scored the winning goal.

Rosedale tried hard but unsuccessfully to dash Marlboro's championship hopes. The brunt of the struggle put up by Rosedale was borne by Irving, former Pierce school star, who broke up innumerable Marlboro attacks.

Frank Wyville, of Marlboro, was the offensive star. He passed cleverly and scored three of his club's goals. Mitchell and Wilson of the victors also played creditable games.

No Wins for Yale Five Since Season of 1924

New York, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—One of the most amazing losing streaks of college athletics holds Yale in its grip for the third successive season on the basketball court.

Going down before Dartmouth last night by a score of 29 to 21, the Eli tossers lost their second match of the current season in the intercollegiate league and prolonged a string of defeats which stretches through the league campaigns of 1925 and 1926. Records today disclosed that the Blue has lost more than 20 straight league caging contests.

The unraveling of the losing string began late in the 1924 season and has continued unbroken since. There was some consolation for Yale in the scoring records, which placed Simmen at the top with 16 points.

Cueist Albert Cutler At Arcadia This Week

District billiard fans are promised a treat this week at the Arcadia parlor, when Albert Cutler, former world's junior balkline champion, will give matinee and night exhibitions daily at 2:30 and 8:15.

Leading experts of Washington will be taken on and, following these matches, Cutler will show a number of trick and fancy shots, concluding with a lecture on billiards. No admission will be charged.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made yesterday that the Washington Recreation league basketball schedules for the first two weeks of play will be announced on Tuesday.

The last-minute organization of two or three new groups have made it impossible to make up the entire schedule, according to Miss Louise Sullivan, basketball manager, who has extended the entry date to Friday, January 14.

Team managers may arrange physical examination dates in their own gymnasium by Dr. Joseph Murphy, chief medical inspector of the public school, by communicating with Miss Margaret H. Craig at Main 992. Entrance fees should also be sent to Miss Craig, at 1022 Eleventh street northwest, and the eligible player lists should be mailed to Miss Sullivan, 17 T street northeast.

COURT MEETING TONIGHT.

Basketball players and officials from all local schools on club teams are invited to attend a meeting for the discussion and illustration of the new rules at Business High school this evening at 8:30.

The meeting will be under the direction of Miss Hazel Sayre, chairman of the examining committee of the Washington board of officials of the National Amateur Athletic Federation.

Illinois Court Team Sets Pace in Big Ten

Chicago, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Four teams of championship caliber, who tied for honors in the Big Ten basketball race a year ago, have launched their 1927 season with a victory, while Illinois tonight leads all four—Iowa, Indiana, Purdue and Michigan—with two conference victories in the first week. Minnesota is in the cellar with two games lost, one to Illinois and one to Michigan.

Letters Are Awarded West Point Athletes

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 9.—Thirty-three cadets were today awarded athletic insignia for participation in football and soccer last fall. Fourteen major "A's," eight monograms and one manager's insignia were awarded for football, and nine minor "A's" and one manager's insignia for soccer.

For participation in football the major "A" was awarded to Wilson, H. E.; Daly, M. F.; Born, Saunders, L. G.; Sprague, Harding, N. B.; Schmidt, E. G.; Harbold, Meehan, Hammack, Cagle, Murrel, Dahl and Perry, G. W. R. The last four cadets being members of the plebe class, will receive their letters contingent upon completing satisfactorily the fourth year work.

The academy monogram was awarded to Davidson, G. H; Gilbreth, J. H.; Hewitt, Simonton, Trapnell, Brentnall, Seeman and Elias. Holland, J. P., football manager, was given the major sports manager's insignia. The minor sports "A," for soccer, was awarded to Glasgow, W. J.; Kirkpatrick, H. B.; Luebberman, H. A.; Alexander, A. L.; Briggs, J. E.; Sawyer, Smith, G. F.; Tate and Persse. The minor sports manager's insignia was given to W. S. Matthews.

Of the men awarded major "A's" for football, Wilson, Daly, Born, Saunders, Sprague, Harding, Schmidt, Harbold and Hammack have previously won their "A" in this sport. Wilson has won the major "A" in football, basketball and lacrosse; Daly, Born and Saunders have won it in football and lacrosse, and Sprague has won it in football and track.

HESS TO MEET THURSDAY.

The Hess Athletic club will meet Thursday at its club rooms, 415 Eighth street southeast at 8 p. m. All members are asked to attend.

B. C. CELTICS BEATEN BY KANAWHA

Goldblatt Shows Way to Point-Makers; Score, 23-17.

THE Kanawhas brought their standing in the Washington senior basketball league to .500 per cent last night with a 23-to-17 victory over the Boys' Club Celtics in a hard-fought and brilliantly-played preliminary to the Washington-Baltimore professional game at the Arcadia last night.

Abramson, Kanawha guard, played a prominent part in the Kanawha victory, accounting for 12 of his team's points, including three field goals and six fouls.

Dove performed in fine style for the Boys' Club representatives, but failed to score a field goal. Rosenblatt led the Celtics in point-making with two baskets and a foul.

Syracuse Quintet Ready for Cornell

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 9.—The annual invasion of Ithaca by Big Bill Orange will take place next Wednesday when Syracuse university's basketball squad meets the Big Red quintet of Cornell in the mammoth Ithaca drill shed.

Central New York fandom has displayed a keen interest in the forthcoming engagement and already there has been a brisk demand in Syracuse for tickets to the game. Last season the two games between Syracuse and Cornell drew about 7,000 spectators.

Vic Hanson and Gotch Carr will play the forwards for Syracuse, Capt. Lee and Cook will likely start at the guards, with Bill Eisemann at center.

CONSPIRACY IS SEEN BY ACCUSED PLAYERS

warned off by Landis. Both were allowed to finish the 1926 season, although Leonard's testimony was given last June and, both denying the charges, are still seeking a decision in their case.

If the commissioner makes a finding in the case of the 35 players accused by Risberg and Gandil, action is expected by Cobb and Speaker to force a verdict on their status.

Legal counsel for Speaker announced in Cleveland on Friday that they were planning to call on Landis the next day, but the visit was postponed when the commissioner announced he would not give his decision on the Risberg-Gandil charges until next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Swede Risberg Back Home; May Burst Another Bomb

Rochester, Minn., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Charles A. "Swede" Risberg was back at his farm near here after his trip to Chicago, where he appeared before Commissioner Landis to recite baseball's latest scandal.

Risberg intimated that he may burst another "bombshell" after investigating "mysterious" letters which, he said, had been sent to Commissioner Landis' office. He has not received the letters in question, but intimated that their contents might have a bearing on possible future disclosures of importance.

He declared he was surprised at the attitude of George "Buck" Weaver for the latter's failure to substantiate his statement before Landis. He added that "Chick" Gandil and I are ready to tell it again if they want us to.

"We are willing to go to Washington with our story if necessary," said Risberg. "I told them nothing but the truth and I'll never change my story."

BREAKING THE RECORD!

The shortest big bout on record was for the heavyweight championship of Europe in 1918. It lasted 50 seconds.

—and how about this record?

There is one cigarette, and only one, which has been among the top five of all brands, every year since 1906!

Takes a top-notcher to turn in a record like that. Apparently, too, it takes the taste of Virginia tobacco straight—for Piedmont wins on taste, and Piedmont is all golden Virginia tobacco.

Note. With the sole exception of our celebrated Richmond Straight Cuts, Piedmont is the only "Virginia tobacco" cigarette enjoying a national sale.

AMERICAN U. FIVE TO GET REAL TESTS THIS WEEK

Virginia Host To Maryland Tonight

Georgetown Courtmen Will Open Season Wednesdy.

Shifts in Line-Up of G. W. Team Planned by Coach.

By JACK ESPEY.

SEVEN victories in a row is a feat which American University or any other college team can well be proud of, but the real proof of the Mehtodist tossers' strength must yet be preserved. That seems to be the opinion of local basketball fans as the District quintets this week swing into the heaviest part of their schedules so far.

The American players will be tested twice within the next five days, the George Washington team entertaining them tomorrow night in the H street gymnasium, and the Catholic University five doing the same on Friday night at Brookland.

If American can dispose of these two opponents, there can be no denying the Springston-coached machine of a place in the official "big time." Close followers of the Methodists confidently expect this to materialize.

It is pointed out by American supporters that the speedy, accurate passing game of their favorites, similar to the professional style, will enable them to hurdle the obstacles at hand, since both George Washington and Catholic University use the college style strictly. Also, the ability of the Methodists to sink a majority of their long shots will make negligible the success of the rivals' close guarding near the baskets.

A radical change in George Washington's line-up is likely, according to Coach Jimmy Lemon, the work of the Colonials against Gallaudet last Saturday night having been disappointing. Lemon will give his squad a hard drill tonight and then will pick the men who will start against American.

Henry Sapp, the guard who starred for George Washington Saturday, may be shifted to a forward position, but aside from this change Lemon would not indicate last night what his new intentions are. "We were upset by that loss," said the G. W. coach, "and the players who started that game are not certain of being in their old positions Tuesday night."

The same starters who have won three straight games for Catholic will in all probability face American Friday. These men are Long and Keale, forwards; Carney, center, and Foley and Harvey, guards.

In Foley, Catholic boasts of one of the best all-round basketball players in the country. The flashy guard, who often outscores the rival forward he is guarding, has earned the deep respect of every team against which he has performed in the last two years.

While the other Cardinal tossers are also very capable, it is Foley who stands out as the big threat to the American team.

The week's schedule will be opened today by the Maryland five in a game with the University of Virginia at Charlottesville. Coach Burton Shipley will entrain with his men at 3:45 p. m. and the Cavaliers will be met starting at 8 o'clock.

Wednesday night, Georgetown will wheel into action at Ryan gymnasium, acting as host to Lynchburg college in the inaugural basketball game at the Hilltop court. Much interest is centered on Coach O'Reilly's cagers and what kind of a showing a revamped combination will make in its debut.

O'Reilly will select his starting lineup after today's practice session. He has about twelve good men from whom to pick, among them being Nork, Donovan, Hickey and Tomaini of last year's first-string squad.

On Saturday night Georgetown will engage Mount St. Mary's, of Emmittsburg, Md., at the Hilltop.

Catholic and Maryland will invade Annapolis in an effort to stop the winning streak of the Navy tossers who have won six straight. The Brooklanders will meet the Middies Wednesday afternoon and the College Park players will appear against them Saturday afternoon.

American League

SECOND BASEMEN

WHO was the leading second baseman in the American league last year? Probably most fans would say Stanley Harris, the brilliant Washington second baseman. Others might say a word for Eddie Collins, deposed manager of the White Sox, generally considered the greatest second baseman who ever lived. And no doubt partisans of other ball clubs could find much praise for the keystone guardian of the local team, whoever he might be.

We have adopted a little system of trying to read from the records some real evidence upon this moot question. We have selected ten points, two on base running, five on batting, three on fielding. These ten points can tell us much about any player. In most cases their evidence is conclusive.

Let us apply these ten points to the second base problem in the American league. Who scored the most runs? Spurgeon, of Cleveland. Harris was second and Lazzeri third. Who made the most hits? Spurgeon again, Lazzeri second and Harris third. Who had the most total bases? Lazzeri with his home-run bat. Spurgeon was second and Harris third.

In stolen bases Harris and Lazzeri were tied for first place. Eddie Collins, still showing a flash of the brilliant form which once made him a champion base stealer, was third. Spurgeon led in sacrifices. Harris and Gehringer, the new Detroit second baseman, were tied for second place. In driving home runs, Lazzeri was first, Harris second and Collins third.

Batting average is perhaps the most coveted of our ten points. Here Collins led, with Spurgeon second and Harris third. In chances accepted Spurgeon was first, Harris second and Lazzeri third. In number of assists Spurgeon was first, Lazzeri second and Harris third. Bishop, of the Athletics, had the finest fielding average by virtue of his remarkable run of errorless games. Gehrirnger was second and Harris third.

How did they rank on points? Spurgeon was first in five and second in two for a total of 19. Harris was first in but one, second in four and third in five for a titol of 16. Lazzeri's total was 15. The vote among the other candidates was scattering. Evidently the contest narrows to three candidates, Spurgeon, Harris and Lazzeri.

According to points, Spurgeon has a slight lead, with Harris second and Lazzeri close behind. But here we must read between the lines. Mathematics can carry us only so far. Spurgeon and Lazzeri are both lacking in one quality that Harris possesses, experience.

Moreover, the ten points we have selected are not all of equal importance. Besides, they are tempered somewhat by accidents or sickness. The player fortunate to get in 154 games would have a decided advantage over the player who took part in 140 games. This is perhaps as it should be. The player in 154 games actually did more work than the player in 140. However, we can easily lose sight of comparative merits by adhering too rigidly to any set system of statistics.

There is one illuminating feature of Harris' work. He received honorable mention in every one of our ten points. He never failed to find a place. And this all-round excellence of his work is in itself important.

With all due respect to Spurgeon and Lazzeri, two fine athletes, who are genuine comers, Stanley Harris was the leading second baseman of the American league.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

By BERT E. COLLYER

JESSICA. This is the XXX special sent along by the chief of staff and due to turn the trick in the baby race, opening dash at the Fairgrounds. This is a mighty sweet filly and the stable is down, hook, line and sinker. Such is the gab appended. BEST SPADE will rule the choice, but like the clockers' best, JACK OLEON, has not drawn such favorable post position. The Greentree representatives have worked well but may need the race.

The Audley should win its annual purse in the second. In this they have MIAMI TRIAD and CROATAN. The contention will in all probability come from the much strangled FRANK HAWLEY—this one has been on edge since Noah came over in the ark.

HARRY CARROLL, all set and primed to the gills is the one to get washday money with, in view of the fact that mud horses race well over this deep track. I look for him to tin can. VIM GINGER will go well as also FLIGHTY and UPTON. I still maintain HARRY CARROLL is a real good thing.

BOLTON on that last race is asked to trim the Bradley mare BENEFICENT. The latter is good, game and consistent. However, I believe she likes to hear her feet rattle. BANTON and HUNTSMAN are closely bunched.

JOHN T. D., which has been in the hands of the undertaker but which is finer than split silk, is to be taken out of the old vat this afternoon. Commissions in huge gobs made their appearance in Kansas City. MISS MEISE is extra fit and may rule the choice.

ALOPEX, even though he drew an outside position, will strangle the beadles named in the sixth. He is on the also eligible list; therefore is a doubtful starter. Nice sort of a hide and game to the core. DOLLY BAY, OPTIMIST, CHICK UP and LANCASTER are right bang up. The latter is the class but a very lame horse.

SWIZZLE is dropped into a nice soft spot in the closing spasm. He should be able to back home in front of such mavericks, nodding to the folks in the grandstand. More anon.

their possession, and alert old Jess Burton, the referee, rightfully gave a free kick.

Graham took the kick for Monroe and showed his knowledge of the game by passing to Blanche, as a free kick of this kind can not result in a goal unless played by a man other than the taker of the free kick. Blanche sent the leather spinning into the net for the tying marker.

Walford's title-winning game resulted in two record-breaking performances. The score, 19 to 0, is a Washington Soccer league record, and the eight goals scored by Jack Watts beats by two the record of any previous performer in the local league.

Having but little chance to cope with the league leaders in any department of the game, before it started the "Little Germans" were further weakened by having but nine men on the field. As was expected, the game was merely exercise for the champs.

Fort Myer's victory over the German-Americans was unexpected in many soccer quarters. The German club looked exceptionally good in its victory over Monroe a week past and was expected to stop Fort Myer with ease, but the soldiers flashed some of last year's form and displayed as good a kicking game as has been played by any team in the league.

It was left to "Shorty" O'Connell, well known in sandlot football circles as a drop-kicker extraordinary, which he is reputed to have learned on the soccer field, to score the winning tally in the closing minutes of the contest. Lieut. Charles D. Palmer used good strategy in moving Greenlee, his capable fullback, up to the forward line and this individual teamed perfectly with Franco and O'Connell. With but five minutes to play, O'Connell scored the winning goal.

Rosedale tried hard but unsuccessfully to dash Marlboro's championship hopes. The brunt of the struggle put up by Rosedale was borne by Irving, former Pierce school star, who broke up innumerable Marlboro attacks.

Frank Wyville, of Marlboro, was the offensive star. He passed cleverly and scored three of his club's goals. Mitchell and Wilson of the victors also played creditable games.

No Wins for Yale Five Since Season of 1924

New York, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—One of the most amazing losing streaks of college athletics holds Yale in its grip for the third successive season on the basketball court.

Going down before Dartmouth last night by a score of 29 to 21, the Eli tossers lost their second match of the current season in the intercollegiate league and prolonged a string of defeats which stretches through the league campaigns of 1925 and 1926. Records today disclosed that the Blue has lost more than 20 straight league caging contests.

The unraveling of the losing string began late in the 1924 season and has continued unbroken since. There was some consolation for Yale in the scoring records, which placed Simmen at the top with 16 points.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made yesterday that the Washington Recreation league basketball schedules for the first two weeks of play will be announced on Tuesday.

The last-minute organization of two or three new groups have made it impossible to make up the entire schedule, according to Miss Louise Sullivan, basketball manager, who has extended the entry date to Friday, January 14.

Team managers may arrange physical examination dates in their own gymnasium by Dr. Joseph Murphy, chief medical inspector of the public school, by communicating with Miss Margaret H. Craig at Main 992. Entrance fees should also be sent to Miss Craig, at 1022 Eleventh street northwest, and the eligible player lists should be mailed to Miss Sullivan, 17 T street northeast.

COURT MEETING TONIGHT.

Basketball players and officials from all local schools on club teams are invited to attend a meeting for the discussion and illustration of the new rules at Business High school this evening at 8:30.

The meeting will be under the direction of Miss Hazel Sayre, chairman of the examining committee of the Washington board of officials of the National Amateur Athletic Federation.

Illinois Court Team Sets Pace in Big Ten

Chicago, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Four teams of championship caliber, who tied for honors in the Big Ten basketball race a year ago, have launched their 1927 season with a victory, while Illinois tonight leads all four—Iowa, Indiana, Purdue and Michigan—with two conference victories in the first week. Minnesota is in the cellar with two games lost, one to Illinois and one to Michigan.

D. C. Advertiser 4th In Fla. Golf Tourney

St. Augustine, Fla., Jan. 9.—C. I. Purnam, of Washington, finished in a tie for third place in an eighteen-hole medal play handicap today, preliminary to the championship golf tournament of the winter golf league of advertising interests, which will start tomorrow over the St. Augustine links.

Purnam was knotted with J. A. Sullivan, of New York, and Paul R. McKinney, of Belleville, N. J. The Washington representative had a card of 88-16-72, while Sullivan had 94-18-72, and McKinney, 82-10-72.

Ralph Strassman, of New York, topped the field of more than 75 with a card of 92-22-70. Rodney E. Boon, president of the winter golf league, and Dr. A. R. Gardner, both of New York, tied for second with respective cards of 91-20-71 and 85-14-71.

Letters Are Awarded West Point Athletes

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 9.—Thirty-three cadets were today awarded athletic insignia for participation in football and soccer last fall. Fourteen major "A's," eight monograms and one manager's insignia were awarded for football, and nine minor "A's" and one manager's insignia for soccer.

For participation in football the major "A" was awarded to Wilson, H. E.; Daly, M. F.; Born, Saunders, L. G.; Sprague, Harding, N. B.; Schmidt, E. G.; Harbold, Meehan, Hammack, Cagle, Murrel, Dahl and Perry, G. W. R. The last four cadets being members of the plebe class, will receive their letters contingent upon completing satisfactorily the fourth year work.

The academy monogram was awarded to Davidson, G. H.; Gilbreth, J. H.; Hewitt, Simonton, Trapnell, Brentnall, Seeman and Elias. Holland, J. P., football manager, was given the major sports manager's insignia. The minor sports "A," for soccer, was awarded to Glasgow, W. J.; Kirkpatrick, H. B.; Luebberman, H. A.; Alexander, A. L.; Briggs, J. E.; Sawyer, Smith, G. F.; Tate and Perse. The minor sports manager's insignia was given to W. S. Matthews.

Of the men awarded major "A's" for football, Wilson, Daly, Born, Saunders, Sprague, Harding, Schmidt, Harbold and Hammack have previously won their "A" in this sport. Wilson has won the major "A" in football, basketball and lacrosse; Daly, Born and Saunders have won it in football and lacrosse, and Sprague has won it in football and track.

HESS TO MEET THURSDAY.

The Hess Athletic club will meet Thursday at its club rooms, 415 Eighth street southeast at 8 p. m. All members are asked to attend.

B. C. CELTICS BEATEN BY KANAWHA

Goldblatt Shows Way to Point-Makers; Score, 23-17.

THE Kanawhas brought their standing in the Washington senior basketball league to .500 per cent last night with a 23-to-17 victory over the Boys' Club Celtics in a hard-fought and brilliantly-played preliminary to the Washington-Baltimore professional game at the Arcadia last night.

Abramson, Kanawha guard, played a prominent part in the Kanawha victory, accounting for 12 of his team's points, including three field goals and six fouls.

Dove performed in fine style for the Boys' Club representatives, but failed to score a field goal. Rosenblatt led the Celtics in point-making with two baskets and a foul.

Syracuse Quintet Ready for Cornell

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 9.—The annual invasion of Ithaca by Big Bill Orange will take place next Wednesday when Syracuse university's basketball squad meets the Big Red quintet of Cornell in the mammoth Ithaca drill shed.

Central New York fandom has displayed a keen interest in the forthcoming engagement and already there has been a brisk demand in Syracuse for tickets to the game. Last season the two games between Syracuse and Cornell drew about 7,000 spectators.

warned off by Landis. Both were allowed to finish the 1926 season, although Leonard's testimony was given last June and, both denying the charges, are still seeking a decision in their case.

If the commissioner makes a finding in the case of the 35 players accused by Risberg and Gandil, action is expected by Cobb and Speaker to force a verdict on their status.

Legal counsel for Speaker announced in Cleveland on Friday that they were planning to call on Landis the next day, but the visit was postponed when the commissioner announced he would not give his decision on the Risberg-Gandil charges until next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Swede Risberg Back Home; May Burst Another Bomb

Rochester, Minn., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Charles A. "Swede" Risberg was back at his farm near here after his trip to Chicago, where he appeared before Commissioner Landis to recite baseball's latest scandal.

Risberg intimated that he may burst another "bombshell" after investigating "mysterious" letters which, he said, had been sent to Commissioner Landis' office. He has not received the letters in question, but intimated that their contents might have a bearing on possible future disclosures of importance.

He declared he was surprised at the attitude of George "Buck" Weaver for the latter's failure to substantiate his statement before Landis. He added that "Chick" Gandil and I are ready to tell it again if they want us to.

"We are willing to go to Washington with our story if necessary," said Risberg. "I told them nothing but the truth and I'll never change my story."

BREAKING THE RECORD!

The shortest big bout on record was for the heavyweight championship of Europe in 1918. It lasted 50 seconds.

—and how about this record?

There is one cigarette, and only one, which has been among the top five of all brands, every year since 1906!

Takes a top-notcher to turn in a record like that. Apparently, too, it takes the taste of Virginia tobacco straight—for Piedmont wins on taste, and Piedmont is all golden Virginia tobacco!

Note. With the sole exception of our celebrated Richmond Straight Cuts, Piedmont is the only "Virginia tobacco" cigarette enjoying a national sale.

Temple Quartet Over WRC Tonight

During the Emerson hour tonight at WRC the Temple quartet will be heard. "Sylvia" and old favorites will be sung. Eugene Martinet, who arranges the programs, will sing the "Credo," from Othello, by Verdi. Other soloists will be Douglas McComas, Brian Tucker and Harry K. Rosenberger. The Emerson orchestra, under Malton Boyce, will play the "March of the Toys," by Victor Herbert; a "Spanish Rhapsody," by Serroni; "I'm Falling in Love with Some One" and "Pretty Soft for Simon," from "Naughty Marietta," and a closing number to be selected later.

The "Hires Harvesters" also will appear. The Star Radio Twins will sing with ukulele and piano accompaniment. The grand opera, "Faust," composed by Gounod, will be broadcast jointly with station WEAF at 10 o'clock.

Those LUCKY Pullens!

(COPYRIGHT 1926, BY EUGENE MACLEAN.)

Names and situations in this story are fictitious.

THE STORY SO FAR.

The Pullen family, in Washington, D. C., have had burglars twice since Mrs. Pullen bought a Chinese lacquered chest. The chest has been broken, a new chest has been mysteriously delivered to them, with a $100 bill in it, and Julia, pretty daughter of the family, has found another $100 bill in her room. Mrs. Pullen, romantically minded, wants Julia to have young men callers, and tells the girl of her own girlhood conquests. Pullen returns in the evening to find his wife sitting on the floor with pictures of young men surrounding her, and a new caracul fur coat on her lap. She tells him she does not know who sent her the coat.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IX.

PULLEN took the coat in his hands and spread it out. The heavy silk lining bore no mark of the maker, nor of the retailer who had sold it.

"It's heavy," he said, moving it up and down. "It's a mighty fine coat, Elsie."

His eyes turned to the photographs scattered about the floor.

"What are those pictures?" he asked, moving one of them with his foot.

"Just some old ones," his wife said, running her hand over the thick fur collar of the coat. "It must have cost $500 or more. Don't you think so?"

Pullen's mind, however, had strayed from the garment. "Isn't that the fellow you used to go with when I first met you?" he inquired, pointing at a photograph with his toe.

"Yes," Mrs. Pullen said. "Fred, who on earth sent this coat, do you suppose?"

"Don't know. What are you doing with these pictures?" He knelt down, dumping the fur in a heap beside him. "Who are all these fellows, anyhow?"

His wife gathered up the coat and held it close, caressing it. "Just a lot of the boys I used to know."

He was shuffling over the portraits, giving a quick glance to each.

"I got them out this morning," she explained. "I had them scattered around and was going to put them away before you came home. But when this coat came, I just couldn't move. I was so upset. Fred, there's something awfully uncanny about this. Did the man who sent the chest send the coat, too?"

Pullen's answer was interrupted by his daughter, who swung open the front door with a thump.

"Gee, it's chilly tonight," she said, coming into the living room. "I—why, hello! Playing with pictures, daddy?" Her glance fell upon her mother. "Where'd you get the spiffy coat?"

Mrs. Pullen's organ of speech had begun to function, and she told the story of the unexpected parcel with many gestures and comments.

"But what's daddy doing with all the photographs?" Julia inquired, after she had taken the coat and admired it. "Are they another surprise?"

"I didn't know these pictures were in the house," her father said. "Who are they?"

"Some boys—some old friends of mine," her mother answered, with a troubled glance at Pullen.

Julia laughed. "I see. Mama was telling me about some of her old sweeties this morning, daddy—I guess those are the very sweeties themselves."

"It's funny that I didn't know anything whatever about this," her father returned. He picked up one of the letters and began to read.

A hint of panic was in Mrs. Pullen's eyes. She reached down and took the letter from him. "Let me read these over first," she said. "I don't know what's in them."

"Neither do I," he responded, grimly. "I want to find out."

Jealous!" cried Julia, in delight. "You old dear! You're jealous of mama!"

"I am not jealous," he denied. "I merely want to know why a lot of mushy love letters from a lot of sick-faced squirts have been in my house for 20 years without my knowing anything about it."

Julia sank to the floor beside him with peals of laughter. Picking up one of the letters, she began to read aloud, as soon as she could speak. "'Darling, since I left Washington, I have been thinking——'"

The reading came to an abrupt conclusion. Mrs. Pullen snatched the letter from Julia's hand.

Her eyes twinkling, the girl reached for another of the yellowed missives.

"Julia Pullen, you let those letters alone!" commanded her mother.

"I think, Julia, you'd better leave the room. I want to speak with your mother privately," her father added.

The girl leaned toward him, and put her arms around his neck. "Papa, don't look so sour!" she said. "You're not going to sit here on the floor and razz mamma about those old photographs! I won't go out!"

Pullen took her hands, and removed them from his neck. "I have a right to inquire into these matters," he said, with dignity.

Julia rocked back and forth with merriment. Mrs. Pullen's face, which had been brightening, now broke forth into a smile. The man got on his feet.

"I refuse to be a made a fool of!" he announced. "Elsie, I demand to know whether there is any connection between this—this ponyskin coat of yours——"

"It's caracul," his daughter interrupted.

"It makes no difference what it is. I want to know if any of these men here——" he kicked at the disordered heap of photographs—"sent you that coat."

Mrs. Pullen cast herself upon his bosom, clasping him in her arms. "Oh, Fred," she cried, ecstatically. "You do love me, don't you?" Pullen's face showed unbounded surprise.

He was addressing his wife, but Julia answered, with an impertinent, tilt of her lips. "Nobody sent me the coat," she said. "They sent it to mamma."

Pullen drew himself angrily erect. "I mean your mother. Elsie, how does it happen that these pictures and this coat suddenly appear at the same time? And are they connected with the new Chinese chest, perhaps, and the two hundred-dollar bills?"

He leaned slowly forward, gazing fixedly at his wife.

Her response was unexpected, and utterly feminine.

She cast herself upon his bosom, clasping him in her arms. "Oh, Fred," she cried, ecstatically. "You do love me, dont you?"

Pullen's face, looking out over her head, first showed unbounded surprise and then embarrassment. Julia, still sitting on the rug, was doubled up with laughter.

"You people!" shrieked Julia. "You funny people!"

Mrs. Pullen drew herself away, and kneeling, began to gather up the pictures and letters. "I'm glad I got them out," she said. "It was so nice, Fred, to see you jealous the way you used to be before you were married."

"I was not jealous," he maintained. "But I can't see any reason for keeping a lot of letters and pictures around the place. I don't have any pictures of girls around."

"What did you do with them, daddy?" asked his daughter.

"He burned them," Mrs. Pullen said, cheerfully.

"Were they pretty girls?" Julia went on.

Pullen rubbed his ear, in some confusion. "I don't remember anything about them," he said.

"Papa," Julia continued, "you're not mad at mama about those pictures, are you?" She did not wait for an answer, but went ahead. "Don't you know that she's romantic—that all women are romantic? Except me," she added.

"I'll bet you're as romantic as anybody, underneath," Mrs. Pullen surmised, rising with her bundle of letters and photographs. "All women are that way. Your papa is, too. If he weren't, he'd never have made such a scene." She looked with pleasure at her spouse. "It was so nice to see you flare up, Fred, dear! Do you remember the time you wouldn't speak to me for a week, when you caught that boy trying to kiss me at the high school dance?"

"He did kiss you," Pullen retorted. "You let him do it."

His wife, her reminders of youth under one arm, the box that had contained them under the other, trotted radiantly out of the room. Pullen watched her, until she vanished into the depths of the upper hall.

"It's darned funny," he said, then.

"What's funny?" asked his daughter.

"This coat." He touched it with his foot. "And that chest. And the money. It's mighty singular. And her getting out those pictures."

The girl folded her arms around her updrawn knees. "Daddy," she said, "you've made mama awfully happy. You did just splendidly."

"What do you mean?"

"Oh, pretending to be jealous over those old sweethearts of her's. She's tickled nearly to death. Any woman would be, after she's been married twenty years, papa." She eyed him keenly. "And sending her this fur coat, and that other Chinese chest, and dropping that hundred-dollar bill in my room!"

He started violently. "What in the devil are you talking about?" he demanded, his voice rising to a shout.

"You sent the coat, didn't you?" she persisted, placidly.

"I did not!" His face flushed, and he stared at her. "Where do you think I find hundred-dollar bills to spill around? Where would I get five or six hundred dollars for a coat? Or money to buy another chest."

"Didn't you really, papa?"

"I certainly did not."

"And you weren't teasing, when you were talking about those photographs?"

"Of course I wasn't teasing."

"And you were really jealous?"

He swallowed hard. "That wasn't jealousy, child. I had a right to know, didn't I?"

Her dark eyes were serious.

"Papa, if you didn't send those things, I'll bet I know who did."

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

IF I were putting my daughter on a train and sending her on a day and a night's journey, this is what I should say to her:

My dear, you have a heavy bag and a hat box; give the redcap at least 25 cents for carrying them down the steps and the long platform. Make it more, if you can. Remember that redcaps aren't paid by the railway company; they pay for permission to work, and only what they make beyond that keeps them going. When you go in to your meals, go quietly. If you find yourself at table next a person who speaks to you, answer politely, but do not be too expansive. Use your best judgment in regard to people you talk with. It is safer not to tell casually met acquaintances much about yourself. The tip to the waiter is 10 per cent of your bill, each time you eat. If the porteress does anything for you, fee her for what she does. Give the porter, 50 cents at least, making up the berth and if he takes your luggage out for you, brushes your clothes or blacks your boots, give 25 cents more. Get him to find a redcap when you arrive at your journey's end. If no one meets you, get the redcap to find you a cab and put you into it. Tip him as you did the first one; from 25 to 50 cents according to the number and weight of bags and the length of his way in carrying them. Give the address distinctly to the taximan. Pay him 10 or 15 cents above his fare, and more if he carries the bags up the steps, as he will if you ask him.

If you can't afford much in tips, be pleasant and considerate in your way with people; but when a woman travels alone she will find that tips help her on her way. Not that officials of all kinds are not civil without them, but because every little helps them in a hard life.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

THE other day, I saw a girl with possibilities of great chic, but not a single one of them had been realized. She was tall, slim, rather rangy in build; she had black hair; she had eagle features, not beautiful, but with indications of breeding; she had a sallow skin; and she had gorgeous dark eyes with ragged eyebrows.

Instead of wearing a simple costume—severe and tailored, or beautifully supple and ornamented only with its own texture and color—she had a badly cut, slimsy crepe trimmed with much velvet. Instead of choosing dark red, one of the browns, or black—all of which would have been becoming—her dress was of that bright shade of blue that makes a sallow skin positively yellow.

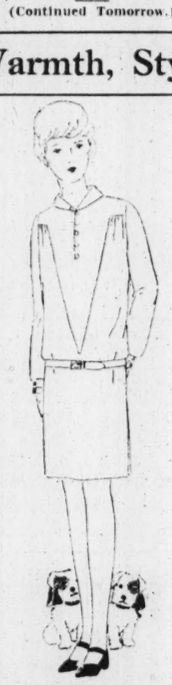

Instead of wearing her black hair severely plain and straight—bobbed or unbobbed—she had given it a too frizzy permanent wave. And in place of the medium rouge that she should have used—a true rosy rouge without either purple or orange in it—she had painted her cheeks like a lacquer-red sunset and had used the same color on her lips, instead of the dark lipstick that would have become them. Her powder, of course, was too pink—and it showed abominably!

She should have played up her eyes—but she hadn't. A touch of black salve or vaseline on the lashes would have improved them; and as for the ragged eyebrows, a smoothing with brilliantine and a daily pinching and shaping with the fingers would have worked wonders.

Did I tell her all this? I didn't dare; but I hope that she will read it.

Warmth, Style

© VOGUE 2647

THIS diminutive model has warmth, and the fine texture that belongs to its fabric—wool crepe. The ever dependable wool jersey is also ideal for this frock, with its front gatherings at each side-front below a shaped yoke and with a pleat at each side of the skirt. The long set-in sleeves are gathered into turned-back cuffs, and bloomers are included in the design. Designed for sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

LOOKING FORWARD.

In the days that were, I said
"Joy is waiting just ahead.
Happier shall I be then
When I've joined the ranks of men."

Some new happiness for me.
And when courting her I said
"Glad I'll be when we are wed."

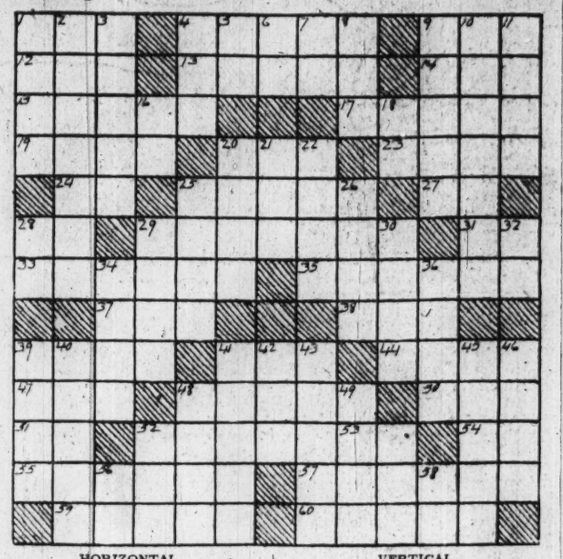

Joy we've found and journeyed on.
Dreams have come and dreams have gone.
Every day has held in view
Something to look forward to.

Still we dream and still we see
Happiness that is to be.
Still, in spite of hurts and tears,
Joy still lures us down the years.

Lovely old, and lovely new.
There is much we long to do.
Much we're praying we shall see
In the days which are to be.

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

THE pointer for today is:

Partners who bid conventionally should reach the final bid they would have selected had each seen the cards of the other.

The above pointer is the foundation and beginning of all sound declaring, so it is well to remember it at the beginning of a new year.

During the past week this series of articles has been devoted to a consideration of Major-suit denials—a most important topic and one which is far from being generally understood, even by otherwise sound bidders. I hope that my readers have followed these denial illustrations and now know just when to pass their partner's Major-suit bids, when to raise them, and when to deny them. The information conveyed by the denial, when properly made and when properly omitted, is almost without limit and a perfect understanding of it is essential. It is important that a player whose initial bid of one of a Major suit is passed by both Second Hand and partner, should at once realize that the partner's pass announces either satisfaction with the suit that has been bid and normal support for it, or a hand too weak for a denial.

Over South's bid of one Spade, North holding:

Sp.: x. Ht.: x-x-x-x. Di.: Queen-x-x-x. Cl.: Jack-x-x-x would be only too glad to announce his weakness in partner's Spade, but he should not do so because the denial would show some strength (at least one sure trick, probably plus other assistance) and the hand is without such strength.

Suppose South bids one Spade, West passes, and North should hold:

Sp.: 4-3-2. Ht.: Ace-King-Jack-9-8 Di.: 7. Cl.: Ace-Jack-8-7.

Having normal assistance for the Spades and being barred from all thought of a No Trump by the worthless singleton in Diamonds, North should pass; but supposing that after North passed, East bid two Diamonds, and that South and West both passed, what do you think North should declare on the second round? Answer tomorrow.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I have been married six years to a man I thought was the only man I could ever love, and I, the only girl he would ever love. We have two nice little girls and a nice home. I keep it as neat as possible and make every thing the children wear. Miss McDonald, my husband never made much money, but one year ago he was promoted to a position at $55 a week. Then he started to run around and stay out all night. He hated to lose time to come home. He never noticed the children or me. Still I never judged he was going wrong until one day he told me he had met a widow whom he liked very much and when the next pay day came he took pay and all his clothes and went off with her. He has been gone five months now and never came to see his children, but last week he came coaxing me to take him back. Yet he still associates with this woman, but tells me he does not. However, I have seen him going in and out of her house. Miss McDonald, I had to sell all my furniture and go boarding. I can not go to work as my children are only babies, but I don't think I could ever live with him again after all this: Do you think such a man has any good in him? I am so disgusted I could live if I never saw him again. Yet I would take him back if you say it is the thing to do. I just feel numb about the whole thing. What do you make of such a person?

JUST THE WIFE.

I suppose you are both mere children though you do not say as much in words. But your story sounds like it. Six years married, held down by lack of funds, sudden increase in the pay envelope and rush of blood to the brain on the part of the boy. And you are "numb." Yes, you would be. One hardly counts upon the "widows" when one marries the "only boy." Never mind, dear, you probably are the "only" girl, after all. And in your place I'd take him back! Now for telling you that 100 women will write to me tomorrow to abuse me.

But I'll be "numb," too, when they do. And meanwhile I'll tell you just why I would take him back—with reservations—if he happened to be mine. You see there are certain almost regulation things that happen to men somewhere along the path of their checkered careers. One of "those things" is the widow. Now don't get the idea that all widows are alike. There are widows and widows. And few are the men who have not at some time encountered the sort of widow your husband has encountered. Few the men who have never been reduced to mere protoplasm by some cheap, third-rate woman. Happily for the wives of the world these experiences usually take place before a man marries. Often they actually are responsible for his marriage as a means of leaving behind things he has learned to despise. We call these experiences "wild cats"—and deplore them deeply and convincingly. But the man who marries straight from his mother's arms so to speak, quite often astonishes the world by seeing a widow for the first time when he ought to be concerned with buying kiddie kars. I am sure you get the point. The widow is out. The measles are over. Don't be numb, be understanding. I know what it means to any girl to go through what you have, but pick up the pieces and start in to build. Take him back. He has learned his lesson by now. So just let him start back at the beginning and win your love again. Meanwhile take him back to your home, as the first step toward taking him back to your heart, and may the numbness pass, poor child.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. W. A. EVANS

MIXING MEDICINES WITH CALOMEL.

THE people who advocate the use of calomel as an aid to quinine are having a hard time justifying the practice.

First comes a pharmacologist who says that purgatives taken with other drugs interfere with the absorption of those other drugs. Applied to quinine, this means that when quinine and calomel are given in combination some of the quinine fails to absorb.

To this the calomel advocates rejoined by calling attention to the green stools which sometimes follow the use of calomel. In the Lambert-Towns treatment of alcoholism the direction is to give calomel until the stage of calomel green stools is passed and that of another kind is reached.

And now come Drs. Von Oettingen and Sollman with proof that the green calomel stool is of no particular significance. Bile is green as it travels in the upper stretches of the intestine. If by any chance the flow is in the wrong direction and reverse peristalsis carries bile into the stomach and then out as vomit it is green. It is natural for bile to be green in all those sections of the tract. As it travels downward it is oxidized, whereupon it turns from a greenish color to a yellow.

What part of it that is not reabsorbed is yellow rather than green. Most of this oxidation which changes the green color to yellow is a bacterial action. When calomel is taken this bacterial action is interfered with. In all probability calomel had some antibacterial action in the intestine. Therefore the normal change in color from green to yellow is interfered with. In all probability the hurrying onward by the purgative action of the calomel causes more of the bile to reach the large intestine unabsorbed. And that seems to be the whole story. There is nothing in it to indicate that giving calomel with quinine aids the latter in any part of its work. Other investigators had proved prior to this that calomel does not act on the liver. It does not increase the amount of bile secreted nor the character of the bile except as every purgative acts in some small measure on the liver indirectly.

If calomel is ever found to be a good addition to the treatment of malaria, as so many clinicians believe, it will be because of some properties not known now; it is certain it is not because of its action on the liver or on the bile.

POISONED BY CLOSED CAR.

S. S. writes: Recently my wife and I started for home after a visit in the southeastern part of the State. The weather was mild but in the afternoon it began to get cold and, coming through the mountains, a stiff wind blew. We were all night on the way. The next day was cool and more or less cloudy. We arrived home about 4 p. m. We were in a closed car and after the weather became cool we closed the windows and kept them closed most of the time except the rear window on one side, which was open all the time about 1½ to 2 inches. The third morning, soon after breakfast, head began to ache, vomiting set in, and became somewhat constipated. The next day practically the same thing, and my wife in the same condition. The following day we read your article on carbon monoxide, which set us wondering if that was what was the matter with us.

What is your opinion?

REPLY.

Your diagnosis is right. The danger of carbon monoxide poisoning while riding in closed cars has been pointed out several times.

Some Ailments of Young Puppies

By ROBERT S. LEMMON.

Most of the common puppy ailments come under one of three heads, if we except distemper, which needs a whole story to itself. Analyzing them, we might put them down under the classification of colds, indigestion and internal worms. Often there is a correlation of causes between some or all of these, but for present purposes they can be treated separately.

Colds are caused by damp or drafty sleeping quarters, undue exposure to cold or wet weather without proper subsequent drying, &c. Remember that a dog, young or old, catches cold from the same causes as does the human being, and exhibits similar symptoms. Do not, however, subject him to the indignity of a blanket coat and rubber boots when you take him out in bad weather. These and similar artificial protections will probably do more harm than good as long as the dog is kept on the move. But when he comes in wet, get him dry and warm without delay. Feed rationally, supply a comfortable sleeping basket, box or mat in a sensible place, and the danger of serious colds will be minimized.

Indigestion in puppies is often present after weaning, because of the unavoidable change in the youngster's diet. Cow's milk, scalded, slightly sweetened and fed lukewarm is a good food in such cases. In a week or so a little soup thickened with stale bread should be given, and the milk gradually eliminated. Boiled rice, cooked cereal and boiled green vegetables, together with a little chopped lean beef, are introduced next, with an occasional large bone as the pup grows older. Wholesome food, given frequently in moderate quantities, makes for good digestion and strong dogs.

Practically every puppy is afflicted with stomach or intestinal worms at some stage in his career. These parasites usually become evident when the pup is from 4 to 6 weeks old, their presence being indicated by irregular appetite, bloated abdomen, disagreeable breath, abdominal pains, diarrhea, or a tendency to eat natural objects such as straw, bits of coal, &c. Any of these symptoms may be present, and should never be allowed to continue unchecked. Several good vermifuges are on the market at any drug store, and one of them should be administered as soon as the presence of worms is suspected. Even if there are no definite indications of this trouble, a dose of the medicine is strongly recommended at the ages of 6 weeks, 9 weeks, 3, 4, 5 and 6 months, and every three months thereafter.

Homespuns Woven By Former Typist

Eastcote, Middlesex, England, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—In a quaint little house in a crooked lane of this old village, real "homespuns" are woven on an ancient loom by Rosetta Collins, who says she "escaped" from crowded London where she was a stenographer.

Her workshop is a one-woman mill. Miss Collins buys wool from nearby farmers; it is washed, carded, spun and woven, and then made up into sports clothes for men and women. For 20 years she studied her art as a hobby. Now she teaches others how to make "homespuns," a craft that is rapidly disappearing.

First Waitresses Serve at Guildhall

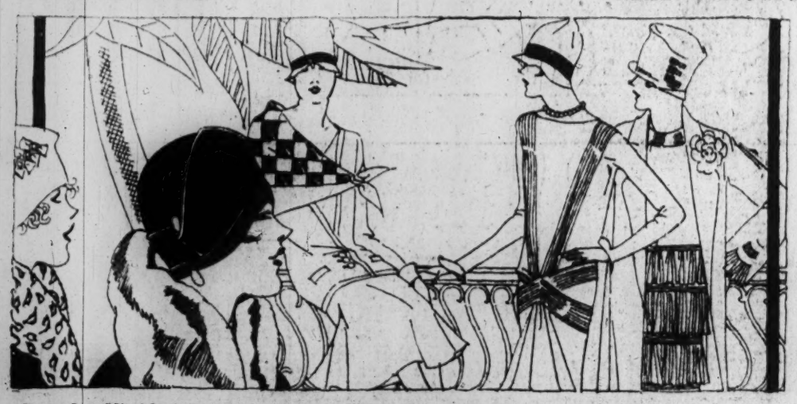

London, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Understudy waiters were introduced at a Guildhall banquet attended by the Prince of Wales when waitresses served for the first time in the place of men and thus broke down an age long city tradition.

The understudies were men, kept in the background, prepared to "go on" at a moment's notice in case the two girls serving the prince should become awed and overawed, but the girls did their jobs to perfection.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi Can't Help Seeing Them

By Jay V. Jay

Just when Mitzi had decided that a period of stern economy was in order all the smart shops blossom out with the most entrancing clothes for Southern wear. She and Polly are faced at every step of their promenade with alluring frocks like these. The costume to the left is a compose suit with a brilliantly checked kerchief to set it off. The next slim figure in the shop window wears one of those simple crepe affairs with countless rows of tiny tucks for trimming. Third is a light dress of sheer crepe, ruffle trimmed, with a matching coat of flannel. All completely demoralizing to Mitzi!

"After all," Mitzi is saying to Polly, "eventually one must buy spring and summer clothes. Why not buy them now and get some extra wear out of them by going South?" A question which Polly does not attempt to answer. It seems a reasonable proposition to Polly, especially with these bathing suits before her very eyes. The tailored striped one is so smart in its cut—the little collar, the wide belt and the pointed yoke are fashion features new to bathing suits. The ensemble consists of a beach coat and a bathing smock of figured challis—was ever anything designed that would be more becoming to Mitzi?

CHICAGO OPERA COMPANY WILL BROADCAST 'FAUST'

Second Act to Be Put on Air From Stage During Performance.

Chicago, Jan. 9 (By A. P.)—The first nationwide radio broadcasting of grand opera from a regular performance of the Chicago Civic Opera Co., was announced tonight for next Friday evening, when the second act of "Faust" will be radiocast through a hook-up of 22 stations in as many cities.

The broadcasting will be from the stage of the Auditorium theater here during the regular performance.

Friday night's experiment was termed by the opera company as merely a step toward the inauguration of a weekly broadcasting by the company next season. The Chicago Opera Co. experimented with radio broadcasting several years ago, but it was merely a local effort.

The undertaking will not jeopardize opera attendance, Samuel Insull, president of the Chicago company, said, but it is expected to whet the appetite of still more lovers of good music. He said that in order to avoid any adverse results through making it possible for the public to enjoy the opera without contributing to its support, only one act would be broadcast. This, he said, would be "a sample."

Edith Mason, Irene Pavloska, Maria Claessens, Charles Hackett and Richard Bonelli are in next Friday's opera.

The stations already incorporated in the broadcasting circuit follow: WEAF, New York; WJZ, New York; WEEI, Boston; WBZ, Boston; WCSH, Portland; WGY, Schenectady; WCAE, Pittsburgh; KDKA, Pittsburgh; WJAR, Providence; WGN, Chicago; WLIB, Chicago; KYW, Chicago; KSD, St. Louis; WOC, Davenport; WCCO, Minneapolis; WSAI, Cincinnati; WLIT or WFI, Philadelphia; WRC, Washington; WDAF, Kansas City; WWJ, Detroit; WGR, Buffalo; WTAG, Worcester, and WTAM, Cleveland.

Bill Seeks Penalty For Vamp and Sheik

Lincoln, Nebr., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—The famous "antisheik bill," which makes alienation of the affections of husband or wife a felony punishable by either fine or imprisonment, or both, will be reintroduced in the present Nebraska legislature by its author, Senator John W. Cooper, Omaha, bachelor. The bill failed of passage at the last session.

"This bill is no joke," Senator Cooper said today. "If a penalty were placed on the practice of shieks stealing the love of a wife, and these vamps stealing the love of a husband, there would be less alienation suits and less homes broken up."

National Company Takes Over KFKX

New York, Jan. 9 (By A. P.)—The National Broadcasting Co., owners of radio station WEAF and operators of WJZ and WRC, takes over the management of station KFKX at Hastings, Nebr., tomorrow, it was announced tonight by Merlin Hall Aylesworth, president of the corporation.

The new operators propose to make the Nebraska station an experimental center for a service to be developed that will be of special benefit to farming communities in the West, it was announced.

high tribute to the British marines. He said he doubted whether many men in the forces of any other country could be found who possessed the superb self-discipline which enabled these young marines to refrain from "getting just a little of their own back."

The refugees declared that, in their opinion, the attack was well organized.

Departure Is Hasty.

The American Women's club is caring for American refugees, the majority of whom left Hankow with little or no baggage or money. This was due to the fact that they did not expect to leave Hankow, but stop aboard ship for a night or two until the disturbance had quieted.

Thursday afternoon it became apparent that the soldiers could not control the mob, so American naval authorities instructed the ship to proceed to Shanghai.

A large number of the women were wives of American naval men. They sailed Thursday night, at a time when the city was comparatively quiet, although the mob was still demonstrating in the British concession, which it fully controlled. The refugees were escorted through ranks of howling rioters to the dock by British marines and volunteers. They left Hankow despite the fact that Eugene Chen, Cantonese foreign minister, advised them it would be safe for Americans to remain.

Among the Americans arriving today (Sunday) were Mrs. Maury, formerly of New Jersey, and her child. She declared that she and other Americans lived undisturbed in the French concession during the Hankow riots, but Thursday, when the situation was most delicate, and further trouble was expected, all American women were ordered by a consular circular letter to board the British steamer Kutwo.

Taking three days' provisions, they embarked the same night. Forty women, fifteen children and five infants were aboard. A few women were left, some in the hospital, while others refused to leave despite urgent advices to clear out. Mrs. Maury said she saw many instances where the British union jack was torn down and the nationalist flag hoisted in its place. She also saw posted many notices in English and Chinese bearing the words "Kill foreigners."

The feeling of possibility of trouble here is reflected in rumors circulated to the effect that a number of American and other foreign residents are booking passages homeward for their families.

A report by Japanese news agencies that the Peking government has decided to take over the foreign concessions at Tientsin, while not confirmed, is regarded here as not improbable.

It is believed that the northern government virtually will be forced into such action, as the Cantonese coup at Hankow in taking over the British concession following the antiforeign demonstration there last week undoubtedly will gain them support among the northern population.

Hankow, China, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Quiet prevailed in the British concession today. The Chinese soldiers and pickets were withdrawn from the concession yesterday, and British municipal police are again functioning. There are, however, still some armed Chinese police in the concession while the British police are unarmed.

American Boats Seized.

Peking, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—A dispatch from the Associated Press correspondent at Chungking, dated January 3, and delayed by the censor, reports an incident at Wanhsien involving steamers flying the American flag. The Upper Yangtse river vessels, Chichuen and Chiping, were commandeered for transporting rival groups of Szechuan troops who clashed at Wanhsien, one group trying to prevent the other from proceeding up the river. Foreign officers aboard were rescued by the British gunboat Widgeon, but it is unknown whether they were actual American citizens or what Chinese troops commandeered the vessels.

Another report from Chungking says the small steamer Changteh sunk in the Yangtse gorges with 300 troops aboard and presumably the majority were drowned.

Radical students desecrated the foreign cemetery in Chungking, breaking and overturning headstones.

CAPITAL SOCIETY EVENTS

The Italian Ambassador and Donna Antonietta de Martino entertained at an illustrated lecture last evening at 9:30 o'clock at the embassy, on the "Rebirth of the Roman Forum," by Prof. Henry Burchell, of New York. There were about 400 guests, including official Washington society, and members of resident society.

The German Ambassador and Baroness Maltzan were the guests of honor at the showing of a German film, "Seeing Germany," last evening at the Carlton hotel under the auspices of the bureau of commercial economics. They had as guests in their box former Senator and Mrs. Robert L. Owen, and Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond.

The Congressional club will give its annual reception to the Vice President and Mrs. Dawes Thursday evening, January 20, at 9 o'clock, in the clubhouse at 2001 New Hampshire avenue.

The club's reception to the President and Mrs. Coolidge will be omitted this season, and no date has been selected as yet for the annual reception to the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Longworth.

The Minister of Guatemala and Mme. Latour will entertain at dinner on January 21.

The Naval Attache of the Italian Embassy and Mme. Lias will entertain at dinner this evening. Mme. Lias will be at home Sunday.

Representative and Mrs. E. Hart Fenn have as their guests Mrs. Walter P. Allen and her small daughter, Leslie Hart Fenn Allen, of Hartford, Conn.

Mrs. Fenn will entertain at luncheon today in compliment to Mrs. Everett Sanders and Mrs. Allen. There will be 65 guests.

Judge and Mrs. C. C. McChord have issued cards for a dinner which they will give Friday night at the Willard.

Coming From Country Place.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Stewart will return today to the Carlton after passing the holidays at their country place on the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

Mrs. William Dennison Morgan and her daughter, Miss Dorothea Morgan, have returned to their apartment at Wardman Park from Florida, where they went for the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. McKenzie Moss has joined Judge Moss at their apartment at Wardman Park after a visit with Mrs. George H. Mosley at Bolling Green, Ky.

Capt. and Mrs. R. Gilpin Ervin have returned to their apartment at the St. Nicholas from Philadelphia, where they passed the holidays with Capt. Ervin's mother, Mrs. Harold Ellis Yarnall.

Judge and Mrs. Andrew S. Caldwell, of Carbondale, Ill., and their daughter, Miss Virginia Stites Caldwell, have returned to Congress Hall for the winter.

The Wakefield National Memorial association will give a dinner in observance of George Washington's one hundred and ninety-fifth birthday, on the old calendar, at the Mayflower hotel February 11. Mrs. Ogden Mills is chairman of the committee of arrangements. Others on the conunittee are Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, Mrs. Peter Goelet Gerry, Mrs. James Carroll Frazer, Mrs. Stanley Rinehart, Mrs. Charles C. Washington, Mrs. Howard Sutherland, Mrs. U. S. Grant and Mrs. H. L. Rust, chairman of tickets.

The first of the series of dinners given each season by the baby cabinet, composed of the assistant secretaries, will take place in the presidential suite at the Willard next Monday.

Bal Boheme Next Week.

Washington society is interested in the Bal Boheme of the Arts club next Monday night at the Willard. The ball has come to be the most brilliant art event of the Washington season each winter and is attracting the attention of artists and social leaders not only in this city, but in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, and a large number of out-of-town guests are expected to attend.

The boxholders include Mrs. Charles Boughton Wood, Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips, Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, Mrs. Prescott Gatley, Mrs. Willoughby Chesley, Mrs. Frederick E. Farrington, Mrs. Lewis P. Clephane, Mrs. John F. Gaynor, Mrs. Joseph Keys, Mrs. C. M. Wilkes, Mrs. Staley, Mrs. Sleeth, Miss Jessie MacDonald, Mrs. Zimmele, Mrs. Gregg Custis Birdsall, L. M. Leisenring, C. A. Lyon and Lynch Luquer.

Last Friday there was a meeting of the program committee at the home of Mrs. Gwinn Rust. Mrs. Edgar Allan Poe and Mrs. Gwinn Rust are the chairmen. Under them are sixteen subchairmen, each heading a group of five girls. This is a large committee but it is only one of the many which are now working for the Junior league billboard ball to be given at the Willard on February 4.

The Washington Alumni Club of Pi Beta Phi will meet tomorrow night at the home of Miss Edna Stone, 1618 Rhode Island avenue. Miss Gertrude Kutzleb will be the guest and speaker of the evening.

Mrs. L. A. Lauten, 3218 Klingle road, will be hostess to a party on a cruise around the world, sailing from New York January 19. The Washingtonions in the party are Mrs. Mary Angle and Mrs. Nina Chartle.

Cabaret of Fashion.

Acts from productions at the local theaters will form part of the program of entertainment at the cabaret and fashion show at the Mayflower Friday evening for the benefit of Garfield Memorial hospital.

Added to the lists of prominent persons who have reserved tables for the occasion are Mrs. George Shiras, Mrs. William Kennedy Butler, Mrs. Louis Frothingham, Mrs. Robert Farley Clarke, Mrs. George B. Welsh, Mrs. William Thorndyke Davis, Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips, Mrs. Francis Savage, Mrs. H. M. Strine, Mrs. Arthur O'Brien, Mrs. Louise Chambers and Mrs. Simon Wolf.

Judge Mary O'Toole will preside at the subscription dinner given by the Women's City club on Wednesday, when Dr. Mary B. Harris will outline the perspective of the new Federal Institution for Women, of which she is superintendent, supplemented by Mrs. Alvin Dodd, chairman of its board of trustees, and Mrs. Willebrandt, who, as Assistant Attorney General, initiated the institution and now supervises it.

Miss Julia K. Jaffray will tell how the idea grew into concrete being at a dinner given at the club in 1920.

Among those making reservations are Miss Laura Louise Tracy, Miss Rena B. Smith, Miss Mary E. McKenney, Miss Mary Kelly, Mrs. Eleanore M. Hohbein, Mrs. Elelnor Oke, Miss Grace Knoller, Dr. Nelle Bertram, Miss Carmody, Miss Elizabeth Raymond, Miss E. Kensett Vail, Miss Amy Leavitt, Dr. O. Josephine Baird, Miss Pauline Holdridge, Miss Helen V. Barnhart, Miss Helen Brown and Mrs. Grattan Kerans.

Mrs. Sarah Stokes Halket presided over the first of the series of Saturday night forum support being presented this winter by the Woman's National Democratic club. The subject was "Primaries vs. Conventions," with Mr. Edward Keating acting as discussion leader.

Among the guests present were Representative and Mrs. Finis Garrett, Representative and Mrs. Ewing Davis, Representative and Mrs. A. H. Gasque, Representative and Mrs. Thomas L. Blanton and Mrs. Thomas S. McMillan, Col. and Mrs. William C. Harllee, Capt. and Mrs. James G. Field, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Costigan, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Keating, Dr. George McClain, Mrs. Sarah Stokes Halket, Mrs. Frank Hiram Snell, Mrs. George Eckels, Mrs. Antoinette Funk, Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, Mrs. Rose Yates Forrester, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Thomas Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Bright, Mrs. Blair Banister, Mrs. Sidney B. Harris, Mrs. Laura A. Bradley and Miss Agnes Wilson.

The Monday luncheon of the Woman's National Democratic club will have as the guest of honor and speaker Mrs. Maggie W. Barry, of Texas, chairman of the American Home division of the work of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Reservations for the luncheon have been made by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Andrieus A. Jones, Mrs. Edward B. Meigs, Mrs. Wilbur W. Hubbard, Mrs. Stephen Bonsal, Mrs. Frank Hiram Snell, Mrs. James Meredith Helm, Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, who will have as her guests Mrs. Harris Baldwin, Mrs. Blair Banister, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. J. B. Kendrick, who is entertaining in honor of Mrs. Joseph M. Carey, wife of the former governor of Wyoming. Mrs. Kendick's other guests are Mrs. Nowin Bean and Mrs. Arthur Butman.

Miss Anita Stephens has returned to Washington from Erie, Pa., where she was called by the death of her uncle, Senator Griswold.

Miss Janet Richards at her talk this morning on "Public Questions: Home and Foreign," will include in her weekly review, "Our Three International Crises: Will the United States Have to Use Force?" She will also speak especially of "Reza Khan, the Mussolini of Persia," with an account of the spectacular incidents that brought him to the Persian throne. The talk will begin at 10:30 o'clock in the Masonic temple, Thirteenth street and New York avenue.

Senator F. B. Willis To Address Women

Senator Frank B. Willis, of Ohio, will address the monthly meeting of the League of Republican Women at the headquarters of the League of Republican Organizations, 823 Fifteenth street northwest, today at 4 o'clock.

The meetings of the league are held for the purpose of discussing vital questions before the country today, especially those in which women are mostly concerned. Mrs. Virginia White Speel, president of the League of Republican Women, will preside. The monthly meetings are arranged by Miss Pearl McCall, of the District attorney's office.

Sale—1,500 MEN'S COLORED SHIRTS

Were $2.50 and $3

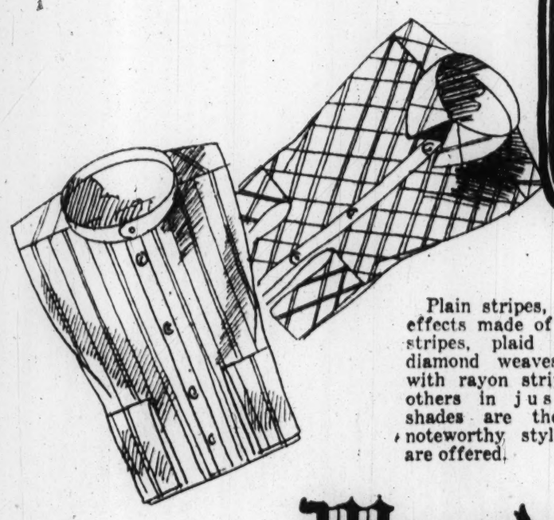

Greatly Reduced

Were $4 and $5

This year the sale includes some of the foremost values we have ever been able to offer. Most of our Colored Shirts have been reduced and starting today Washington Men can purchase them at genuine savings.

Colored Shirts, the cream of our regular merchandise, have been reduced, some of them to almost half price, and just as soon as the store opens this morning they go on sale. Act now—the savings are worth while.

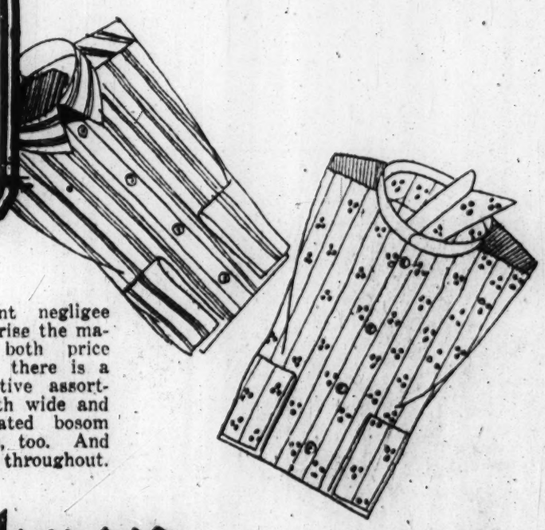

Plain stripes, checked effects made of narrow stripes, plaid designs, diamond weaves, some with rayon stripes and others in just plain shades are the more noteworthy styles that are offered.

Neckband and collar-to-match styles are available at both prices with the neckband more numerous. At $2.85 there is a limited assortment of two-collars-to-match in pleated bosom models.

Men's Furnishings Section. First Floor.

Soft front negligee Shirts comprise the majority of both price groups, but there is a very attractive assortment of both wide and narrow pleated bosom front shirts, too. And double cuffs throughout.

OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

COLUMBIA

At last the great "Doug" in "The Black Pirate" at the Columbia. And what a picture! It has everything that goes to make to make it one of the greatest Fairbanks pictures ever done—and then some. For "The Black Pirate" is done throughout in technicolor and the redoubtable Doug out-"Dougs" himself in his wild gyrations between heaven and earth.

Here we see this active lord of the films sliding down canvases, slitting them with stiletto as he comes tumbling; catching the corners of sails, cutting them free from their deck fastenings and riding to the top of the ship upon their billowing bodies. Perhaps, though, no single feat surpasses that of carrying aloft a pirate lashed to himself by a rope that runs through a pulley at the top of the mizzen mast and fastened at the other end to a cannon. The cannon Doug rolls into the sea and once he is skyward he consummates his daring act by lashing his adversary to the cross-arm of the mast.

Fairbanks is the whole show, though there is a formidable list of stars cast with him in the picture in which are included Donald Crisp, Sam de Grasse, Charles Stevens and others. Only two women appear in the cast—Billie Dove and Tempe Piggott. Miss Dove is beautiful and charming as only distressed womankind can be among such a hellish, devilish crew as Fairbanks has gathered about him.

The filming of the story by Henry Sharp is an excellent bit of work. The coloring for the most part is subdued, but the effects are exquisite, replete with softness, rendering to the whole story an atmosphere background that has for the senses a special appeal.

Owing to the length of "The Black Pirate," the rest of the program is short. There is a comedy—not greatly distinctive for merit—and a Pathe newsreel.

There is just cause for the Columbia this week to register one of the greatest weeks of attendance in its history.

EARLE

George Beban completely won one of Washington's reputed "cold and unappreciative audiences" at the Earle theater yesterday afternoon when he began his engagement for the week. Mr. Beban's novel combination of the silent and spoken dramas in his latest production, "The Loves of Ricardo," headlines the Earle bill. The story begins on the screen, changes to the stage for the greatest dramatic scene, and reverts to the screen for the denouement. Briefly, the story centers about Ricardo, an Italian fruit vender, in love with his ward, Annetta. Steve Randall, bluffer and trickster, succeeds in selling a swamp in Florida to the confident Ricardo, and in marrying Annetta to get money.

Annetta discovers upon her wedding night that it is Ricardo she loves, and, finding that Steve has a "steady," she goes to the home of Martinelli, a banker and a friend of Ricardo. A blackmailing scheme, the abduction of Ricardo by rum-runners, his adventures with them before he "runs them in" and returns to rescue Martinelli's wife from a burning machine and to win Annetta for himself, bring the story to a thoroughly satisfying finis.

George Beban plays the role of Ricardo, making him a figure of smiles and tears, with a generous, simple nature. Mr. Beban is an actor of consummate skill. Annetta is excellently portrayed by Amile Milaine. Monte Collins, jr., does some fine acting as the cowardly, bullying, hateful Steve, because not once does he redeem his despicable screen character by the good characteristics we grant him personally. The cast is fine, and there are besides several choruses, dances, and George Beban's Neapolitan String orchestra.

Ward and Dooley in "I Can Do That, Too," present a fine combination of dancing, bicycle tricks and rope twirling. The "smallest" portion of their act went over best with the audience, being an unnamed youngster who does splendid dancing, singing, joking and rope twirling for his size.

"Hardboiled Hampton," presented by Harry Holman and Ethel Manson, is a short skit, offering a good bit of comedy by the gentle Hampton and some excellent songs in a charming manner and with a good voice by Miss Manson.

Newsreel and excellent music by Mr. Aarons and the Earle theater orchestra complete the bill.

PALACE

The current bill at the Palace comprises the second edition of jazz week. Both stage and screen attractions are excellent, exhibiting in their composition, some of the best jazz, comedy and song seen or heard here in several weeks.

The Colgate Collegians are the headlining stage presentation. The eight artists have many fine group selections and several good individual numbers. "Baby Face" is probably the most noteworthy in both. Their interpretation of Red Riding Hood provokes many a laugh.

Robert Stickney appears as the "Man Higher Up"—on stilts. His "Charleston," on stilts is a scream from start to finish

Sammy Lewis, "The Dancing Maniac," pleases his audience with comic dancing. He did the "Black Bottom" as an encore.

Sonia Meroff has a pleasing voice, and several entertaining numbers. "Hello Bluebird" is probably her best effort.

Eddie Cantor appears as Kid Boots in the feature film of that name. Although this is his debut in films, he conducts himself creditably, making the best of many comical positions. The picture is a comedy, with many, but one in particular, exciting moments. "Kid" Boots is a tailor's helper who incurs the displeasure of Big Boyle and the friendship of Tom Sterling over the matter of a suit. Tom is attempting to divorce his wife, who is, however, very unwilling to let her husband go. Tom and "Kid" Boots go away where Tom falls in love with Eleanor Belmore and "Kid" finds an old sweetheart, Clara McCoy. The remainder of the story deals mostly with the wife's efforts to keep her husband, and the thwarting of them by "Kid" Boots. This last involves a trip over the mountains on horseback during which "Kid," his rival, Big Boyle, and the girl, Clara, are all suspended over a precipice by a rope for several thrilling minutes.

The principals in the supporting cast are Lawrence Gray as Tom; Malcolm Waite as Boyle; Billie Dove as Clara.

The orchestral overture is "Jazz Through the Ages," jazz from the stone age to the present time. Both this and the organ numbers are up to the Palace standard. Newsreel and comedy. "Chasing Rainbow," are the additional films.

Barons Would Give Up Title.

Earl Carroll's "Vanities" Take Up Stand at Poli's

It may be of moment to note, at the very outset, that Mr. Earl Carroll and his "Vanities" were within the law at every stage of the performance last night in Poli's—the Pennsylvania Avenue playhouse just around the corner from police headquarters.

Before the Hon. Mr. Carroll and his cohorts moved into the city, some one recalled an old-time police ordinance to the effect that Sunday night entertainment in this man's town must be up and over before the stroke of 11. Most of the patrons, therefore, thought there might be two reasons for the swooping down of the local gendarmes. They knew, to begin with, that representatives of the clean-up squad would be in the back rows—awaiting the little touches of nature that make the whole revue-world kin.

Mr. Carroll ordered his curtain at 8 o'clock, to avoid his performance running over the allotted time. At ten minutes past that hour—night-light saving time—there was no sign of commotion on stage. When, at the regularly appointed moment for curtain-raising, 8:15, the orchestra leader lifted his baton, and the "Vanities" were under way—everyone knew there would be police action before the night was over, for Earl Carroll usually gives the patrons their money's worth, and here he was off to a late start

Alas, first nighters in the old family chapel came in for two great disappointments. As the vesper bells were tolling off the hour of 11, the curtain went down—and in all that long expanse of time, from its rising to this, there had been not one semblance of anything to arouse the wrath of such organizations at the League for the Promotion of Purity On and Off Stage, or the Society for the Prevention of Public Intemperance and Immorality.

Aside from these two disappointments, there was a third—over the caliber of the Carroll entertainment. Forsooth, the man who once startled Broadway had nothing new to offer. There were comedians galore—Joe Cook, the earstwhile "one man vaudeville," with the same old bag of tricks, and the refusal to imitate the four Hawaiians; Johnny Dooley, with the remnants of his vaudeville doings; the skeleton of the Avon comedy four; Harry Delf and Frankie Heath—and the chorus.

It is stated on the program that this, the fourth edition of "The Vanities" comes from a thirteen-month run at the Earl Carroll theater, New York. The only explanation is that the long session on the corner of Fiftieth street and Seventh avenue tired comedians and chorus alike. On the opening night there was nothing over which to get excited—not even a call for the police. So we all went home.

JOHN J. DALY.

RIALTO

Florence Vidor and Greta Nissen, in contrasting feminine types, with Clive Brook and Philip Strange as the men in the case, play a good game of tag with love and divorce in "The Popular Sin," the new Paramount film at the Rialto this week, based on a story by Monta Bell, well-known movie director and former Washington newspaper man. The "sin" thus advertised is just that kind of tag, or, as Mr. Bell himself is said to have put it, "loving two people at the same time." Mr. Bell's contribution seems to be the mathematical feat of forming three distinct triangles out of four people.

The film is admirably acted and directed, and for that reason never fails in interest, despite the rather inconsequent story. As the program notice well says, "To make the tale more colorful and interesting, it all takes place in Paris." Parisian houses, furnishings, manners, clothes, railway trains and customs, apparently depicted with scrupulous care, are sufficient to keep up an open-mouthed interest, at least for the innocent, untraveled American spectator. One such, anyhow, accepted everything as sacredly authentic, up to the point where some one registered at a hotel in a French provincial city as from "Paris, France."

Miss Vidor appears as a charming Parisienne who escapes from a faithless and neglectful husband and marries a playwright, the real man of her heart. She divorces him in turn when he is attracted to a temperamental actress, played by Greta Nissen. Her first husband comes next on the actress' list, so there is a fine chance for another divorce and a reunion with the middle term of the syllogism. It is an amusing story, if not exactly a pretty one.

The stage event is the arrival of Elsie Huber, a popular singer of 'blues' from Broadway, with a trio of piano players which includes Rox Rommell, director of the Rialto orchestra, and a couple of dainty dancers. The comedy film is a Buster Brown picture called "Buster's Sleigh-ride," and there are good news pictures.

GAYETY

Bud Fisher's cartoon comedy, "Mutt and Jeff's Honeymoon," opened to a full house at the Gayety yesterday afternoon with the same punch that characterized this show earlier in the season.

Lola Pierce, an able and attractive demoiselle, contributes pep and pulchritude, and wins the applause of her audience. Margie Bartel dances well, especially in the cabaret scene. Good old Emma Weston is still using her showmanship and putting over her bits with the best of them. Sid Gold, the sentimental boy, does his rendering of the mammy songs in a sufficiently pleasing manner. Joe Yule persists in being funny, no matter what happens, and the male quartet is going strong. The chorus is well costumed and un-costumed. The jewel scene twinkles and dazzles and the others are runners-up for popular favor.

METROPOLITAN

A program subdued in tone but of excellent quality graces the Metropolitan this week, where Van and Schenck, singing comedians, hold over for the second week and Gerald Beaumont's story "Even Stephen" is the film attraction under the title "Just Another Blonde."

"Just Another Blonde" is a love story of youth, in which Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall are costarred with William Collier, jr., and William Brooks. The two boys are youthful gamblers and pals. One falls in love, but will not desert his friend. He therefore sets his head to work to find a sweetheart for his pal. The manner in which he succeeds in this makes the film and brings to a happy ending their partnership in more ways than one.

The action of the piece is keyed to the present day tempo of life in the "Roarin' Forties" and is matched in speed by the breezy humor of the clever titles. There are plenty of thrills and keen sustained suspense throughout.

If anything, "Just Another Blonde" is played slightly out of the environment in which it is cast. The two boys, somehow, can not be associated with gambling and the two girls with the Coney Island dance palace where they make their living. A little tougher coloring of characters, it would seem, would have been more in keeping with the four participants. Mulhall and Brooks are most appealingly cast.

Van and Schenck render a group of dialect songs that awakens thoughts of our cosmopolite civilization and the lands abroad from which our forefathers came. Their voices blend beautifully and there is a quality of harmony in all that is sung that is most effective.

They "stopped the show" at every performance yesterday and were forced through repeated encores, to hold the stage for much more than their allotted time.

MUTUAL

Max Fields and his "Kuddling Kuties," at the Mutual theater yesterday, cuddled right up to their audience from the beginning of the show. With Fields exploding a bag of new jokes, this production gets off to a very good start.

Anna Fink, in a number of scenes, helps Fields to put over the humorous angle of the show. She also sings pretty well. Then there is June Rhoads with several snappy song hits, one of which nearly stopped the show. The rest of the principals went over big with the house.

The chorus is one of the best that has been at that theater for some time. They are a snappy, good-looking bunch of peppy singers and dancers, especially the handsome female impersonator who doffs his wig at the close of the show, much to the delight of the audience. The show will include a wrestling bout on Friday night.

KEITH'S

The radio fans, et al, will be more than pleased to know one of the headline attractions of the air is also headlining in the flesh at the local Keith house this week—the B. F. Goodrich Silvertown orchestra holds the stellar honors in the approved style. The orchestra is not the best that has been heard at the Fifteenth street house, but it measures favorably with the orchestras of pleasant memory—and there is the anonymous gentleman known as the Silver Mask Tenor who, as Will Mahoney was wont to say, sings through his knuckles. The act is well received and Joseph Knecht, the director, is more than generous with extra numbers.

Taylor Holmes, who early in the bill makes his appearance as master of ceremonies, presents a little act all his own in the latter half of the bill. His skit is nothing more or less than a 'humorous' stories and recitations number. His humor is of the sophisticated sort and it is quite possible that but for his wonderful personality the act would fall lamentably flat.

And the rest of the bill is what might be termed average: Perry Corwey, probably, heads the list in excellence. His effort is as the Merry Clown, and his bag of tricks kept the folks laughing long and loud.

The Carol Sisters, two Harmony Girls, are all that their billing implies. They entertain with a melange of soft, harmonious numbers, which bespeak of love in the moonlight and the like. They were vociferously applauded but failed to take a bow.

Herman Hyde and Sally Burrill offer a very clever little novelty in "A Bit Different." There is a variety of singing and music and the act registers favorably.

Three Swifts, impresarios in the art of tossing Indian clubs, have a light, novelty offering. Juanita and Paco, assisted by Miss Rita, have a very Spanish sort of revue and the team of Donahue and La Salle, who opened the entertainment—are the others on the program.

The usual house numbers, including the orthophonic recital, the newsreel, Aesops's Fable cartoon and Mr. Freddie Clark's music, complete the bill.

STRAND

The Strand theater's permanent company appears in a musical concoction, "Topics and Tunes," this week. This entire production has been personally staged and directed by Leo Stevens, the comedy book written by Irvin B. Hamp, the comedian who stars in each of the comedy skits.

The opening, as introduced by Bille La Monte, shows just what serious things can result by being "Just Too Late." These stories are told in three comedy scenes enacted by the principal players. Among the other comedy skits, the funniest one is entitled "Mistakes Will Happen," and shows the mistake that occurs when Irvin B. Hamp, the star comedian, takes a picture of Miss Jenny Jones. Earl Root introduces the old army game, winning the money from his many victims, but being finally outwitted by the two comedians, Hamp and Lewis. A real scream is the comedy sketch showing "As It Might Be—50 Years From Now." The short and snappy one-word conversations carried on by the principal players show the speed the world will take next 50 years.

Pretty song numbers, beautifully staged, are "Gilda" and "Love, Love, Love." "Gilda" is sung by Paul Rush to his eight babies, one of which is his little blue-eyed Gilda. "Love, Love, Love," is the song the artist, Earl Root, sings to his beautiful model, Billee la Monte, who makes a wonderful picture posing on a platform amid lovely lighting effects. Florence Drake tells of the "Round About Way to Heaven," with the twelve girls doing a dancing chorus in their strut costumes. Katherine Butler puts over the snappy song "Me, Too," in big style, with the dancing dollies adding a chorus, one of the girls giving a clever little clog solo.

Lew Lewis surprised the folks by showing that he is not only a comedian but has a wonderful voice, as he shows in his solo, "Since I Found You," which he sings to the Follies Bergere girls, who are arranged in groups, forming a beautiful picture in the pretty lights of different shades.

The finale is a satire on a "Polish Wedding."

On the screen is the picturization of Mrs. Olive Higgins Prouty's well-known novel, "Stella Dallas," with Belle Bennett as the central character, "Stella Dallas."

Director Manvell's overture, "Sidewalk Blues," and other musical numbers round out the bill.

NINE HELD IN LIQUOR RAIDS OF WEEK-END

Proprietor, Who Protested Against Police Detail in Establishment, Is Arrested.

Nine persons were arrested on charges of violating the eighteenth amendment by Capt. Albert Headley and a squad of Fourth precinct policemen in a series of raids over the week-end.

Thomas Horan, proprietor of a near beer saloon at 523 Seventh street southwest, who several months ago petitioned the District commissioners to instruct Capt. Headley to refrain from posting policemen in his saloon because the presence of the police detail was injurious to his business, was among those arrested. Horan and his bartender Edward Long, were charged with sale and illegal possession of intoxicants. Police said they confiscated 12 quarts of alleged whisky hidden in a cement trap.

A gallon of alleged whisky was mopped from the floor of a near beer saloon at 313 Seventh street southwest, by the raiders. Louis Rock, proprietor, and Anthony Henley, 5228 Eighth street northwest, were charged with sale and possession. Others arrested in the raids were Chauncey B. Koogle, 612 Eleventh street southwest; Thomas Jolly, colored, 1012 Fourth street northwest; Bertha Boyd, colored, 616 K street southwest, and William Boy, colored, 14 years old, of the same address, and Mamie Wheeler, colored, 1003 Sixth street southwest.

2 Ships Speed to Aid Vessel Asking Help

New York, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Two freighters today went to the assistance of the Norwegian freighter Svartfond, which lost its rudder approximately 750 miles northeast of Bermuda.

The vessel's call for aid was picked up here today by the Independent Wireless Co., which communicated the position to the American freighter Hatteras and the British freighter Mahseer. They both radioed that they were proceeding to the aid of the Svartfond. In the absence of later communications to the land station, it was assumed there that they had reached and aided the disabled vessel.

The Svartfond is a 1,292-ton freighter, with a crew of 25.

STRIFE UNLIKELY, HE SAYS

Charlotte, N. C., Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Continued amity between labor and capital with the accompanying probable elimination of a general strife between typographical unions and publishers was held up as the prospect for the future by Seth R. Brown, of Indianapolis, first vice president of the International Typographical union.

His prophesy of peace was made today while he was here attending the organization of the tri-State typographical union, composed of printers from Virginia, North and South Carolina.

"Unless something comes up which is now unforeseen, I can not believe there will be any general disturbance," the vice president said.

"There may be," he added, "slight local disturbances due to the impossibility of men and their employers coming to terms. It is unlikely that there will be any general strike."

Reasons were given by Mr. Brown. The main cause, he said, is the fact that both capital and labor realizes that a strike is harmful. It injures both parties, he declared. Another reason is because of the close contact between publishers and unions. In no other trade is there such intimacy, Mr. Brown believed.

"Never," he said, "do we break a contract, even if it is found to be disadvantageous. Sometimes we make a contract which is found to be totally inadequate in a short time, but it is our policy to continue work under these circumstances. The policy of the typographical unions is to use conciliation, mediation and arbitration rather than engage in strikes."

is being lowered into its grave a firing squad and a bugler will sound a soldier's final farewell.

The airplane carrying his body will leave the naval air station for Quantico this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Last night Jiggs body lay in state in the W. W. Deal funeral home, 816 H street northeast.

His collar and lead have been placed in the coffin beside him and marines filed past the casket last night. The coffin is the same size used in the funerals of babies and his body was prepared for burial in virtually the same manner.

Jiggs was brought to Dr. Locke's hospital last Wednesday. At that time his condition was believed to be not serious. Saturday he suffered a relapse and when his condition became critical Dr. Locke called Dr. W. P. Collins, D. E. Buckingham and Dr. M. D. Loy into consultation.

When the news spread in military circles that the famous canine warrior was dangerously ill generals and the newest recruits kept the telephones busy all night inquiring about his condition. Jiggs died like a marine, Dr. Locke said, without complaining or whimpering about his condition.

All veterinarians agreed that Jiggs' illness was caused by overeating. After finishing his regular dinner at Quantico, marine officers said, he would make the rounds of all the kitchens and plead for more.

The devil dogs would not refuse him anything, and he would eat anything beefsteak. About three months ago from a plug of chewing tobacco to a Jiggs was first stricken with gastritis and was rushed to this city in an airplane. He recovered and was sent back to Quantico two weeks later.

There the marines alarmed by his first illness refused to feed him after his regular dinner. Then Jiggs started making nocturnal tours of the barracks after he was believed to be asleep and scavenged from garbage. During one of these tours, it is believed, Jiggs may have eaten some soap powder or bad meat, which brought on the second attack of gastritis.

Jiggs was born in Philadelphia in 1919 and was enlisted in the marine corps in 1920. Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler, then commandant of the post at Quantico, gave him the rank of sergeant. Secretary of the Navy Denby promoted him to the rank of sergeant major, the highest a noncommissioned officer can hold, in 1924.

Jiggs was 8 years old and during his lifetime he has traveled more than 100,000 miles on land and water and in the air with the marine corps football and baseball teams. He held the distinction of having been presented at the White House during the Harding administration and the only dog ever to have entered Madison Square Garden through the front door.

The marines are planning to erect a monument over Jiggs' grave in the stadium where he helped their athletic teams to victory over all opponents.

When the Marine team played Catholic university this year an airplane flew over the football team and dropped what appeared to be Sergt. Jiggs with a parachute attached to his back.

Local humane societies raised a storm of protest and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur found that Jiggs had never been dropped from an airplane in his life and that the dog thrown from the plane during the football game was a plaster replica of him.

Jiggs has relatives in various parts of the country and the marines are contemplating raising a fund to buy one of them to take his place at Quantico.

Americans in Scheme To Electrify Poland

Warsaw, Poland, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—An agreement has been reached in principle between the Polish government and the representatives of a European and an American utilities corporation involving the outlay of nearly $25,000,000 on a great electrification scheme in Poland.

The machinery will be imported from the United States, and the American group is obtaining a long-term concession. Final signature of the agreement is expected soon.

American Is Beaten In Mexican Capital

Mexico City, Jan. 9 (By A. P.).—Joe Shelby, American citizen, school teacher and resident of Mexico City, was found unconscious today in a street in the outskirts of the capital. He told police that the chauffeur of a hired automobile in which he was riding threw him out of the rapidly moving car, possibly with the intention of robbing him.

Shelby was severely injured on the head.

Iron in Street Pins Man Fast in Auto

Chicago, Jan. 9 (By A. P.)—A piece of iron laying on the street today pierced the automobile in which Joseph Jaloway, 18, was riding, passed through his leg and held him prisoner for more than an hour while firemen worked with acetylene torches to free him. Later his leg was amputated. A girl sitting on his lap was unhurt.

CITIZENS TO LEARN RESULTS OF DRIVE FOR MEMBERSHIP

Five Associations Expected to Pass on School and Playground Bond Plan.

PINEY BRANCH TO VOTE ON NEW CONSTITUTION

Stanton Park to Hold Reception for Principal of Stuart Junior High.

Submitting final figures on the outcome of the drive for organized citizenship in the District, and passing on the proposal to issue bonds for school and playground purposes, five citizens' associations have provided full programs for their regular meetings scheduled tonight.

"Selling Washington to the Country" will be the subject of an address by Justin McGrath, local newspaper man, before the Piney Branch Citizens association, meeting at 8 o'clock in the Hamline M. E. church, Sixteenthh and Allison streets northwest. Mr. McGrath will tell the members that Washington has utterly failed in properly advertising itself to the nation.

A committee appointed at the December meeting to amend the association's constitution, bringing it up to date, will report, and action on the revision taken by the members. Representatives of the Boys Club of Washington will attend and present for the association's approval plans to take over an unoccupied church in the community, establishing a chapter of the club. The report of a special committee, named to conduct a study of the bond issue proposal, will be heard from Shelton T. Cameron, chairman. Approximately 400 new members were reported at the last meeting.

Stanton Park Meeting.

The Stanton Park association, meeting at 8 o'clock in the Peabody school, Fifth and C streets northeast, will hold a reception for Claus J. Schwartz, Eastern High school teacher, who has been appointed, by the board of education, principal of the new Stuart Junior High schol, Fifth and E streets northeast, which will open near February 1.

Charles Hart, principal of Eastern High school, will attend the meeting, as will principals and teachers from the Peabody, Hilton, Carbery, Ludlow and Edmonds schools. An appropriate program and entertainment has been arranged. Reports will be made on the membership drive, which is still actively in progress.

Selden M. Ely, supervising principal of the fifth division, a member of the North Capitol Citizens association, will address a meeting of the Edgewood Citizens association, at their meeting at 8 o'clock in the Lincoln Road M. E. church, Rhode Island avenue and Lincoln road northeast.

The association will consider adoption of the "white covenant," for the protection of property owners in the section, according to Martin A. Cook, vice president. The bond issue also will come up for consideration, he said.

Seeks Trolley Service.

An organization meeting, at which preliminary reports will be submitted by new committee chairmen, will be held by the Takoma Park Citizens association, meeting at 8 o'clock in the Takoma Park library.

The association again plans to recommend that the public utilities commission take action on renewal of the lease by the Capital Traction Co., on the street car line between Kennedy street and Takoma, on Third street. The lease expires in February. Extension to Takoma Park will be asked for the street car line now terminating at Colorado avenue. The proposed bond issue will be discussed.

J. L. Geibman, chairman of a special committee of the Congress Heights Citizens association, named to present to the commissioners the association's demands for improved car service on the Congress Heights line, will report at a meeting tonight of the Congress Heights association, at 8 o'clock, in the Congress Heights Baptist church, Esther street and Brothers place southeast.

Present service on the line is irregular, often necessitating long waits, Geibman has charged. In addition the association tonight will consider the bond issue proposal, and a plan calling for an increase in the number of commissioners.

Philips Lumber Case To Be UpWednesday

The civil phase of the Philips lumber case, which was to go on trial this morning before Justice Jennings Bailey in equity court, has been postponed until Wednesday. John L. Phillips, former Republican committeeman from Georgia and one of the principal defendants, has withdrawn his counter-claim against the Federal government.

This case deals with the sale of surplus war-time lumber. Philips, Stephens and several others were indicted on a charge of conspiracy to defraud, but were acquitted. The acquittal is now set up in the amended answer as a bar to the prosecution of the civil suit in which the government is seeking an accounting.

Ambassador Views German Scenic Film

A private display of motion pictures of scenic Germany was shown at the Carlton hotel, Sixteenth and K streets northwest, last night in honor of Baron Ago Maltzan, German Ambassador to this country.

The pictures were shown under the auspices of the bureau of commercial economics.

"Gardens of History" Theme of Lecture

Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston will deliver an illustrated lecture on "The Gardens of History" in Corcoran hall of George Washington university this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The lecture will be delivered under the auspices of the university.

An exhibit of photographs of classic villas of the Italian renaissance will be shown in connection with the lecture.

TODAY'S HAPPENINGS

Luncheon—Knights of Columbus, Lee house, 12:30 o'clock.

Meeting — The Writerscraft club, Mount Pleasant library, 8 o'clock.

Spanish Art Lecture.

An illustrated lecture on "Spanish Art" will be delivered by Will Hutchins, professor of fine arts in the American university, in the chapel of the Georgetown Presbyterian church, Thirty-first and P streets northwest tonight at 8 o'clock.

NORTHEAST SECTION IS DUE FOR BUILDING BOOM, OFFICIAL SAYS

Activity Will Rival Development in Northwest, Inspector Oehmann Declares.

SOUTHEAST CAPITAL ALSO TO BE AFFECTED

Another Anacostia River Bridge Is Forecast to Open New Areas.

Northeast Washington is due for a building boom similar to that which in the last few years has brought about the spread of the city northwestward beyond the District line.

This prediction was made yesterday by Col. John W. Oehmann, District building inspector, and was based on a careful study of building actitvities for the last several years and future plans of developing realtors as forecast in land acquisitions and plans for future building.

The Southeast section of the city also is to experience the greatest building boom in its history, exceeding in the importance of its effect on the section the first boom which saw development of Capitol Hill.

The Southeast boom, however, is not expected to come to a head until after the Northeast boom has carried land prices there upward to the point where the cheaper priced property in the Southeast becomes attractive to builders.

Growth Just Started.

Behind both of these predictions is the firm conviction of Col. Oehmann that the National Capital has just begun to grow. While there may be, as he expects, something of a lull in the erection of large and expensive office buildings, apartments, theaters, hotels and similar costly structures in the next year or two, this will be followed by a renewed building activity.

This decline will not extend to the construction of homes, he declared, forecasting continued and growing home building activity.

The development of the building booms in the eastern sections of the city is inevitable and will be forced by the natural and continued growth of the city. Old-time residents of Washington who have been surprised by the growth of the city in the last ten years hardly will be able to recognize the town at the end of the next decade, Col. Oehmann said.

Virtually Built Up.

Virtually all of the northwest section which is easily developed already has been built up, the sections remaining being properties which, because of hills or valleys and the consequent grading, make construction costs higher, he said.

There are large areas in both the northeast and the southeast sections which are available for building without expensive preparation of the ground.

Construction of another bridge across the Anacostia river, which traffic will force within a comparatively few years, will open large properties which now are not easily accessible and have not been built upon, Col. Oehmann said.

Nicaraguan to Tell Of Mexico Tonight

Col. Miguel F. Sequeria, leader of the unionist party of Central America and a native of Nicaragua, will deliver a lecture on "The Truth About Mexico," in St. Dominic's Parish hall, Sixth and F streets southwest, at 8 o'clock tonight. The lecture will be delivered under auspices of the Holy Name society of St. Dominic's church.

Col. Sequeria is touring the United States delivering lectures in the interest of the unionists' party, organized to effect a consolidation of the five separate states of Nicaragua, Honduras, Salvador, Costa Rica and Guatemala into the United States of Central America. Tonight he will discuss the present political situation in Nicaragua and its analogy with the Mexican situation.

History of Rifles Shown in Exhibit

A stand showing every type of rifle and carbine used by the army from 1795 up to and including the present time has been placed near the entrance of Secretary of War Davis' office in the State, War and Navy building.

Types exhibited range from the smooth bore musket, caliber .70, used from 1795 to 1842, and the "Hall" breech loader, caliber .54, from 1825 to 1840, to the latest United States rifle, caliber .30, model of 1903, now in use in the United States army and conceded to be the most accurate and best finished service rifle used by any army, and the 1917 model "Enfield," borne by a large majority of overseas troops in the world war.

Committees Named For Law Conference

Committees of the conference of Law Fraternities appointed by President Jarvis Butler, of Washington, at a meeting of the executive committee held Saturday night at the Powhatan hotel were announced yesterday by Everett Hicks, of New York, secretary. Several Washingtonians were included in the list.

Local lawyers appointed were Elwood H. Seal, Henry H. Benjamin, Carlyle S. Baer, Miss Ruth Tech, Miss Olive E. Geiger and Jonas M. Smith. Two former Washingtonians, Miss Adelaide Makens, of New York, and Ralph L. Knisley, of Elmhurst, Long Island, also appear on the list.

Man-Unconscious In Gas-Filled Room

Henry T. Garrison, 67 years old, police say, attempted to end his life by inhaling gas yesterday in his home, 652 F street northeast. He was treated at Casualty hospital by Dr. Joseph D. Rogers. It was said he will recover, although his condition is serious.

Police, called by Mrs. Garrison, found the man in bed unconscious, with a tube extending from an open gas jet at his nostrils. After being revived at the hospital, Garrison told police that he was tired of living.

Overweight Topic Of Dr. L. F. Kebler

Dr. Lyman F. Kebler will deliver a lecture on "Acidosis and Overweight" at the regular weekly meeting of the Watch-Your-Weight club at the Columbia Heights Community center, Eleventh and Harvard streets northwest, tonight at 8 o'clock.

Next Monday the subject of Dr. Kebler's lecture will be "Kidneys and Overweight."

1926 Bare of Weather Phenomena, Mitchell Says

Political, Scientific and Historical Events Marked Year, But Sun, Moon and Stars Kept Accustomed Paces, Official Report Shows.

Politically, the year that just has passed was brimfull of interesting, world-shaking events. Scientifically, it teemed with maryelous discoveries, new inventions, strange facts—historically, it proudly arraigned itself beside other epoch making years—but, atmospherically speaking, it was just 1926, "a year neither much hotter nor much colder than usual, and with nothing remarkable about it."

Thus, Dr. Charles L. Mitchell, chief forecaster of the United States Weather Bureau, disposed of the 365 days preceding January 1, 1927, as calmly as an experienced bridge or poker player disposes of his deck of cards. And Dr. Mitchell studied each day of the last year with as much care as any card-player ever devoted to the ace of spades. Each day was recorded by him and his assistants and placed in the files of the weather bureau for comparison with charts dating back as far as 1871.

Three outstanding facts alone, Dr. Mitchell gleamed from the dead year, after comparing it painstakingly with others follow: First—July 21, 1926, was the hottest July day on record; second—March, June and December were unusually cold; third—the period from March to June, inclusive, was extraordinarily dry. Aside from these statistics, the wind blew much the same as usual, snow fell (not very much), while the sun, moon and stars revolved in their accustomed orbits in the solar system. No atmospherical phenomena had been jotted down by weather bureau experts when the chiming bells announced the arrival of the new year.

Dr. Mitchell, however, was able to "point with pride" to July 21. On that day the thermometer soared to 104 degrees Fahrenheit, or 1 degree higher than the preceding record for the same month, which was reached July 18, 1887. The month of December was unusually cold, Dr. Mitchell declared, with the quicksilver hovering between 10 and 50 degrees above zero. March was distinguished with a low temperature of 17 degrees, and June with a low mark of 48 degrees. The highest temperature in March was 76 degrees, and in June, 91 degrees.

Thunder storms in November were dimissed by Dr. Michell with the reminder that, although comparatively rare, they are not uncommon and can not be characterized as "phenomena." The snowfall for 1926 was below normal, while the rainfall from March to June, inclusive, showed a marked lack of the average precipitation for these months.

Dr. Mitchell denied blizzards and snowstorms were any worse in the 80's and the 90's than today, disproving the popular fallacy with a letter from Thomas Jefferson in which the latter voiced the opinion that "snowstorms today are not as severe as formerly." Winters and summers are "about the same as ever," Dr. Mitchell said.

Max Rhoade Speaks To Avukah Society

Zionism seeks to establish Palestine as the center of Jewish life, where they can carry out their ideals and nationality, Max Rhoade, national president of the Avukah society, stated yesterday at a forum of the society at the Le Paradis, Fourteenth street and Thomas circle northwest.

Jews in free countries have a tendency to forget their people who have been struggling for 2,000 years in alien countries, where it is impossible to develop their personality. Zionism's object is to create a new and better social order, to seek the truth and to live according to the principles of justice. Mr. Rhoade stated, and one of the greatest manifestations of this is the return of the Jewish people to the soil, he added.

Osage Seers to Meet With Officials Here

The days when "Injuns was Injuns" and each head of hair was a scalp will be recalled in Washington this week when the high council of the Osage Nation of Oklahoma, composed of nine Osage seers, arrives for a series of conferences with the Secretary of the Interior and the commissioner of Indian affairs.

A delegation of full-blood Osage braves and their squaws will accompany the councilmen, adding a touch of color to the downtown throngs with which they mingle. The superintendent of the Osage agency and the tribal attorney will come with the party.

North Carolinians Meet Tonight.

The annual meeting of the North Carolina State society will be held at the Wilson Normal school, Eleventh and Harvard streets northwest, tonight at 8 o'clock. Officers will be elected.

HOUSE COMMITTEE TO RESUME DISTRICT HEARINGS TONIGHT

Work of Capital's Inquisitors Now Will Be More Searching.

EFFICIENCY REPORTS SOON, GIBSON STATES

Chairman Urges Authority to Subpena Witnesses and Get Expert Advice.

The House District investigating subcommittee is to resume its hearings tonight, with indications that it is about ready to strike out on its own.

Representative Gibson, chairman, has made use of the holidays to study the testimony taken in the periodical hearings which is mostly the statements of various local government officials on the workings of their respective offices and their needs together with statements by representatives of local civic organizations. It was the committee's desire to prepare this background from which it could work on its own.

This preliminary work virtually has been completed, and from now on the committee's work will be more inquisitorial.

Several bills already have been prepared by this committee or its predecessor. Four, in fact, were passed by the House Saturday. They related to the guardianship practice here. Another is pending on the House calendar designed to bring the system in the office of the recorder of deeds up to date.

Within the next few days Mr. Gibson expects to receive reports from the bureau of efficiency on several departments in the District building. Studies are now being made by the bureau of the offices of the tax assessor, the tax collector and other departments.

There is a resolution pending in the House to provide the committee with expert assistance and also the authority to subpena witnesses. Mr. Gibson feels that it has reached the stage where both are necessary, especially the former.

Before it quits, Mr. Gibson has made known that the committee will have made an exhaustive study of the local government and all matters bearing upon it. In addition to the corrective legislation which it may find necessary the hearings will constitute an exhaustive resume of local affairs which will prove beneficial to members of Congress for years to come.

He has estimated that to do the job completely will require several months, and to this end the life of the committee will have to be extended. Besides the continued hearings for the remainder of the session the committee is expected to meet periodically throughout the summer.

ST. STEPHEN'S CAST PLAYS "FULL HOUSE"

Farce Is to Be Given Again Tomorrow, Followed by Dancing.

St. Stephen's Players made their bow yesterday afternoon, presenting Fred Jackson's rollicking farce, "A Full House," in St. Stephen's auditorium, Twenty-fourth and K streets northwest. There will be performances tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock, each to be followed by dancing.

The St. Stephen's Players are directed by the Rev. Arthur W. Murray and Denis Conell. Those in the cast of "A Full House" are John F. McGinness, Rose Folliard, Marguerite T. McDonough, Elizabeth Cumberland, Regina Enright, H. Coffyn Leckey, John Haggerty, Paul Graves, Martin Gallagher, Patrick E. Leckey, James Horne, Frances Gramm, Helen Cleary and Helen Dougherty.

Those assisting Father Murphy in various capacities are Clara Cumberland, Dorothy McConnell, Louise Barrett, Alberta McConnell, Evelyn Herl, Charles Parrott, Eddie Nealyn, Harold Spillman, James McArdle, Julia M. Parrott, Ann McGinnis, Ina Parrott, Thomas Bromley, James Parrott, Al Murphy, Felix Murphy and Victor H. Schulz. Music is furnished by the orchestras of Justin McCarthy and Ralph Graves.

Retail Credit Men To Hear M. A. Leese

Martin A. Leese, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, will speak at the dinner meeting of the Associated Retail Credit Men of Washington tonight at the Raleigh hotel.

Guy M. Hulse, field secretary of the credit service exchange division of the national association, will talk on credit conditions throughout the country. An entertainment program has been arranged. David Sanger will preside.

PHEASANT SPECIMENS FOR NATIONAL MUSEUM

Rare Species Represented by Pair Sent From Tring English Collection.

A pair of Kuser's blood pheasants, representing one of three forms of this genus which the National museum had not heretofore possessed, has been received at the museum from the Tring museum in England, Dr. Alexander Wetmore, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian institution, announced yesterday.

These rare pheasants inhabit the timberline region of the high mountains of northern India and China, and the different forms are confined to separate ranges. Apparently, it is said, they are unable to cross hot valleys, so that closely related forms are found along parallel ranges. This isolation makes possible the development of distinct species.

The male birds have a great deal of green in the upper plumage, while the throats and under tail coverts are usually red. The females, as is often the case with game birds, are of a dull color. Dr. Wetmore declares that many more forms of these birds will probably be discovered when the mountains are more thoroughly explored. The specimens received will be of value in identifying mater.l from the high mountains of Asia, he said.

UNION MEN, MEETING IN WASHINGTON, ASK MODIFIED DRY LAW

WHEELER CITES CAUSE OF PROHIBITION SLIPS

La Guardia Resolution Seeks to Show Regulations Favor Pennsylvania.

(By the Associated Press.)

Modification of the Volstead law to permit manufacture and sale of wines and beer was urged yesterday by the executive board of the union label trades department of the Federation of Labor in closing its sessions here.

The board, which said it represented 700,000 organized workers, urged Congress to modify the prohibition act "in order that hypocrisy, corruption and crime would be replaced by a law which would encourage temperance, clean living and respect for all laws." Reports to the board, its statement said, showed that in all parts of the country "bootlegging, home brewing and illegal distilling of spirituous liquors were increasing at an alarming rate."

The statement bore the names of the board's president, J. W. Hays, secretary-treasurer of the International Typographical Union; its five vice presidents, Matthew Woll, Jacob Fischer, G. W. Perkins, Charles Baine and Joseph Obergfell, and the board's secretary-treasurer, John J. Manning.

Addressing the open forum of the Mount Pleasant Congregational church yesterday, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Antisaloon league, declared the cause of most of the "slips in prohibition" has been in "divided responsibility for enforcement, weakness of Federal laws compared to State dry laws, imperfect control of non-beverage liquor and political appointments of enforcement officers."

Says Prohibition Is Not Issue.

"These weak places are being strengthened," he said, adding:

"The issue today is not prohibition. That is idn the Constitution and even the brewers and their friends are making no headway in any effort to remove it. The real issue is whether wrong is more powerful than right, whether law shall be enforced, whether organized crime can force the nation to abandon a moral principle and whether the lawmakers or the lawbreakers shall rule America."

Seeking to show that application of the prohibition laws discriminates against New York and favors Pennsylvania, Representative La Guardia, (Rep.), New York, last night drafted for introduction today a resolution asking Secretary Mellon for information regarding fines against the Howell and King brewery in Luzerne county, Pennsylvania.

The resolution would determine whether fines assessed against the brewery for violations of the liquor laws have exceeded $269,000; what action has been taken to collect them and whether a compromise payment has been agreed on.

"The purpose of my resolution," La Guardia explained, "is to obtain from the Secretary admission of facts which will show that the methods employed in New York State for the enforcement of the prohibition law are not used in his own State of Pennsylvania."

C. J. Bell Treasurer Of Red Cross Drive

Charles J. Bell, president of the American Security & Trust Co., yesterday accepted the office of treasurer of the old Russia Red Cross relief campaign, it was announced by officials of the organization.

The campaign is being carried on by a group of local social workers for the Russian refugees in Bulgaria. A drive is now being instituted for medical supplies of all descriptions to be sent to Bulgaria. Contributions addressed to the treasurer are requested.

Man Is Captured Five Years After Slaying

Five years after he was indicted on the charge of slaying Mary Walker, colored, at 1151 Eighth street northwest, William ("Slim") Moore, colored, 45 years old, was captured yesterday in Monroe, La., by agents of the Department of Justice. He will be brought here by a United States marshal.

Moore is said to have fatally wounded the woman in an altercation November 10, 1921. Through efforts of Detectives Thomas Sweeney and Joseph Waldron, of the central office, he was traced to Louisiana. Two years ago, after being traced to Missouri, he escaped.
